FIREMEN SEARCH RUINS FOR CLUES

A fireplace and a few charred wall studs are all that remain recognizable in the Mill Valley home from which at least two persons fled a disastrous fire at 1:21 a.m. today. No one was injured. Men of three fire departments poke in the ruins of the once large and luxurious home at 240 Lovell Avenue, seeking to learn where and how the fire erupted. They are (from left) Tiburon Fire Marshall Ken Howie, Kentfield Fireman Dean Thompson and Asst. Fire Chief Henry Pierroz and fireman John Keane of the Mill Valley Department. Known to have been at home were Marguerite Peters and a live-in babysitter. The latter leaped uninjured from a second-story window to a hillside behind the house. Damage was estimated at $100,000 by firemen.

Development Of Fair Site Bone Of Budget Contention

Fair Officials And County Administrator At Odds

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Continued development of the Marin County Fair site at Civic Center again looms as a major point of contention in the proposed capital projects program for fiscal 1973-74.

As in years past, fair officials are urging rapid development of the site — $960,000 over the next two years — while the county administrator's office is recommending improvements over four years at about $250,000 a year.

The fair site recommendations, along with other capital improvement projects, are part of the annual capital projects program which will be reviewed Monday by the county planning commission and March 13 by the board of supervisors.

The document is part of budget preparations and dollar figures are only recommendations until the board of supervisors acts.

Besides general capital improvement proposals ($12 million worth over six years), the document contains a forecast of county road needs totaling $5.4 million over the same period of time.

Other Civic Center improvements proposed for next year in the document include more office space at the Hall of Justice, at $215,000; engineering studies for a parking building, at $25,000; Hall of Justice landscaping and irrigation system, at $126,000; and paving of an existing parking lot known as "the pit" near the administration building, at $50,000.

The $215,000 for office space at the Hall of Justice is expected to carry the county's office needs through 1976, when another $215,000 will be considered.

Despite severe parking shortages around the complex, the administrator is recommending the parking building be delayed at least another year until tne engineering studies are complete.

About $100,000 per year (for six years, at least) is recommended for the proposed Fairfax Regional Library, an increase of $20,000 per year over last year's recommendation.

The document says the new library can be financed either through a joint-power agreement with the City of Fairfax (enabling bonds to be floated without a vote of taxpayers) or through a loan from the county retirement fund.

"The possibility of a tax override and a bond election should also be considered," the administrator's office wrote.

The administrator also recommended $144,000 for replacement of radio equipment and a microwave station to insure radio contact with other areas in case of emergency. The microwave station would require another $161,000 in fiscal 1974-75.

In the parks and recreation section of the document, the administrator opposes any general fund expenditure for a Corte Madera bayfront park and suggested such a park be purchased by the new regional park district.

The parks and recreation department urged $100,000 be budgeted for a start on the Corte Madera park.

The department also requested $100,000 for development of visitor facilities around Bolinas Lagoon, such as viewing platforms, but the administrator recommended a delay.

Egyptian Assured By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Egyptian foreign affairs adviser Mohammad Hafez Ismail today that the United States is determined to push for peace in the Middle East.

"In this very troubled, explosive area of the world, our major goal is to move off dead center," Nixon told Ismail, national security adviser to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and here for a major round of talks with top U.S. officials.

Nixon said he recognized that "instant peace is a dream," but that "the great desire of our administration, especially in its second term," is to help to reduce tensions in the area on a permanent basis.

"That's why we are happy to talk to you. We don't know what will come out of it. We will have frank discussions," the President said.

Ismail, the highest Egyptian official to visit Washington since the United States and Egypt broke diplomatic relations over the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, presented Nixon with a large envelope containing a personal message from Sadat.

Ismail told Nixon that Sadat "sends his best regards to you and I bring the high appreciation of the Egyptian government and I am honored to be received in the White House."

The exchange between the two statesmen occurred at the end of a brief filming session with photographers and immediately prior to the beginning of substantive talks on peace prospects in the Middle East. The President had pledged earlier to give high priority in his second administration to the search for peace.

The President obviously made his remarks so that newsmen could hear them. He went on to explain that he was making these comments because it would be impossible to disclose later the substance of his talks with Ismail.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir is scheduled to arrive March 1 for similar talks with Nixon and other top administration officials.

"I had a very fine visit to your country many years ago —in 1963," Nixon told Ismail. "In fact, it was my only visit. I have always had a great affection for your people and your country."

The White House meeting was attended by Brig. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, deputy to presidential assistant Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, and Dr. Hafiz

$5 Million In Road Work Recommended In Forecast

A long-range forecast of road needs in Marin recommends some $5,465,000 worth of work over the next six years, $875,000 of it next fiscal year.

The recommendation is in this year's annual capital projects report, which will be reviewed Monday by the county planning commission and on March 13 by the board of supervisors.

The document also contains millions of dollars worth of parks and recreation proposals, among other things.

It was compiled by Michael A. Chrystal of the county administrator's office but includes separate dollar recommendations from other county departments when in disagreement with Chrystal.

For instance, the administrator's office recommends $875,000 worth of road work next year but the public works department proposes $1,045,000. Supervisors will decide.

Little, if any, local property tax revenue is used for county road construction. The projects are financed primarily through gas tax revenues.

The largest single road expenditure for next year, recommended by both public works and the administrator, is the realignment of Bon Air Road near Marin General Hospital.

The project is estimated to cost $340,000 and would fulfill the county's controversial contract with Marin General, which claims the present alignment is frustrating future expansion.

The controversy erupted during last year's county budget hearings when supervisors questioned whether hospital expansion would ever occur. (The hospital's master plan would require a $14 million bond issue.)

Other major expenditures proposed for next year include $100,000 for improvement of North San Pedro Road from Civic Center to Mabry Way in Santa Venetia.

The North San Pedro project, widening the existing two-lane roadway, will total $864,000 over the next four years. The public works department recommends it be completed in three years.

Two intersection projects also are recommended for other portions of North San Pedro. The first is at its intersection with La Pasada in Santa Venetia and the second at Merrydale Road in San Rafael Meadows.

The La Pasada project is for drainage improvements and totals $100,000 to be split with the Santa Venetia Flood Control District.

The Merrydale project proposes $50,000 worth of work to improve the flow of traffic through the intersection.

Some $80,000 is listed for landscaping of South San Pedro Road from Lochinvar Road to Riviera Drive in the Peacock Gap area. Half the sum would be paid by San Rafael under a joint road improvement project contract.

Eleven other projects, ranging in cost from $5,000 to $30,000, also are included in the document for next year.

Woman, 72, Is Critical From Blaze

An elderly woman was critically burned last night in her San Rafael apartment and rushed to the hospital in a police patrol car when no ambulance was immediately available.

Dorothy Hancock, 72, of 1345 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. C, suffered second and third degree burns over 25 per cent of her upper body, hospital authorities said today.

Six fire units rushed to the scene when the alarm sounded at 11:54 p.m. The apartment was in flames and Mrs. Hancock was lying on the ground outside when they arrived, police said.

Police learned that one United Ambulance was at a traffic accident at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue, another was at Marin General Hospital on another emergency and the third, en route to the scene, was as far away as Alto on the Tiburon Peninsula. To save precious time, police took the painfully burned woman to the hospital in a patrol car.

Firemen labored for nearly three hours to contain the blaze, which caused $10,000 to the structure and $4,000 to its contents. Damage was extensive to the kitchen and living room areas. Firemen said they were able to keep flames from spreading to other apartments. Cause of the fire is under investigation.

A neighbor, Emma Barbasiewicz, called the fire department after she said she heard Mrs. Hancock cry, "Oh, my God," and shortly after heard glass break and saw flames coming from a window.

Mrs. Barbasiewicz said she fled from the apartment house and saw Mrs. Hancock wandering back and forth in front of the building.

Phouma To Ask Resumed U.S. Air Strikes In Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Premier Souvanna Phouma claimed today Communist troops have launched a countrywide "general offensive" in violation of the day-old Laotian cease-fire and said he would ask the United States to resume its air strikes to stop the onslaught.

U.S. officials in the Mekong River town of Pakse, about 60 miles north of the Cambodian border, said progovernment mercenary forces were "taking a hell of a beating" from Communist Pathet Lao troops.

U.S. sources said the mercenary forces, unable to call in the U.S. air support that ended with the Wednesday midnight EST cease-fire, fell back under the Communist attack and said all contact was lost with two of its four battalions.

"We are taking a hell of a beating," said one U.S. official in Pakse. "There is a lot of backward movement and regrouping...the situation is deteriorating."

Souvanna told a news conference today: "I am certainly sure that the United States will respond positively to the request for resumption of the bombing. We cannot tolerate being trampled."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said he would not comment on the possibility of resumed U.S. air backing.

A Pathet Lao spokesman said the Communists were "sincerely" adhering to the ceasefire agreement but by late today, the government reported a total of 40 Communist truce violations throughout the country, 29 of them in the Fourth Military Region (MR4) around Pakse.

Total casualties in the region since the cease-fire went into effect were reported as 23 killed, 45 wounded and 65 miss-

Dollar Takes Another Beating As Gold Soars To $95 An Ounce

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold leaped to new highs today, touching $95 an ounce at one point in early trading in London. The dollar took a drubbing in Europe in early panicky trading, bringing hints of a new international monetary crisis.

But the dollar steadied after government banks intervened and bought up dollars to keep it at the price set by the recent 10 per cent devaluation.

"Something has to be done," one London currency dealer said when the dollar sank to its lowest point since devaluation. "We can't go on like this."

Gold skyrocketed to $95 per ounce early today on London's free market and went to new highs in Zurich, Rome and Hong Kong.

But at the London afternoon price fixing the gold price dropped for the first time in two weeks. It tumbled $4 from its morning official price of $89 per ounce, falling to an afternoon price of $85 an ounce. This was almost exactly double the official U.S. price of $42.22.

The dollar's plunge and gold's climb were directly related.

London dealers said speculators and international money managers simply did not trust the dollar over the weekend, when exchanges are closed and government decisions on currency rates usually come. They were switching instead into almost anything else —gold, silver, Swiss francs, marks, tin, copper even the once-weak British pound.

The dollar dropped 3.4 cents in London. In Frankfurt, Amsterdam, Brussels and Stockholm it hit the "floor", the price at which central banks start buying to keep the dollar price up.

A West German government spokesman said the central bank intervention was brief and

AN EXPERT'S VIEWS

By PAT ANGLE

Parents who abuse their children often fear they will eventually damage the youngsters irreparably and many are extremely relieved when their cruelties are found out, according to a woman who heads an East Bay program to assist battered children and their families.

Sharrell Blount of the Children's Trauma Center in Oakland offered that assessment last night in San Rafael to the state Social Welfare Board as she pleaded for wider recognition of the problem of the abused child and for an expanded program to help such children and their families.

The board, which was opening a two-day meeting at the Holiday Inn, was told by Mrs. Blount:

"One woman told me she actually got sick to her stomach each time she left a doctor's office after taking her injured child in for treatment.

"She was sick because the doctors had believed her story that the injuries were caused by dropping the child in the bathtub or by a fall from a bed; she needed help, but she wasn't getting it."

Mrs. Blount, coordinator of the trauma center at East Bay Children's Hospital, said it is the only abused child program in the state, operating out of a hospital.

The center's objectives are to identify cases of abuse, increase community awareness and understanding of the problem, provide treatment for both parents and children and develop new and more efficient means to treat "the abusive family."

She told the four members of the 11-member welfare board attending the meeting that since the center began operations eight months ago, it has identified and treated 11 cases of abuse.

"I think this shows the problem is much larger than we had previously suspected," Mrs. Blount said.

The coordinator and the program's only case worker, JoAnn Cook, said that in the past eight months they have learned a great deal about family patterns and personality traits which lead to child abuse.

They said parents most likely to harm their children are those whose own parents abused them — either physically or mentally.

"Often abusive parents come from homes where their parents were extremely critical of them" Miss Cook said. "As children, they tried and tried to get approval, but were never able to come up to their parents' high expectations."

The case worker went on to say that parents who injure their children are often individuals who feel completely isolated from other people. "They are unable to bring their prob-

"I think this shows the problem is much larger than we had previously suspected," Mrs. Blount said.

The coordinator and the program's only case worker, JoAnn Cook, said that in the past eight months they have learned a great deal about family patterns and personality traits which lead to child abuse.

They said parents most likely to harm their children are those whose own parents abused them — either physically or mentally.

"Often abusive parents come from homes where their parents were extremely critical of them" Miss Cook said. "As children, they tried and tried to get approval, but were never able to come up to their parents' high expectations."

The case worker went on to say that parents who injure their children are often individuals who feel completely isolated from other people. "They are unable to bring their prob-

DOWNED DOLL — A child's doll lay yesterday amid the charred wreckage of the Libyan airliner shot down Wednesday by Israeli planes over the Sinai Peninsula. Death toll in the downing of the Boeing 727 was 104 persons.

(UPI Telephoto)

Bodies From Downed Airliner Being Turned Over To Egypt

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel began turning over to Egypt today the bodies of 104 persons killed when U.S.-made Israeli jets shot down a Libyan civilian airliner in the Sinai desert.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman disclosed that an American was one of the victims aboard the plane and identified him as Wladyslaw Borysoglebski, who immigrated to the United States from Poland and became a naturalized citizen in oChicago in July, 1972.

There were no further details, but the spokesman said the next of kin were being asked if they wanted the body to be buried in Israel or shipped to the United States.

The Israeli military command said the operation, carried out under the flags of the Red Cross at a Suez Canal crossing point near the site of the disaster, began about one hour late.

Red, black and yellow boats of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority crossed the canal at Kantara, about 30 miles from where the Boeing 727 went down Wednesday, to pick up the bodies.

The bodies were placed in plain pine coffins and loaded onto the boats by Israeli soldiers for the 150-yard trip back across the canal to Egypt.

As the bodies were turned over to Egypt, the Arab world called for revenge and accused Israel of "cold-blooded murder" in the shooting, the first such case in aviation since Bulgaria shot down an Israeli airliner in 1955.

Seven persons survived the shooting and hospital officials reported four of them in critical condition.

Israeli authorities insisted their fighter pilots acted properly in shooting down the Boeing 727 and said the pilot deliberately ignored orders to land. A tape recording of the pilot's last conversation, played in Cairo, indicated he thought he was flying over Egyptian territory.

One of Prime Minister Golda Meir's closest aides called the shooting a tragedy that stunned Israel. A Tel Aviv newspaper said the shooting meant the United States will delay an immediate approval of Israel's request for more F4 Phantom jets.

Military officials said Thursday it was Phantoms that shot down the airliner 12 miles east of the Suez Canal after trying unsuccessfully to make it land.

Among the Arab world reactions was an announcement by moderate King Hassan II of Morocco that he will send troops to Syria to join the battle against Israel for the first time.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram called on Arab guerrillas to strike Israeli targets around the world in revenge and Arab leaders said they were horrified and outraged by what some of them called "cold blooded murder."

But Israel's minister without portfolio, Israel Galili, said the shooting was the "horrible outcome" of the state of war existing in the Middle East.

"If there is a human lesson to be drawn from this tragedy," Galili said, "it is that there is a need to call off the state of war that creates a background for such tragedies."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said there was no need for a domestic inquiry into the shooting, but said Israel would help international authorities who want to investigate it.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Tainted Foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fruits and vegetables may be contaminated with such things as worms, insects, rust or paint chips because two federal agencies aren't working together to look out for the consumer, a government report said today.

The disclosure was made by the General Accounting Office in examining the Agriculture Department's Agriculture Marketing Service.

The GAO said the Food and Drug Administration is responsible for making sure contaminated foods other than meat, poultry and eggs do not move in interstate commerce; but the Agricultural Marketing Service, when it inspects physical facilities in plants in which it grades fruit and vegetables, does not tell the FDA about potentially adulterated food it uncovers, the report said.

Estate Safe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Washington's "River Front Farm," once part of his Mount Vernon estate, is safe from the Russians and any other entanglements, foreign or not.

The American Horticultural Society, aided by a $1 million gift from a retired magazine editor, was to complete the purchase of the 25-acre estate near Washington today.

Mrs. Enid A. Haupt, retired editor, says she gave the money for purchasing the estate after she became concerned that the public might not have access to it.

Restroom Spying Hit By Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court ruled Thursday that policemen cannot hide in public restrooms to watch patrons unless they have probable cause a crime is being committed there.

The court held that such spying was illegal exploratory search and violated the constitutional rights of privacy.

The court overturned the conviction of a man arrested by a detective in a restroom at a Los Angeles public park after the officer peered through an air vent and witnessed an illegal sex act between two men.

House Is Ready

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert said yester-day that the House has been reformed and it is now time to start passing bills and settling accounts with President Nixon.

Albert told newsmen House Democrats had completed the "final organization of our caucus and we can now push ahead with committee work on legislation."

The Oklahoma Democrat's colleagues had just approved the last two proposals to "democratize" the party caucus—a move that in effect gives more junior members a bigger piece of the legislative action.

Death Penalty

ATLANTA (UPI) — Gov. Jimmy Carter said yesterday he probably will sign into law a bill restoring capital punishment in Georgia, even though he thinks it is unconstitutional.

Carter's statement came shortly after the Senate voted 47-7 for the bill, which already has passed the House. Its effective date would be Jan. 1, 1974, if signed by Carter.

Woman Beaten

BELFAST (UPI) — A group of men lashed a screaming woman to a lamp post in a Protestant area of Belfast early today and savagely beat her as area residents watched silently from their windows.

Police said the woman, identified only as "young," was left hanging on the lamp post for more than an hour in freezing weather before anyone came to her aid. Her screams, police said, were heard several blocks away.

By the time police found her, the woman was reported in deep shock and unable to say anything about the attack. She was taken to a hospital for treatment.

Ship Disaster

RANGOON (UPI) — Officials said today that more than 280 persons are missing and feared dead after the collision Wednesday of a Burmese ferry and a Japanese freighter. Officials said it was the worst such disaster in Burmese history.

Second U.S. Peacetime Viet Fatality Reported

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command today reported the second American peacetime fatality in Vietnam—the flight engineer of an unarmed helicopter shot down near An Loc a week ago. He died today at a hospital in Okinawa.

He was identified as Spec 5 James L. Scroggins of RFD 2, Mulberry Grove, Ill.

A command spokesman said Scroggins was taken to Okinawa for treatment of severe burns suffered when his CH47 Chinook helicopter, carrying four other Americans, was shot down Feb. 16 six miles south of An Loc.

The chopper, on a supply mission for the peace-keeping Joint Military Commission (JMC), was on loan to the JMC and was not painted with the commission's distinguishing orange zebra stripes. Disputes within peace-keeping forces today were still delaying an investigation of the incident.

Three other crewmen of the downed helicopter were taken to the United States for medical treatment and the pilot remained under medical care at the U.S. Army hospital in Saigon.

Scroggins was the second American killed in hostile action since the Vietnam cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28. A helicopter pilot died two days after the truce when his aircraft was fired on. Eight other Americans have been wounded, all of them aboard helicopters hit by ground fire, but the CH47 was the only one of the four choppers actually shot down.

Procedural disputes among the four members of the JMC again today delayed investigations into the Chinook downing and another incident involving violations of the cease-fire.

The disputes were the latest in a series of procedural wrangles bedeviling the four-party Joint Military Commission, composed of U.S., Viet Cong and North and South Vietnamese officers, since its first meeting more than three weeks ago.

In continuing post-truce fighting, Saigon reported 148 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at noon today, 20 more than the figure Thursday.

Warring Factions In Cambodia List Heavy Outpost Casualties

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources reported heavy casualties on both sides Thursday in a new series of attacks by Communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas against three outposts south of Phnom Penh.

In reports of fighting in what is the last official war in Southeast Asia, western military sources said about 2,000 Communists fighting along Highways 2 and 3 are the same guerrillas who cut Highway 1 linking Phnom Penh and Saigon earlier this month.

The Khmer Rouge battalions abandoned their positions along Highway 1 shortly afterward and moved west toward Highway 2, the sources said, but 250 Khmer Rouge were left well dug in along Highway 1 and fought off Cambodian troops until late Thursday when they abandoned their positions.

Military sources said losses were high on both the government and Communist sides but gave no casualty figures.

At Siem Reap, 12 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 2, wounded soldiers and villagers took refuge in bunkers when Khmer Rouge heavy artillery bombardments there shattered the market center.

Cambodian troops later found seven families of sick and frightened villagers hiding in trenches along each side of the road. Spokesmen quoted an old man found in a bomb crater as saying thousands of villagers from the area were taken prisoner by the Communists as they withdrew to the west.

It was in this area earlier that the U.S. Air Force refused to send in planes for low level raids along Highway 1 for fear of civilian casualties. American authorities relented and carried out fighter-bomber strikes after Cambodian commanders described the situation there as 'desperate."

POW Begins His Belated Trip Home

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Air Force Capt. Joseph Crecca, a former prisoner of war struck down by malaria after his release by North Vietnam, flew to the United States today for a belated reunion with his family.

"Let's all pull together," said Crecca, 32, of Bloomfield, N.J., as he left for home. "Thank you, Mr. Nixon."

Crecca looked pale as he boarded a C141 Starlifter ambulance plane unaided for the long flight to March AFB, Riverside, Calif.

Crecca's F4C Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down over North Vietnam on Nov. 22, 1966.and he was freed in Hanoi last Sunday along with 19 other American POWs. He was scheduled to fly home last Tuesday when he developed a high fever. Doctors said he was suffering from malaria and ordered him to bed at Clark Air Base hospital.

He gave her a necklace with a blue stone and the crowd clapped and waved.

"First of all," Crecca said, "you'll never know how much all of us appreciated all the things that you have done and still are doing for us. Probably the biggest thing was the support that you gave us while we were still in Vietnam. I extend these thanks to all Americans, at home and abroad.

"Also I would like to extend my thanks to those people here at Clark, to everyone here at Clark, for bringing me out of North Vietnam and taking such good care of me since that time. I know that your thoughts, like mine, will be with those men who have yet to follow. Let's all pull together, and thank you, Mr. Nixon."

The Air Force captain appeared in good health when he arrived from Hanoi and set an eating record for returnees, downing six steaks and four eggs, at lunch last Monday.

Crecca "is very much improved," a hospital bulletin said earlier today.

Jews Still Find Bias In Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Discrimination against Jews "is far from a thing of the past in Florida," the state Commission on Human Relations said Thursday.

The commission said in a report that bias against Jews is not open and flagrant, but is clothed in subterfuge and emerges as an "invisible" ogre.

"Discrimination in employment and housing against Florida's estimated 256,000 Jewish citizens is a reality, in no way mitigated by the fact that it is a virtually invisible phenomenon " the report said.

Warring Factions In Cambodia List Heavy Outpost Casualties

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources reported heavy casualties on both sides Thursday in a new series of attacks by Communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas against three outposts south of Phnom Penh.

In reports of fighting in what is the last official war in Southeast Asia, western military sources said about 2,000 Communists fighting along Highways 2 and 3 are the same guerrillas who cut Highway 1 linking Phnom Penh and Saigon earlier this month.

The Khmer Rouge battalions abandoned their positions along Highway 1 shortly afterward and moved west toward Highway 2, the sources said, but 250 Khmer Rouge were left well dug in along Highway 1 and fought off Cambodian troops until late Thursday when they abandoned their positions.

Military sources said losses were high on both the government and Communist sides but gave no casualty figures.

At Siem Reap, 12 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 2, wounded soldiers and villagers took refuge in bunkers when Khmer Rouge heavy artillery bombardments there shattered the market center.

Cambodian troops later found seven families of sick and frightened villagers hiding in trenches along each side of the road. Spokesmen quoted an old man found in a bomb crater as saying thousands of villagers from the area were taken prisoner by the Communists as they withdrew to the west.

It was in this area earlier that the U.S. Air Force refused to send in planes for low level raids along Highway 1 for fear of civilian casualties. American authorities relented and carried out fighter-bomber strikes after Cambodian commanders described the situation there as 'desperate."

POW Begins His Belated Trip Home

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Air Force Capt. Joseph Crecca, a former prisoner of war struck down by malaria after his release by North Vietnam, flew to the United States today for a belated reunion with his family.

"Let's all pull together," said Crecca, 32, of Bloomfield, N.J., as he left for home. "Thank you, Mr. Nixon."

Crecca looked pale as he boarded a C141 Starlifter ambulance plane unaided for the long flight to March AFB, Riverside, Calif.

Crecca's F4C Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down over North Vietnam on Nov. 22, 1966.and he was freed in Hanoi last Sunday along with 19 other American POWs. He was scheduled to fly home last Tuesday when he developed a high fever. Doctors said he was suffering from malaria and ordered him to bed at Clark Air Base hospital.

About 50 persons turned out to say goodbye to Crecca just before he boarded the plane.

Crecca emerged from his blue ambulance and walked over to 12-year-old Cheryl Bryant, a student in pigtails and hot pants who kissed him and presented him with a gingerbread cake, a drawing of a cat and a cassette recording tape.

He gave her a necklace with a blue stone and the crowd clapped and waved.

"First of all," Crecca said, "you'll never know how much all of us appreciated all the things that you have done and still are doing for us. Probably the biggest thing was the support that you gave us while we were still in Vietnam. I extend these thanks to all Americans, at home and abroad.

"Also I would like to extend my thanks to those people here at Clark, to everyone here at Clark, for bringing me out of North Vietnam and taking such good care of me since that time. I know that your thoughts, like mine, will be with those men who have yet to follow. Let's all pull together, and thank you, Mr. Nixon."

The Air Force captain appeared in good health when he arrived from Hanoi and set an eating record for returnees, downing six steaks and four eggs, at lunch last Monday.

Crecca "is very much improved," a hospital bulletin said earlier today.

ABUSE

lems to anyone because they feel they can't expect much in the way of help or sympathy from anyone. Often they don't have any real friends," she said.

The women told the board that child abuse occurs most frequently in smaller families. Of the cases treated at the center, 50 involved families with a single child, 46 were from homes wtih two youngsters and 23 from families with three children. Only a handful came from larger families.

"The 'special child' — usually under 3 years old — may reminda parent of his spouse or himself," she said.

Or the youngster may be physically or mentally handicapped or perhaps caused large hospital bills at his or her birth. The youngster singled out for punishment may even be "too bright, the kind of child who keeps his parents stepping."

Any kind of family crisis — from a move to a strange community to a broken washing machine — may trigger abuse, but Miss Cook said the most frequent cause is conflict between the parents.

Once abuse takes place, it is often very difficult to break the pattern. "A parent who abuses a child breaks a very powerful taboo. Once it has been broken, it's much easier to break again and again."

Strangely enough, abusive parents are often those who have the strongest need to be good parents.

"When a child can't hold a bottle by himself at three months, the parent may feel he or she has failed as a parent and this can cause anger and hostility," Mrs. Blount said.

"Parents who grow up in bad families often have a real need for parenthood and the feeling that a child of their own will be a very gratifying object and that they will live happily ever after," according to Miss Cook.

The case worker said abusive parents frequently expect their child to respond to their own needs —a kind of role reversal. "They may expect a toddler to pick up on their moods, comfort them and even help around the house. They want the child to respond in a way a child just can't do."

Many youngsters try very hard to give their parents what they want and some succeed in a pathetic way. The women told of the badly beaten little boy who saw his mother, who had hurt him, crying in the hospital, went up to her and patted her face gently, trying to comfort her in some way.

The children's trauma center begins treatment of abusive parents by attempting to break down their isolation and by giving them someone to share their problems with. Encounter groups have proved effective in many cases, the women told the state board.

The center also works closely with police and probation agencies and often makes recommendations to the juvenile court judge as to whether a child should be placed temporarily outside the home.

Miss Cook said the center staff hopes eventually to set up a day care center for abused children. It would be a place where the parents could receive treatment and where the children could stay during critical or dangerous periods when they are most likely to be harmed.

In addition, the women would like to see prenatal programs and identify and help abusive individuals before they have children.

They also told the state board they would like to take from the courts the decision whether a child should be removed from the home. They want that decided by special committees in each county.

The committees should include case workers, physicians, probation officers and psychologists who could assist in making that decision. The committees could also help to identify cases of child abuse so that treatment will be possible.

Chinn Sworn In As Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The swearing in of George Y. Chinn to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors has brought history full circle, according to the judge who performed the ceremony.

Chinn Wednesday became the first person of Chinese ancestry ever on the board and Judge Harry Low noted that it was the board that adopted "some of the most vicious, infamous anti-Chinese legislation of the 19th Century.

"This is a historical breakthrough for our community," said the judge.

Couple Is Found Slain In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A wealthy health spa chain manager and his wife were found shot to death Thursday in the living room of their six-room penthouse apartment located near O'Hare International Airport.

Police said Quinton Collins, 25, manager of Palm Springs Health Spas Inc., and his wife, Rina, 36, had been shot in the head and were apparently made to kneel before they were killed.

The bodies were discovered by a business associate of Collins who stopped by the apartment to drive the couple to the airport.

LAOS

Other Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) troops recruited in Thailand who struck out along Highway 23 leading to Paksong reported coming under attack from Communist troops and shellfire throughout Thursday night and today.

Souvanna said the Communists had launched "a general offensive" in violation of the cease-fire, but the bulk of the fighting appeared to be going on in MR4. American officials in Takse said their instructions so far were that there would be no more U.S. air support after the cease-fire.

Souvanna also pledged that Laotian forces—with U.S. air support—would take back positions he said his forces lost after the cease-fire came into effect.

"The resumption of the U.S. bombing (would be) the result of the other side's provocations," Souvanna said. "Since the cease-fire agreement went into effect...there have been 29 recorded violations throughout the kingdom. About 90 per cent of the violations have been committed by foreign troops."

Earlier, the Pathet Lao Radio also ordered its forces to "simultaneously and completely" observe the cease-fire. But Souvanna said the Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese took advantage of the bombing halt to launch all-out attacks against government positions "throughout the kingdom," particularly in the 4th Military Region in southern Laos.

Government forces, officials said, were forced to pull back Thursday at Pak Song, 200 miles southeast of Vientiane, four hours after the peace pact became effective.

"We were deceived by the other side because we believed their representative's signatures," Souvanna said. "We cannot tolerate being trampled. If the other side does not keep their word, we shall not also keep our word.

"If the other side stops its offensive against us," Souvanna said, "we shall also restrain on our part. And what we want now is sincerity in implementing the cease-fire agreement."

Souvanna said he would protest to the International Control Commission (ICC) that still considers Laos violations despite formation of another peacekeeping body in Vietnam.

Souvanna said he would nevertheless meet Saturday with Pathet Lao negotiator Phoumi Vongvichit to discuss the alleged violations and consider way of ending such incidents.

The Orange Squeeze Champ

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) — A retired machinist has claimed a world record after squeezing a quart of juice from abumut two dozen oranges in two minutes even.

"I never squoze oranges before in my life, except maybe one or two for breakfast," said Herb Risley, 70, of nearby Holiday, who won a $25 savings account.

None of the 170 other contestants in the "Citrus Squeeze-off," sponsored by a New Port Richey bank, disputed Risley's claim to a record. And the Guiness Book of World Records doesn't list such a category.

Luncheon Meeting Planning Faulty

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UPI) — Officials of the city of Grants Pass and of Josephine County discussed cooperation between governmental units over lunch here Thursday.

The meeting got under way late because the city had reserved a banquet room at one restaurant while county officials had reserved space at another.

DOLLAR

small scale —it bought less than $10 million, compared with the $6 billion it bought in the crisis before dollar devaluation two weeks ago.

As the banks moved in the dollar steadied in every European market, and even recovered somewhat. In London it regained more than 2 cents of the 3.4-cent drop. But at midday it took $2.484 to buy a pound, a penny more than Thursday night and the lowest dollar level since devaluation.

The biggest dollar plunge was in West Germany where it opened at 2.89 and quickly sagged below its 2.835 floor price. The Bundesbank bought up $10 million and propped up the dollar at 2.84 marks to the dollar. One German bank said,"We're back with speculation. Many believe the mark will have to be revalued upwards."

In Paris the franc went lower, with both commercial and financial dollars traded at 4.5000, down respectively from 4.6240 and 4.4950.

"Markets are totally haywire. We don't know where the dollar is going," a French banking official said.

The dollar sank in London too. In early trading it took $2.4925 to buy one pound sterling —the highest figure since the dollar was devalued. In Zurich where the Central Bank has refused to intervene to support the dollar, the dollar dived to 3.11-3.13. In Amsterdam it fell from 3.1715 to 2.8550.

Sterling was 3 ½ cents higher than Thursday's close of $2.4610. But it dropped back to $2.48 after news of intervention for the dollar in European markets.

In Tokyo, the dollar improved slightly against the floating yen in light trading and closed at 265.55, up .55 from Thursday's closing.

Dealers used words like "frantic" or "hectic" to describe the new gold rush. One said orders were rushing in from all over the world, and that the demand was "heavy." Gold closed Thursday night at about $87 an ounce. Before devaluation it was about $69 an ounce.

Early trading today pushed it to ranges between $93 and $95. The official fixing put the price at $89 an ounce, up $2.50 on the second of the day's two fixings Thursday. Gold was at an all time high on the Hong Kong market but the price there was reported as $77.25 an ounce.

Gold prices normally move in pennies or fractions of a cent. This week the price has leaped about $15.60 an ounce and London dealers said orders were flooding in from all over the world in the new gold crisis that almost overshadowed the paper money crisis.

Silver made a comparable leap on the London metal markets. Silver touched 99 British pence per troy ounce during Thursday's trading, up more than 7 pence (16 cents) during the day. Dealers said early trading today was "very heavy."

Looking For An Elephant?

INDEPENDENCE, Kan. (AP) — A 20-year-old elephant at Mitchell Zoo is fo sale for $500 because "she has spells." City athers estimate it will cost $4,-500 to replace her with a baby pachyderm.

Assistant zookeeper Ed Kline explained that Suzie doesn't like the peacocks that share her confinement area. "She'll chase them right up the tree. Doesn't want anything to do with them."

Also, Suzie has pelted several persons with dirt and has thrown rocks through two automobile windshields.

College Ordered To Admit Youth

A Marin Superior Court judge has ordered the College of Marin to admit a 19-year-old youth whose parents do not live in Marin.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled Wednesday that the college cannot bar John James Meredith.

The Marin Community College District board, which runs the Kentfield campus, has maintained a policy of excluding students under 21 whose parents live outside the county until those students obtain court orders.

Chamber Speaker

Alfred Burns, Mill Valley developer who plans to build a shopping center on the Pinheiro ranch property north of Novato, will speak at a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce at noon Wednesday at Nave Lanes.

Details Remain In News Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Details will have to be worked out before the United States and China exchange journalists, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger reported.

President Nixon's negotiator discussed the subject at a new conference Thursday. He was asked if his trip to Peking this month made progress toward an agreement to open permanent news bureaus in the United States and China.

"I think there is some understanding in principle with respect to that, the details of which have to be worked out," Kissinger said.

Freeway Sniper Search Is Made

OAKLAND (UPI) — Police are looking for a sniper who stood on a freeway ramp and squeezed off two rifle shots at a California Highway Patrol office here.

Officer Terry Eilers, 25, said he fired two shots at the assailant Thursday as he fled in a pickup truck. The patrolman said he thought he wounded the man.

The officer said he left the building after hearing two thuds on the roof. A later investigation showed rocks had been thrown onto the building. As Eilers emerged, a shot hit the parking lot tarmac about a yard from him.

10 Ships Leave Haiphong Harbor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten of 26 communist ships trapped in Haiphong harbor since the mining of North Vietnamese ports last May have left the harbor after the United States provided charts of the mine field, the Pentagon has announced.

"In our view, the map of the mine field was not enough in itself to guarantee safe passage," Pentagon press spokesman Jerry Friedheim said Wednesday. "Apparently, one of the ship captains decided it was worth the risk and the others followed after the first ship got safely through."

All Prisoners Offered Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today that all returning American prisoners of war have been offered civilian jobs if they want to leave the military service.

The President did not elaborate on the situation except to say he was "really gratified" to know about the job offers and to remind prospective employers that 2.5 million other men served in Vietnam and "they also need jobs."

Nixon made the remarks at a White House meeting with James Oates, chairman of Jobs for Veterans Inc., and Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan.

Pumping Station Blast Kills Four

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A gas pumping station east of this capital city blew up and burned "like Dante's Inferno" early today, killing four persons and injuring at least six others.

None of the dead was identified and first reports indicated four or five other persons might be missing.

Curtis Obtains Child Custody

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tony Curtis Wednesday obtained custody of his 16-year-old daughter, Kelly Lee, and now has four—soon to be five— children in his home.

Curtis obtained custody of Kelly Lee with the consent of actress Janet Leigh, the girl's mother and Curtis' first wife. Last November Curtis obtained custody of his two daughters—Allegra, 6, and Alexandria, 8—by his second wife, German actress Christine Kaufmann. He is currently married to Leslie Allen, mother of his son, Nichols, 2. She is expecting another child in May.

Off Ramp Crash Injures Cyclist

A San Anselmo man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple facial cuts received in a motorcycle accident yesterday on the Irwin Street off ramp in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said Richard W. Wickerson, 30, of 6 Bank Street, was hurt about 11:15 p.m. when he attempted to leave Highway 101 at the exit. Officers said the vehicle failed to negotiate the curve, struck a curb and ran off the road.

NIXON

Ghanem, an Egyptian government official.

Ismail went to lunch with Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the State Department afterward and was to confer in the afternoon with top State Department officials.

Nixon met earlier with Rogers for more than an hour to give him final instructions for U.S. participation in the 12-nation conference starting Monday in Paris to guarantee the Jan. 27 Vietnam peace settlement.

The fact that Nixon's meeting with Ismail was not canceled in the furor over Israel's shooting down of a Libyan 727 commercial airliner with a loss of more than 100 lives led some observers to conclude that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat may strongly want to explore Middle East peace prospects.

The United States moved quickly to try to save the situation, with Nixon sending condolences to Sadat and to the Libyan government and with Rogers phoning Ismail in London to urge that the talks go on.

U.S. sources said Nixon's Middle East initiative was basically unshaken. One high U.S. source commented that a kev factor in the Middle East picture has improved over the years. The Soviet Union, this official believes, now is working to try to stabilize the Middle East. For many years the United States considered the Russians were trying to egg on former Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser and inflame the area to their own ends.

Ismail recently met with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, who is to meet with President Nixon later this year. Nixon has recently talked with Jordan's King Hussein and meets next Thursday with Israel's Prime Minister, Golda Meir.

Rogers' Paris talks with the Chinese official will take up $250 million in private U.S. claims against China and $78 million in blocked Chinese assets in the United States.

Non-Resident Fees For Colleges Hit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) of Ohio Thursday urged the Supreme Court to stop state-supported universities from charging new residents higher tuition fees than established residents.

The ACLU "friend of the court" brief, filed with a case from Connecticut, contended the higher tuition contradicts "the right to travel, the right to an education and due process of law at the administrative level."

His Retirement Far From Quiet

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — When former Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag retired last October after 25 years in the front line of Danish politics, he told friends: "I want to paint, write and live a quiet life."

So what happened? He has been signed up as a commentator by a Copenhagen newspaper, is a full-time member of parliament and lectures at the Danish School for Journalists.

lems to anyone because they feel they can't expect much in the way of help or sympathy from anyone. Often they don't have any real friends," she said.

The women told the board that child abuse occurs most frequently in smaller families. Of the cases treated at the center, 50 involved families with a single child, 46 were from homes wtih two youngsters and 23 from families with three children. Only a handful came from larger families.

"The 'special child' — usually under 3 years old — may reminda parent of his spouse or himself," she said.

Or the youngster may be physically or mentally handicapped or perhaps caused large hospital bills at his or her birth. The youngster singled out for punishment may even be "too bright, the kind of child who keeps his parents stepping."

Any kind of family crisis — from a move to a strange community to a broken washing machine — may trigger abuse, but Miss Cook said the most frequent cause is conflict between the parents.

Once abuse takes place, it is often very difficult to break the pattern. "A parent who abuses a child breaks a very powerful taboo. Once it has been broken, it's much easier to break again and again."

Strangely enough, abusive parents are often those who have the strongest need to be good parents.

"When a child can't hold a bottle by himself at three months, the parent may feel he or she has failed as a parent and this can cause anger and hostility," Mrs. Blount said.

"Parents who grow up in bad families often have a real need for parenthood and the feeling that a child of their own will be a very gratifying object and that they will live happily ever after," according to Miss Cook.

The case worker said abusive parents frequently expect their child to respond to their own needs —a kind of role reversal. "They may expect a toddler to pick up on their moods, comfort them and even help around the house. They want the child to respond in a way a child just can't do."

Many youngsters try very hard to give their parents what they want and some succeed in a pathetic way. The women told of the badly beaten little boy who saw his mother, who had hurt him, crying in the hospital, went up to her and patted her face gently, trying to comfort her in some way.

The children's trauma center begins treatment of abusive parents by attempting to break down their isolation and by giving them someone to share their problems with. Encounter groups have proved effective in many cases, the women told the state board.

The center also works closely with police and probation agencies and often makes recommendations to the juvenile court judge as to whether a child should be placed temporarily outside the home.

Miss Cook said the center staff hopes eventually to set up a day care center for abused children. It would be a place where the parents could receive treatment and where the children could stay during critical or dangerous periods when they are most likely to be harmed.

In addition, the women would like to see prenatal programs and identify and help abusive individuals before they have children.

They also told the state board they would like to take from the courts the decision whether a child should be removed from the home. They want that decided by special committees in each county.

The committees should include case workers, physicians, probation officers and psychologists who could assist in making that decision. The committees could also help to identify cases of child abuse so that treatment will be possible.

Chinn Sworn In As Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The swearing in of George Y. Chinn to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors has brought history full circle, according to the judge who performed the ceremony.

Chinn Wednesday became the first person of Chinese ancestry ever on the board and Judge Harry Low noted that it was the board that adopted "some of the most vicious, infamous anti-Chinese legislation of the 19th Century.

"This is a historical breakthrough for our community," said the judge.

Couple Is Found Slain In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A wealthy health spa chain manager and his wife were found shot to death Thursday in the living room of their six-room penthouse apartment located near O'Hare International Airport.

Police said Quinton Collins, 25, manager of Palm Springs Health Spas Inc., and his wife, Rina, 36, had been shot in the head and were apparently made to kneel before they were killed.

The bodies were discovered by a business associate of Collins who stopped by the apartment to drive the couple to the airport.

LAOS

ing.

Other Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) troops recruited in Thailand who struck out along Highway 23 leading to Paksong reported coming under attack from Communist troops and shellfire throughout Thursday night and today.

Souvanna said the Communists had launched "a general offensive" in violation of the cease-fire, but the bulk of the fighting appeared to be going on in MR4. American officials in Takse said their instructions so far were that there would be no more U.S. air support after the cease-fire.

Souvanna also pledged that Laotian forces—with U.S. air support—would take back positions he said his forces lost after the cease-fire came into effect.

"The resumption of the U.S. bombing (would be) the result of the other side's provocations," Souvanna said. "Since the cease-fire agreement went into effect...there have been 29 recorded violations throughout the kingdom. About 90 per cent of the violations have been committed by foreign troops."

Earlier, the Pathet Lao Radio also ordered its forces to "simultaneously and completely" observe the cease-fire. But Souvanna said the Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese took advantage of the bombing halt to launch all-out attacks against government positions "throughout the kingdom," particularly in the 4th Military Region in southern Laos.

Government forces, officials said, were forced to pull back Thursday at Pak Song, 200 miles southeast of Vientiane, four hours after the peace pact became effective.

"We were deceived by the other side because we believed their representative's signatures," Souvanna said. "We cannot tolerate being trampled. If the other side does not keep their word, we shall not also keep our word.

"If the other side stops its offensive against us," Souvanna said, "we shall also restrain on our part. And what we want now is sincerity in implementing the cease-fire agreement."

Souvanna said he would protest to the International Control Commission (ICC) that still considers Laos violations despite formation of another peacekeeping body in Vietnam.

Souvanna said he would nevertheless meet Saturday with Pathet Lao negotiator Phoumi Vongvichit to discuss the alleged violations and consider way of ending such incidents.

The Orange Squeeze Champ

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) — A retired machinist has claimed a world record after squeezing a quart of juice from abumut two dozen oranges in two minutes even.

"I never squoze oranges before in my life, except maybe one or two for breakfast," said Herb Risley, 70, of nearby Holiday, who won a $25 savings account.

None of the 170 other contestants in the "Citrus Squeeze-off," sponsored by a New Port Richey bank, disputed Risley's claim to a record. And the Guiness Book of World Records doesn't list such a category.

DOLLAR

small scale —it bought less than $10 million, compared with the $6 billion it bought in the crisis before dollar devaluation two weeks ago.

As the banks moved in the dollar steadied in every European market, and even recovered somewhat. In London it regained more than 2 cents of the 3.4-cent drop. But at midday it took $2.484 to buy a pound, a penny more than Thursday night and the lowest dollar level since devaluation.

The biggest dollar plunge was in West Germany where it opened at 2.89 and quickly sagged below its 2.835 floor price. The Bundesbank bought up $10 million and propped up the dollar at 2.84 marks to the dollar. One German bank said,"We're back with speculation. Many believe the mark will have to be revalued upwards."

In Paris the franc went lower, with both commercial and financial dollars traded at 4.5000, down respectively from 4.6240 and 4.4950.

"Markets are totally haywire. We don't know where the dollar is going," a French banking official said.

The dollar sank in London too. In early trading it took $2.4925 to buy one pound sterling —the highest figure since the dollar was devalued. In Zurich where the Central Bank has refused to intervene to support the dollar, the dollar dived to 3.11-3.13. In Amsterdam it fell from 3.1715 to 2.8550.

Sterling was 3 ½ cents higher than Thursday's close of $2.4610. But it dropped back to $2.48 after news of intervention for the dollar in European markets.

In Tokyo, the dollar improved slightly against the floating yen in light trading and closed at 265.55, up .55 from Thursday's closing.

Dealers used words like "frantic" or "hectic" to describe the new gold rush. One said orders were rushing in from all over the world, and that the demand was "heavy." Gold closed Thursday night at about $87 an ounce. Before devaluation it was about $69 an ounce.

Early trading today pushed it to ranges between $93 and $95. The official fixing put the price at $89 an ounce, up $2.50 on the second of the day's two fixings Thursday. Gold was at an all time high on the Hong Kong market but the price there was reported as $77.25 an ounce.

Gold prices normally move in pennies or fractions of a cent. This week the price has leaped about $15.60 an ounce and London dealers said orders were flooding in from all over the world in the new gold crisis that almost overshadowed the paper money crisis.

Silver made a comparable leap on the London metal markets. Silver touched 99 British pence per troy ounce during Thursday's trading, up more than 7 pence (16 cents) during the day. Dealers said early trading today was "very heavy."

Also, Suzie has pelted several persons with dirt and has thrown rocks through two automobile windshields.

College Ordered To Admit Youth

A Marin Superior Court judge has ordered the College of Marin to admit a 19-year-old youth whose parents do not live in Marin.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled Wednesday that the college cannot bar John James Meredith.

The Marin Community College District board, which runs the Kentfield campus, has maintained a policy of excluding students under 21 whose parents live outside the county until those students obtain court orders.

Details Remain In News Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Details will have to be worked out before the United States and China exchange journalists, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger reported.

President Nixon's negotiator discussed the subject at a new conference Thursday. He was asked if his trip to Peking this month made progress toward an agreement to open permanent news bureaus in the United States and China.

"I think there is some understanding in principle with respect to that, the details of which have to be worked out," Kissinger said.

Freeway Sniper Search Is Made

OAKLAND (UPI) — Police are looking for a sniper who stood on a freeway ramp and squeezed off two rifle shots at a California Highway Patrol office here.

Officer Terry Eilers, 25, said he fired two shots at the assailant Thursday as he fled in a pickup truck. The patrolman said he thought he wounded the man.

The officer said he left the building after hearing two thuds on the roof. A later investigation showed rocks had been thrown onto the building. As Eilers emerged, a shot hit the parking lot tarmac about a yard from him.

10 Ships Leave Haiphong Harbor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten of 26 communist ships trapped in Haiphong harbor since the mining of North Vietnamese ports last May have left the harbor after the United States provided charts of the mine field, the Pentagon has announced.

"In our view, the map of the mine field was not enough in itself to guarantee safe passage," Pentagon press spokesman Jerry Friedheim said Wednesday. "Apparently, one of the ship captains decided it was worth the risk and the others followed after the first ship got safely through."

All Prisoners Offered Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today that all returning American prisoners of war have been offered civilian jobs if they want to leave the military service.

The President did not elaborate on the situation except to say he was "really gratified" to know about the job offers and to remind prospective employers that 2.5 million other men served in Vietnam and "they also need jobs."

Nixon made the remarks at a White House meeting with James Oates, chairman of Jobs for Veterans Inc., and Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan.

Pumping Station Blast Kills Four

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A gas pumping station east of this capital city blew up and burned "like Dante's Inferno" early today, killing four persons and injuring at least six others.

None of the dead was identified and first reports indicated four or five other persons might be missing.

Curtis Obtains Child Custody

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tony Curtis Wednesday obtained custody of his 16-year-old daughter, Kelly Lee, and now has four—soon to be five— children in his home.

Curtis obtained custody of Kelly Lee with the consent of actress Janet Leigh, the girl's mother and Curtis' first wife. Last November Curtis obtained custody of his two daughters—Allegra, 6, and Alexandria, 8—by his second wife, German actress Christine Kaufmann. He is currently married to Leslie Allen, mother of his son, Nichols, 2. She is expecting another child in May.

Off Ramp Crash Injures Cyclist

A San Anselmo man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple facial cuts received in a motorcycle accident yesterday on the Irwin Street off ramp in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said Richard W. Wickerson, 30, of 6 Bank Street, was hurt about 11:15 p.m. when he attempted to leave Highway 101 at the exit. Officers said the vehicle failed to negotiate the curve, struck a curb and ran off the road.

NIXON

Ghanem, an Egyptian government official.

Ismail went to lunch with Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the State Department afterward and was to confer in the afternoon with top State Department officials.

Nixon met earlier with Rogers for more than an hour to give him final instructions for U.S. participation in the 12-nation conference starting Monday in Paris to guarantee the Jan. 27 Vietnam peace settlement.

The fact that Nixon's meeting with Ismail was not canceled in the furor over Israel's shooting down of a Libyan 727 commercial airliner with a loss of more than 100 lives led some observers to conclude that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat may strongly want to explore Middle East peace prospects.

The United States moved quickly to try to save the situation, with Nixon sending condolences to Sadat and to the Libyan government and with Rogers phoning Ismail in London to urge that the talks go on.

U.S. sources said Nixon's Middle East initiative was basically unshaken. One high U.S. source commented that a kev factor in the Middle East picture has improved over the years. The Soviet Union, this official believes, now is working to try to stabilize the Middle East. For many years the United States considered the Russians were trying to egg on former Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser and inflame the area to their own ends.

Ismail recently met with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, who is to meet with President Nixon later this year. Nixon has recently talked with Jordan's King Hussein and meets next Thursday with Israel's Prime Minister, Golda Meir.

Rogers' Paris talks with the Chinese official will take up $250 million in private U.S. claims against China and $78 million in blocked Chinese assets in the United States.

Non-Resident Fees For Colleges Hit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) of Ohio Thursday urged the Supreme Court to stop state-supported universities from charging new residents higher tuition fees than established residents.

The ACLU "friend of the court" brief, filed with a case from Connecticut, contended the higher tuition contradicts "the right to travel, the right to an education and due process of law at the administrative level."

His Retirement Far From Quiet

So what happened? He has been signed up as a commentator by a Copenhagen newspaper, is a full-time member of parliament and lectures at the Danish School for Journalists.

Cong Envoy Sees Some Success In Viet Plans

PARIS (UPI) — Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, said today there already is a broad measure of agreement among international powers on guarantees for the Vietnam peace accord.

Mme. Binh also said the United States should pay reparations not only to North Vietnam but also to the Viet Cong because "it has devastated large portions of liberated zones."

She said she will meet South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam later today for their first face-to-face political talks.

Lam, who arrived in Paris this morning said he wanted to meet his "brothers" —the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese — and pledged he would make no accusations.

But Mme. Binh accused Saigon of cease-fire violations and lack of goodwill. She said she would meet Lam at the Kleber Avenue conference center, one hour after regular discussions start between their deputies on the political future of South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong leader predicted the 12-nation international conference starting Monday to guarantee the peace accord would be short.

"There already is a broad measure of agreement on the adoption of a document providing guarantees for the accord," Mme. Binh told a French diplomatic Press luncheon.

"This overall document will guarantee the correct application of the accord and will be based on free-flowing general ideas," she said.

She itemized these as follows: "The participating parties will take note of the Paris accord and relating protocols.

"The parties will pledge to respect the clauses of the agreement.

"The parties will call on non-participating nations to help ensure application of the agreement."

Mme. Binh gave no details how the agreement would be enforced in the event of repeated violations.

Mme. Binh said the chairmanship of the conference was likely to be rotated between the inviting powers —the United States and North Vietnam —but said there was no final agreement on this.

Budget Session

A preliminary budget for 1973-74 will be discussed at a special meeting of the Reed Union School District board at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Del Mar School library.

A Monument From Bracelets Launched

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Mrs. Ellen Ewing has collected several hundred POW bracelets in the past week—but that's just the start.

She eventually hopes to round up about 500,000 of the metal bands and melt them down to form a "monument to lasting peace."

Mrs. Ewing, associate editor of the Inland Register, the Spokane Catholic diocesean newspaper, started the drive to collect the bracelets carrying the names of returned POWs last week.

She said today that "several hundred" have arrived in the mail in the past few days, accompanied by letters lauding the proposed monument.

She said the monument—which would pay homage to the 50,000 Americans who died in Vietnam as well as prisoners of war and servicemen missing in action — should probably be located in the nation's capital.

"I have talked with several of the POW wives and they think the main monument, because it is national in nature, should be built at a national location like Washington, D.C.," Mrs. Ewing said.

She hopes to receive about 10 per cent of the 5 million bracelets, which weigh less than an ounce, sold by Voices In Vital America (VIVA).

"If we get that many, we will have about 3,000 pounds of metal and that would make quite a monument," she said.

VIVA, which sold the bracelets and asked the buyers to wear them until the serviceman named on each one had returned home, has criticized Mrs. Ewing's project. the group has now asked bracelet wearers to keep on their bands until all U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action have been accounted for by the North Vietnamese.

"We are only asking for the bracelets of those who have come home," said Mrs. Ewing. "We don't want the MIA bracelets."

She displayed some of the letters that have accompanied bracelets mailed to her office.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Blackman of Missoula, Mont., said, "I hope the peace monument is a success."

Zakessian Proposal Hearing Set March 8

The Sausalito Planning Commission and community appearances advisory board took a first look at plans for a multi-million dollar commercial-recreational development proposed for the city's waterfront last night, but took no action on the project.

Instead, according to commission chairman Robert L. Nissen, the two groups set another hearing on Sam Zakessian's development for 8 p.m. March 8.

The action followed considerable discussion of the project which features a Barbary Coast fishing village, Victorian railroad station, schooner wharf, 232-berth harbor and a 120-unit floating hotel.

"Some liked the project and some didn't like it," Nissen said. "There was sure a lot of comment."

The planning commission also agreed to meet with Zakessian Thursday at 8 p.m. to discuss desirable uses in the central waterfront area.

The development, planned to include eight restaurants, 118,692 square feet of commercial space and about 18,000 square feet of office space is proposed for approximately 20 acres of land and water roughly in the area between Litho and Johnson streets.

Airman Is Guilty Of Disobedience

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A black Air Force sergeant who wears his hair in tight braids has been convicted by a court martial of refusing to obey an officer's orders in a dispute about his hair.

He faces a $300 fine to be paid over a six-month period for refusing to obey a lawful order by a superior.

Redevelop Questions Available

A summary of questions about redevelopment plans asked and answered at the Feb. 13 meeting of the Corte Madera Planning Commission has been compiled by town staff, for public distribution.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said 300 copies of the document are available at the town hall for interested Corte Maderans to read before Tuesday's continued public hearing on the same subject.

The planning commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at San Clemente School to continue its hearing on the environmental impact report on the town's redevelopment project, emphasizing Ernest W. Hahn Inc.'s proposal for a regional shopping center.

The town council, sitting as the Redevelopment Agency, will hold its public hearing on the redevelopment plan on March 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Meter Maid Seeking $90,000 For A Slap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A meter maid brought a $90,000 suit against the official weekly newspaper of the San Francisco Catholic archdiocese and a copy boy, alleging that her ears were boxed for ticketing the young man's vehicle.

Violet Costanzo brought suit Thursday against The Monitor newspaper and copyboy John T. Keck. She alleged Keck slapped and cursed her after she gave him a ticket for parking in a yellow zone on Mission Street the afternoon of Jan. 14.

Attorney Arthur Andreas filed the suit. He said Keck arrived to find the ticket on his auto windshield. Keck first objected, then "assaulted-grabbed, shoved, pulled and hit" Miss Costanzo, he said. Andreas said his client was out of work for two weeks after Keck struck her ears.

The suit seeks $15,000 general damages and $75,000 punitive damages.

Book Sale Scheduled By College Of Marin

More than 3,000 books from the old College of Marin Library will go on sale Tuesday in room B of the college center.

The books must be disposed of before the new $4 million library on the Kentfield campus opens next fall.

The books will be sold for 50 cents each on Tuesday, for 25 cents on Wednesday, and for 10 cents on Thursday. A few better books will begin at a dollar, and drop to 50 cents and 25 cents during the three-day sale.

College sources said the books are old and no longer suitable for library use. They cover a large variety of subjects, and vary in quality and physical condition.

The existing College of Marin Library presently has 48,000 volumes, but the new library will eventually have 78,000. The Marin Community College District's book budget will be increased in fiscal 1973-74 to buy more volumes.

The book sale starts at 8:30 a.m. and ends at 4:30 p.m. for each of the three days. Profits will be divided between Associated Students and the book budget.

Shultz said the Internal Revenue Service had designated special tax agents in all 50 states and had published two booklets to help returning servicemen cope with tax questions.

Airman Is Guilty Of Disobedience

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A black Air Force sergeant who wears his hair in tight braids has been convicted by a court martial of refusing to obey an officer's orders in a dispute about his hair.

He faces a $300 fine to be paid over a six-month period for refusing to obey a lawful order by a superior.

Redevelop Questions Available

A summary of questions about redevelopment plans asked and answered at the Feb. 13 meeting of the Corte Madera Planning Commission has been compiled by town staff, for public distribution.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said 300 copies of the document are available at the town hall for interested Corte Maderans to read before Tuesday's continued public hearing on the same subject.

The planning commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at San Clemente School to continue its hearing on the environmental impact report on the town's redevelopment project, emphasizing Ernest W. Hahn Inc.'s proposal for a regional shopping center.

The town council, sitting as the Redevelopment Agency, will hold its public hearing on the redevelopment plan on March 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Meter Maid Seeking $90,000 For A Slap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A meter maid brought a $90,000 suit against the official weekly newspaper of the San Francisco Catholic archdiocese and a copy boy, alleging that her ears were boxed for ticketing the young man's vehicle.

Violet Costanzo brought suit Thursday against The Monitor newspaper and copyboy John T. Keck. She alleged Keck slapped and cursed her after she gave him a ticket for parking in a yellow zone on Mission Street the afternoon of Jan. 14.

Attorney Arthur Andreas filed the suit. He said Keck arrived to find the ticket on his auto windshield. Keck first objected, then "assaulted-grabbed, shoved, pulled and hit" Miss Costanzo, he said. Andreas said his client was out of work for two weeks after Keck struck her ears.

The suit seeks $15,000 general damages and $75,000 punitive damages.

Book Sale Scheduled By College Of Marin

More than 3,000 books from the old College of Marin Library will go on sale Tuesday in room B of the college center.

The books must be disposed of before the new $4 million library on the Kentfield campus opens next fall.

The books will be sold for 50 cents each on Tuesday, for 25 cents on Wednesday, and for 10 cents on Thursday. A few better books will begin at a dollar, and drop to 50 cents and 25 cents during the three-day sale.

College sources said the books are old and no longer suitable for library use. They cover a large variety of subjects, and vary in quality and physical condition.

The existing College of Marin Library presently has 48,000 volumes, but the new library will eventually have 78,000. The Marin Community College District's book budget will be increased in fiscal 1973-74 to buy more volumes.

The book sale starts at 8:30 a.m. and ends at 4:30 p.m. for each of the three days. Profits will be divided between Associated Students and the book budget.

Tax Problem Panel For POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special government unit has been established to help returning U.S. prisoners of war with their income tax problems.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz announced the step Wednesday and at the same time called on Congress to approve a series of tax breaks for prisoners and their survivors.

Shultz said the Internal Revenue Service had designated special tax agents in all 50 states and had published two booklets to help returning servicemen cope with tax questions.

Rohnert Park Delays Student Apartments

Permission for a proposed 538-unit student apartment complex and child care center was delayed last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission until need can be shown for the project.

Camille Enterprises was told to consult Sonoma State College officials to determine if the need for luxury housing really exists.

College housing director John Simmons told the commission low-cost housing is more in demand.

The project includes 538 apartment units on 25 acres north of Rancho Cotate High School on Snyder Lane. Plans also include nearly 11 acres of open space, a swimming pool, recreation center and child day care center where residents could leave children while attending classes.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the first phase of the project calls for 111 units.

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission Also:

REZONING — Approved the rezoning request of Codding Enterprises for regional commercial zoning on 20 acres at Rohnert Park Expressway and Highway 101. No plans were presented for use of the land.

FIREWORKS — Granted the application of the College View Youth Club to operate a fireworks booth at the Park Plaza Shopping Center.

Slide Above Sausalito's Bridgeway Slows To Creep

Sausalito's big slide above Bridgeway has slowed to a mere creep, firemen said today.

Two restaurants in the slide's path, the H. Salt Esq. fish and chips shop at 813 Bridgeway and the Les Crepes Viola at 817 Bridgeway were allowed to reopen — but were warned they may have to close quickly if there is any heavy rain over the weekend.

After slipping more than seven feet on Wednesday, the slide traveled less than a foot yesterday and "only a couple inches overnight," firemen said today.

Zella Kimball, 86, of 162 Bulkley Avenue, has not yet been allowed to return to her home in the slide area.

Property owners in the slide area were having trees topped today, to lessen the weight on the unstable soil, according to Fire Chief Robert C. Quayle. He said that barring more heavy rains, the slide appears to have stalled.

However, federal weather forecasters predicted a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight, and 60 per cent tomorrow.

Correct Story Of Accident

The Independent-Journal erred Wednesday in reporting that Lawrence Lavagetto of Sonoma told San Rafael police he had pulled into the street from a parking lot at 1530 Fourth Street at the time of a motorcycle accident in which Inspector Richard A. Douglas was injured the night before.

What Lavagetto actually said was that he had been about to pull into the street but had stopped at the foot of the driveway when Douglas, evidently deciding the car would continue, ditched the motorcycle he was riding to avoid an anticipated collision.

Douglas is under care at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Redwood City.

Research Eyed On Acupuncture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government may finance some research into acupuncture, the ancient Chinese art of healing with needles.

Officials of the National Institute of Health (NIH) said Thursday they have under review nine applications for grants for research into the practice.

A decision will be announced by early April.

Petaluma Hospital Talks Stall

The Petaluma Hospital District board was told yesterday that negotiations with operators of the private Petaluma General Hospital are waiting on a complete audit report.

Both hospitals have applied unsuccessfully for permission to build new hospitals and have been ordered to cooperate so Petaluma gets one superior hospital rather than two smaller facilities.

District administrator Joseph E. Horner and board president Dr. Frederick Groverman reported that figures from a three-year audit will be necessary before talks can proceed.

Horner said figures should indicate whether the board can buy out Petaluma General, owned by National Medical Enterprises, and remove competition for a new hospital. He said the district would purchase the hospital's license and could consider moving out-patient services to the old building on Sixth Street.

National Medical Enterprises application for a new hospital was denied Wednesday by the state Health Planning Council in Sacramento.

Man's Body Is Found In Bay

The badly decomposed body of a man was found floating in Richardson Bay yesterday, about 300 yards north of the Sausalito drydocks.

Although no positive identification has been made, the dead man may be William Schulte of Sausalito who disappeared Feb. 6 when his 10-foot sailboat capsized during a storm.

The body was discovered about 2 p.m. by Robert Allerton of Waldo Point, who was sailing on the bay.

The Marin County Coroner's office said the deceased was about 30 years old, five feet, 11 inches tall and weighed approximately 160 pounds. The body was taken to Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Schulte's wife told the Coast Guard her husband left Gate 3 in Sausalito about 5:30 p.m. on the 6th and never returned. His boat was spotted north of the drydocks early the next morning.

(UPI Telephoto)

EXPULSION EXPLAINED

'I Knew Too Much,' Explorer Maintains

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A California woman said Thursday the native chief she married was not a cannibal, and she was driven out of a remote jungle area because she "knew too much" about corrupt Indonesian officials torturing, murdering and enslaving natives.

"I was a dangerous person, one that could expose the activities of the government officials," said Wyn Sargent, 46, a tall, red-haired explorer and photojournalist.

Reports of Miss Sargent's marriage in the wilds of West Irian to Chief Obaharok, identified as the head of a tribe of cannibals, drew worldwide interest and led to her expulsion by Indonesian officials.

Miss Sargent said that much of the original version of her marriage had been fabricated by Indonesian officials to discredit her.

She said in the past that she had never consummated her marriage to Obaharok, and went through with the wedding as part of her effort to bring peace to warring tribes, which included ceremonies to make her a blood sister to other chiefs.

"I was married to Chief Obaharok through a ceremony that was based on humanitarian love for mankind," she said Thursday.

Denying other reports, she said: "Obaharok is not a cannibal and never has been one. His father was, however.

"I did not run naked in the jungle, reduce my western clothing to native dress, nor did I have any intention of doing so. I didn't conduct a sexual survey of any kind, although I might be flattered to think that a woman of my age might find such adventure possible."

"Obaharok does not wear a G-string of banana bark. He wears a gourd and the length of that gourd indicates he's killed more men single handedly than I'd like to think about."

The real reason for her expulsion, she said, was that "I had dressed too many wounds on the bodies of the Dani people that the police had beaten...I had improvised splints for their broken arms and legs and medically treated the vicious burns caused by placing hot coals between their buttocks.

ABA Chief For Certain Confidences

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — Robert W. Meserve, president of the American Bar Association, said Thursday he favors a law to let newsmen protect confidential sources in noncriminal cases.

"The not so subtle pressure to compel greater objectivity in news reporting gets us back to the observation that freedom of the press is a dangerous thing until one considers the alternatives—and censorship is a great idea only if one's self be the censor," he told a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society.

Meserve said the ABA has not yet adopted an official stand on so called "shield" laws, and his remarks were to be considered his own opinions.

The public's right to know, he said, must be measured against the public's need to have adequate law enforcement mechanisms.

"Such a law must define the person to be protected—a newsman or newswoman on the job, whether from the recognized or underground press or the media—and it must stress what is to be protected— confidential communications, not information about acts constituting crimes in themselves which the newsman observes; as well as the names of sources of such confidential information.

"And, I suggest, if the disclosure of such confidential information is to be compelled at all, such compulsion should only be available where the matter being investigated is shown to be a serious crime, where it appears that other sources of information are not available," he said.

"The alternative," he said, "is an absolute shield law. I somewhat incline to the qualified law in an era when even the lawyer's privilege has been whittled down, as the courts tend more and more to put all privileges on a qualified basis and to oppose the introduction of any new ones."

The best protection for the press, he said, "is an informed and aroused public opinion. In our system of government that is the ultimate source of all power—even beyond the Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

Zumwalt Notes Shipping Lack

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The decline of American flagships means the U.S. Merchant Marine can no longer handle the tonnage of military supplies carried only five years ago for the Vietnam War, the chief of Naval Operations said Thursday.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., said five million tons of equipment and supplies were shipped to Vietnam in 1968, the peak year.

He told the Propeller Club of San Francisco "that if similar such demands were placed on American flagships today, they could not be met."

Times Reports Dissension Among Returning Prisoners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some American prisoners of war in North Vietnam were mistreated to force them to make anti-U.S. statements and others freely cooperated with the enemy during their imprisonment, the New York Times reported today.

In a dispatch from Washington, the Times said that some returning senior military officers have expressed a desire to bring court-martial charges against at least two former prisoners.

Quoting Pentagon, military and other sources, the Times said there was a wide diversity of opinion about the war among the POWs and that occasional fist fights broke out. One pilot reportedly pulled a knife on another prisoner during an argument.

Those who chose to cooperate with the North Vietnamese were dubbed "house radicals" and were separated from prisoners who had been captured the longest and were housed with men captured more recently.

One officer said that most of the POWs want this to come out eventually but don't want to do anything now that might jeopardize prisoners still being held.

Some returning prisoners reported that treatment at POW camps was harsh during the early years of captivity with isolation and poor food commonplace, the Times report said. Some were subjected to brutal interrogation and forced to sign antiwar statements and make propaganda broadcasts.

The treatment of POWs by the North Vietnamese changed abruptly for the better in October 1969, one officer told the Times. Conditions were eased, food improved, the men were allowed to live in groups of 26 and there was more opportunity for exercise and recreation.

One government official said that the press descriptions of the joyous flights from Hanoi to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines were accurate as far as they went.

One plane, he said, contained two former prisoners who were believed to have collaborated with their captors. Both were senior officers and pilots, he said.

"Nobody said a word to them. They tried to make conversation, to be buddy-buddy, but nobody said anything. They were completely ostracized," the Times quoted the official as saying.

One official said some pilots indicated that of all the antiwar figures to visit Hanoi, they were most furious with former Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

"They really got ticked off about him" apparently because he was a cabinet member during the Johnson administration when many of the pilots were shot down and had apparently reversed his public position on the war, the Times said.

Two Carriers Due To Leave Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two aircraft carriers—the USS Midway and USS America—will be brought home from the Gulf of Tonkin, the Navy has announced.

The departure of the two ships, which carry combined crews of 9,000 men and more than 130 planes, leaves four carriers, about 300 planes and 18,000 men, still operating with the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Far East.

U.S. Viet Count At 13,234 Men

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. troop strength in Vietnam dropped to 13,234 men today, the lowest figure in a decade.

Under terms of the Jan. 28 cease-fire agreement, all U.S. troops must leave the country by March 28.

The United States still maintains about 90,000 men and about 800 warplanes in Thailand, on Guam and on 7th Fleet warships offshore from Vietnam.

(UPI Telephoto)

EXPULSION EXPLAINED

'I Knew Too Much,' Explorer Maintains

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A California woman said Thursday the native chief she married was not a cannibal, and she was driven out of a remote jungle area because she "knew too much" about corrupt Indonesian officials torturing, murdering and enslaving natives.

"I was a dangerous person, one that could expose the activities of the government officials," said Wyn Sargent, 46, a tall, red-haired explorer and photojournalist.

Reports of Miss Sargent's marriage in the wilds of West Irian to Chief Obaharok, identified as the head of a tribe of cannibals, drew worldwide interest and led to her expulsion by Indonesian officials.

Miss Sargent said that much of the original version of her marriage had been fabricated by Indonesian officials to discredit her.

She said in the past that she had never consummated her marriage to Obaharok, and went through with the wedding as part of her effort to bring peace to warring tribes, which included ceremonies to make her a blood sister to other chiefs.

"I was married to Chief Obaharok through a ceremony that was based on humanitarian love for mankind," she said Thursday.

Denying other reports, she said: "Obaharok is not a cannibal and never has been one. His father was, however.

"I did not run naked in the jungle, reduce my western clothing to native dress, nor did I have any intention of doing so. I didn't conduct a sexual survey of any kind, although I might be flattered to think that a woman of my age might find such adventure possible."

"Obaharok does not wear a G -string of banana bark. He wears a gourd and the length of that gourd indicates he's killed more men single handedly than I'd like to think about."

The real reason for her expulsion, she said, was that "I had dressed too many wounds on the bodies of the Dani people that the police had beaten...I had improvised splints for their broken arms and legs and medically treated the vicious burns caused by placing hot coals between their buttocks.

"These were the men who had been beaten into silence as the police chief stole their pigs...at $400 and $500 a haul. The police stole their women too, and after using them tossed the poor desperate creatures into the potato gardens to find their way home as best they could."

Boost In Food Stamp Allocation Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government food stamp allocation for needy American families is expected to increase $4 on July 1 to $116 a month to help keep pace with soaring grocery prices, Agriculture Department sources said Friday.

This 3.6 per cent boost in food stamp payments will not, however, match the 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent increase in retail food prices which government economists expect this year over the average of 1972.

The department, which operates the food stamp program, has made no final decision or public statements about the increase, but a number of sources indirectly confirmed that a $4 monthly boost for a needy family of four was likely.

An estimated 12 million needy Americans benefit by the food stamp subsidy program in buying groceries. Depending on their income, each poor family pays up to $88 a month for food stamps which presently can be redeemed at stores for groceries worth $112.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., on the basis of preliminary reports, urged Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to order a bigger food stamp increase "so the very poor will not be heavily penalized by constantly increasing food prices."

Case said in a telegram that while the 3.6 per cent increase "will be welcomed, it falls far short of the mark" because of the expected rise of at least 6 per cent in supermarket prices this year.

The increase is based on the cost of an "economy diet" of basic foods, which the department calculated was $115.90 as of December, 1972, the month used in the annual review of stamp benefits for any changes to take effect the following July 1 for the next 12 months.

A rise to $116 would follow a similar $4 increase to $112 last July 1, from the $108 allotment in force in 1971-72.

But Agriculture Department officials indicated Friday they did not expect to raise the allotment beyond the $4 dictated under the present formula based on previous December figures.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said the allotment changes "are traditionally done in $4 increments, and I expect the same thing will be done this year."

Beautification Plan For Burbank

BURBANK (UPI) — A $300 million redevelopment program to transform downtown Burbank into "Beautiful Downtown Burbank" was outlined Wednesday by Mayor D. Verner Gibson.

Gibson said the project would transform the downtown area into a modern financial, shopping, entertainment and commercial complex covering 218 acres or about 40 square blocks.

Muir said the project was designed "to combat the present trend of movement away from the central city and bring both business and people back to a revitalized city."

Council Seeking Harry Williams Replacement

The San Rafael City Council will meet in closed session prior to its regular meeting Monday to consider a replacement for mortician Harry M. Williams on the city fire commission.

Williams, a 28-year veteran of the commission, resigned earlier this month with criticism of Fire Chief Robert E. Marucci for failing to consult with the group on his actions.

The closed meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., prior to the regular 8 p.m. meeting.

Ex-Brando Wife's Drug Trial Begins

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Anna Kashfi, former wife of Marlon Brando, was brought to trial Thursday on charges of driving under the influence of drugs.

Her attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, said her defense would include medical testimony that she was suffering from the effects of a bite by a rare poisonous South American brown recluse spider.

Tympanist Will Be Featured At Concert

A Bach-to-Mozart Candlelight Concert Sunday at Del Mar School, Tiburon, will feature Peggy Lucchesi, tympanist with the San Francisco Symphony.

The performance, following a 2:30 p.m. concert for children, will begin at 8 p.m.

Planners Hit Outside Zoning Idea

The Fairfax Planning Commission voted last night to oppose county rezoning the 102-acre William Poeschl property in the unincorporated Oak Manor area west of the town, commission clerk Ernestine Healy reported today.

The county staff had recommended rezoning from A-2 limited agricultural to a residential zone that would allow 39 or 40 homes on the steep hillsides and ridges of the property, Mrs. Healy reported. The rezoning will be heard in March by the county planning commission.

Fairfax commissioners warned the proposal conflicted with Fairfax ridge policy and other factors, including summer wind patterns and drainage onto Oak Manor Drive.

The Fairfax Planning Commission also:

ELECTION — Reelected Hugh O. Winn as chairman and named Gloria Duncan secretary.

TREE CUTTING — Postponed action on a proposed ordinance controlling cutting trees on private property to March 29, pending review by the town attorney.

EXCAVATION — Postponed action on amending the town excavation and grading ordinance, pending review by town public works officials.

BUILDING — Granted applicant Merv Attell a conditional use permit to construct a two-story building on a narrow lot on Mono Street, with apartments upstairs and stores below — subject to provision of two offstreet parking spaces.

Expansion Plan For School Wins Approval

Initial development will consist of eight classrooms and a multimedia center east of the present school, according to Supt. Charles E. McCully. He estimated the cost at $375,000.

The new classrooms will house pupils from the fourth through eighth grades, to be moved from portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site, McCully reported.

Trustees authorized architects Barnum, Mau, Folsom and Mirza of Sacramento to proceed with design specifications, he said.

This 3.6 per cent boost in food stamp payments will not, however, match the 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent increase in retail food prices which government economists expect this year over the average of 1972.

The department, which operates the food stamp program, has made no final decision or public statements about the increase, but a number of sources indirectly confirmed that a $4 monthly boost for a needy family of four was likely.

An estimated 12 million needy Americans benefit by the food stamp subsidy program in buying groceries. Depending on their income, each poor family pays up to $88 a month for food stamps which presently can be redeemed at stores for groceries worth $112.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., on the basis of preliminary reports, urged Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to order a bigger food stamp increase "so the very poor will not be heavily penalized by constantly increasing food prices."

Case said in a telegram that while the 3.6 per cent increase "will be welcomed, it falls far short of the mark" because of the expected rise of at least 6 per cent in supermarket prices this year.

The increase is based on the cost of an "economy diet" of basic foods, which the department calculated was $115.90 as of December, 1972, the month used in the annual review of stamp benefits for any changes to take effect the following July 1 for the next 12 months.

A rise to $116 would follow a similar $4 increase to $112 last July 1, from the $108 allotment in force in 1971-72.

But Agriculture Department officials indicated Friday they did not expect to raise the allotment beyond the $4 dictated under the present formula based on previous December figures.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said the allotment changes "are traditionally done in $4 increments, and I expect the same thing will be done this year."

Beautification Plan For Burbank

BURBANK (UPI) — A $300 million redevelopment program to transform downtown Burbank into "Beautiful Downtown Burbank" was outlined Wednesday by Mayor D. Verner Gibson.

Gibson said the project would transform the downtown area into a modern financial, shopping, entertainment and commercial complex covering 218 acres or about 40 square blocks.

Muir said the project was designed "to combat the present trend of movement away from the central city and bring both business and people back to a revitalized city."

Council Seeking Harry Williams Replacement

The San Rafael City Council will meet in closed session prior to its regular meeting Monday to consider a replacement for mortician Harry M. Williams on the city fire commission.

Williams, a 28-year veteran of the commission, resigned earlier this month with criticism of Fire Chief Robert E. Marucci for failing to consult with the group on his actions.

The closed meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., prior to the regular 8 p.m. meeting.

Ex-Brando Wife's Drug Trial Begins

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Anna Kashfi, former wife of Marlon Brando, was brought to trial Thursday on charges of driving under the influence of drugs.

Her attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, said her defense would include medical testimony that she was suffering from the effects of a bite by a rare poisonous South American brown recluse spider.

Tympanist Will Be Featured At Concert

A Bach-to-Mozart Candlelight Concert Sunday at Del Mar School, Tiburon, will feature Peggy Lucchesi, tympanist with the San Francisco Symphony.

The performance, following a 2:30 p.m. concert for children, will begin at 8 p.m.

Planners Hit Outside Zoning Idea

The Fairfax Planning Commission voted last night to oppose county rezoning the 102-acre William Poeschl property in the unincorporated Oak Manor area west of the town, commission clerk Ernestine Healy reported today.

The county staff had recommended rezoning from A-2 limited agricultural to a residential zone that would allow 39 or 40 homes on the steep hillsides and ridges of the property, Mrs. Healy reported. The rezoning will be heard in March by the county planning commission.

Fairfax commissioners warned the proposal conflicted with Fairfax ridge policy and other factors, including summer wind patterns and drainage onto Oak Manor Drive.

The Fairfax Planning Commission also:

ELECTION — Reelected Hugh O. Winn as chairman and named Gloria Duncan secretary.

TREE CUTTING — Postponed action on a proposed ordinance controlling cutting trees on private property to March 29, pending review by the town attorney.

EXCAVATION — Postponed action on amending the town excavation and grading ordinance, pending review by town public works officials.

BUILDING — Granted applicant Merv Attell a conditional use permit to construct a two-story building on a narrow lot on Mono Street, with apartments upstairs and stores below — subject to provision of two offstreet parking spaces.

Expansion Plan For School Wins Approval

Initial development will consist of eight classrooms and a multimedia center east of the present school, according to Supt. Charles E. McCully. He estimated the cost at $375,000.

The new classrooms will house pupils from the fourth through eighth grades, to be moved from portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site, McCully reported.

Trustees authorized architects Barnum, Mau, Folsom and Mirza of Sacramento to proceed with design specifications, he said.

Kennedy Son Plans To Stay In Poverty Area Despite Criticism

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joseph Kennedy, III, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said today he was staying in his poverty community health job despite criticism.

Kennedy, 20, held a joint news conference with San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto and Dr. Francis Curry, city director of public health, who hired Kennedy.

The youth was hired earlier this month as a liaison agent between Dr. Curry and the Mexican-American community in San Francisco's Mission District. There has been controversy over the hiring, including claims that Kennedy was not qualified for the job.

Both Alioto and Curry said they stood behind young Kennedy and hoped he would continue in his job. The mayor pointed out that the Mission Coalition, a large neighborhood group, had also urged Kennedy to stay.

However, Curry said he had been getting "a terrific number of hate phone calls on the subject — anonymous phone calls, there's some real sick people out there."

He said he probably received 60 such crank calls Thursday alone. Curry also said Kennedy is qualified for the job.

"Various organizations have been extremely nice and asked that I do stay on at least until I feel we have a real working relationship in which things do get done in the community," Kennedy said.

"You realize the mistrust of higher officials and what government is doing among these people. They see countless programs being cut by the administration and feel helpless."

"With this publicity I'd be dubious, too. That's what I think is so too bad about all this."

Kennedy is named after the late Joseph Kennedy, his grandfather, and Joseph Kennedy Jr., his uncle, who died as a war hero in World War II.

He recently dropped out of the University of California at Berkeley and has worked previously as a mountain guide, sailboat crewman and other adventurous activities.

Critics contended other candidates who live in San Francisco might have been better qualified for the $8,970 yearly job, financed by the federal government.

Labor Chiefs Disagree On The Economy

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Top labor leaders said today that President Nixon's proposals for a tight budget and cutbacks in federal programs could bring a substantial slowdown in the economy by the end of 1973.

Disagreeing with the White House predictions for a good economic year, the AFL-CIO Executive Council said it expects consumer spending to slow down this year and housing starts to decline, bringing on "growing economic difficulties before the end of the year."

The council said declines in housing starts and consumer spending might be partially offset by increased business investment, but the economy has become unbalanced by a "government-encouraged profit boom while wage increases have been under government restraint."

"As the year progresses to its close, such trends could produce a sharply slowing pace of general economic expansion with a renewed rise in unemployment," the council said in a statement.

The labor leaders urged Congress to reject the administration's program cuts and instead to expand federal spending. They also said Congress should close tax loopholes for business and the wealth.

Moretti To Push Ahead With Redistricting Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says he will push ahead with a "one-man, one-vote" reapportionment plan despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling providing leeway in drawing up new districts for state legislators.

"I remain personally committed to the concept of one-man, one-vote as the fairest and most equitable manner in which any representative body should be constituted," the powerful Van Nuys Democrat said in a statement.

The Supreme Court ruling upheld a Virginia reapportionment plan even though the number of persons represented in each district varied up to 16.4 per cent.

"I am against taking a step backward into the past which permitted gross inequalities in district populations to permit minority views to frustrate the legitimate needs of a majority of our people," Moretti said.

He made the comments about the Assembly's plans Thursday at the same time Mexican-Americans were praising a touched up version of an old Senate reapportionment design, creating a Chicano district in Los Angeles County.

The latest Senate measure (SB62) was outlined by its author, Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los angeles, at a sparsely attended hearing of the Elections and Reapportionment Committee. It was a slightly altered version of one he has offered in the past.

Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, endorsed the bill on behalf of the Assembly Chicano Caucus. He called it a "vast improvement" over previous efforts.

Ted Martinez of the Mexican-American Political Association said the group could not fully support the Dymally plan, but added, "One seat is better than none." Martinez said the association wants three Chicano Senate seats.

No vote was taken on the measure—a rival to another plan (SB195) which a Mexican-American has criticized as "fathered by racism and nurtured by hate and fear."

That bill, backed by Sens. George Zenovich, D-Fresno, and John Harmer, R-Glendale, does not provide for a Mexican-A merican seat in the Senate. Both rival plans are aimed at protecting incumbents.

The Moretti backed Assembly plan has already been reported out of committee and is pending on the house floor. Its author has said it will give Democrats a 48-32 edge in the Assembly, compared to the present 50-29 ratio. One seat is vacant.

However, GOP opponents contend it would provide no more than 26 "safe" Republican seats.

Coffee Is Set

Farr Takes Case To Appeals Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William T. Farr has filed an appellate court brief asking that a contempt of court citation against him be dropped because the information he refused to divulge concerning a newspaper article he wrote could no longer be of significance.

His brief, filed with the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, contends that the contempt order was invalid under the first and 14th Amendments, and that he can no longer purge himself by supplying the requested information.

Indians Restrict Spires Visitors

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The popular "Needles" rock spires on the northern end of Pyramid Lake are now off limits to nonIndians.

The Pyramid Lake Indians said they would enforce the ban on picnickers, explorers and graffiti writers to prevent littering and defacing of the rocks. They also said they feared possible drug problems created by visitors.

The West Leads Marijuana Poll

PRINNCETON, N. J. (UPI) — a newly-released Gallup Poll finds that 20 per cent of the persons living in the Far West admit having tried marijuana as opposed to 13 per cent in the East, 10 per cent in the Midwest and 9 per cent in the South.

In 1969, the Gallup Poll found only 4 per cent of adults asked admitted smoking it, while 84 per cent opposed its legalization.

Group Endorses Open Space Bonds

The executive board and general membership of People for Parks and Open Space last night endorsed San Anselmo's $500,000 open space bond issue on the April 17 ballot.

Karin Urquhart, secretary of the open space group, said support was voted after remarks by San Anselmo City Councilman Lewis W. Stewart and Lyn Fischbein, a leader in the community's open space drive.

In another matter, the group was told board member Patrick Heffernan was preparing guildelines for the group's unofficial review of developments in Marin which may have an effect on open space.

Directors of the group next will meet March 27 at a place to be determined.

Ryan Upset By Nominee's Denial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., wants to know why his principal nominee for appointment to the Air Force Academy — Miss Susan C. Simpliciano of Foster City, Calif.—was rejected.

Ryan said Thursday he would make a "fact-finding tour" of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., March 1-2. He said he wanted to see whether facilities at the academy could accommodate female students as well as male cadets.

Labor Chiefs Disagree On The Economy

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Top labor leaders said today that President Nixon's proposals for a tight budget and cutbacks in federal programs could bring a substantial slowdown in the economy by the end of 1973.

Disagreeing with the White House predictions for a good economic year, the AFL-CIO Executive Council said it expects consumer spending to slow down this year and housing starts to decline, bringing on "growing economic difficulties before the end of the year."

The council said declines in housing starts and consumer spending might be partially offset by increased business investment, but the economy has become unbalanced by a "government-encouraged profit boom while wage increases have been under government restraint."

"As the year progresses to its close, such trends could produce a sharply slowing pace of general economic expansion with a renewed rise in unemployment," the council said in a statement.

The labor leaders urged Congress to reject the administration's program cuts and instead to expand federal spending. They also said Congress should close tax loopholes for business and the wealth.

Moretti To Push Ahead With Redistricting Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says he will push ahead with a "one-man, one-vote" reapportionment plan despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling providing leeway in drawing up new districts for state legislators.

"I remain personally committed to the concept of one-man, one-vote as the fairest and most equitable manner in which any representative body should be constituted," the powerful Van Nuys Democrat said in a statement.

The Supreme Court ruling upheld a Virginia reapportionment plan even though the number of persons represented in each district varied up to 16.4 per cent.

"I am against taking a step backward into the past which permitted gross inequalities in district populations to permit minority views to frustrate the legitimate needs of a majority of our people," Moretti said.

He made the comments about the Assembly's plans Thursday at the same time Mexican-Americans were praising a touched up version of an old Senate reapportionment design, creating a Chicano district in Los Angeles County.

The latest Senate measure (SB62) was outlined by its author, Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los angeles, at a sparsely attended hearing of the Elections and Reapportionment Committee. It was a slightly altered version of one he has offered in the past.

Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, endorsed the bill on behalf of the Assembly Chicano Caucus. He called it a "vast improvement" over previous efforts.

Ted Martinez of the Mexican-American Political Association said the group could not fully support the Dymally plan, but added, "One seat is better than none." Martinez said the association wants three Chicano Senate seats.

No vote was taken on the measure—a rival to another plan (SB195) which a Mexican-American has criticized as "fathered by racism and nurtured by hate and fear."

That bill, backed by Sens. George Zenovich, D-Fresno, and John Harmer, R-Glendale, does not provide for a Mexican-A merican seat in the Senate. Both rival plans are aimed at protecting incumbents.

The Moretti backed Assembly plan has already been reported out of committee and is pending on the house floor. Its author has said it will give Democrats a 48-32 edge in the Assembly, compared to the present 50-29 ratio. One seat is vacant.

However, GOP opponents contend it would provide no more than 26 "safe" Republican seats.

Coffee Is Set

A coffee for Eileen Bach-Y-Rita, a candidate for the Mill Valley School District board, will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Strawberry home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesper Strandgaard, 125 Reed Boulevard.

Farr Takes Case To Appeals Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William T. Farr has filed an appellate court brief asking that a contempt of court citation against him be dropped because the information he refused to divulge concerning a newspaper article he wrote could no longer be of significance.

His brief, filed with the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, contends that the contempt order was invalid under the first and 14th Amendments, and that he can no longer purge himself by supplying the requested information.

Indians Restrict Spires Visitors

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The popular "Needles" rock spires on the northern end of Pyramid Lake are now off limits to nonIndians.

The Pyramid Lake Indians said they would enforce the ban on picnickers, explorers and graffiti writers to prevent littering and defacing of the rocks. They also said they feared possible drug problems created by visitors.

Group Endorses Open Space Bonds

The executive board and general membership of People for Parks and Open Space last night endorsed San Anselmo's $500,000 open space bond issue on the April 17 ballot.

Karin Urquhart, secretary of the open space group, said support was voted after remarks by San Anselmo City Councilman Lewis W. Stewart and Lyn Fischbein, a leader in the community's open space drive.

In another matter, the group was told board member Patrick Heffernan was preparing guildelines for the group's unofficial review of developments in Marin which may have an effect on open space.

Directors of the group next will meet March 27 at a place to be determined.

The West Leads Marijuana Poll

PRINNCETON, N. J. (UPI) — a newly-released Gallup Poll finds that 20 per cent of the persons living in the Far West admit having tried marijuana as opposed to 13 per cent in the East, 10 per cent in the Midwest and 9 per cent in the South.

In 1969, the Gallup Poll found only 4 per cent of adults asked admitted smoking it, while 84 per cent opposed its legalization.

Ryan Upset By Nominee's Denial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., wants to know why his principal nominee for appointment to the Air Force Academy — Miss Susan C. Simpliciano of Foster City, Calif.—was rejected.

Ryan said Thursday he would make a "fact-finding tour" of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., March 1-2. He said he wanted to see whether facilities at the academy could accommodate female students as well as male cadets.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Feb. 23, the 54th day of 1973 with 311 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

German composer George Frederic Handel was born Feb. 23, 1685.

On this day in history:

In 1942, a Japanese submarine fired 25 shells at an oil refinery near Santa Barbara, Calif., two and a half months after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor catapulted the United States into World War II.

In 1945, six members of the 5th Division of the U.S. Marines planted an American flag atop Mt. Suribachi on the Pacific island of Iwo Jima.

A thought for the day: American playwright Irwin Shaw said, "There are too many books I haven't read, too many places I haven't seen, too many memories I haven't kept long enough."

White House Picketing Planned For Total Asian Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anti-war activists, unconvinced that the Vietnam cease-fire spells the end of the war, said today they would picket the White House Saturday demanding complete American withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

The picket line, to be composed of members of the steering committee of the National Peace Action Coalition and local Washington peace groups, will be the first antiwar demonstration in Washington since the Vietnam accords were signed Jan. 27.

At the same time, however, NPAC spokesmen gave some indication that in the future the movement will stress domestic concerns, particularly President Nixon's dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Ailing activist Julius Hobson, a member of NPAC's national steering committee and the vice presidential candidate of the radical People's Party in the November election, accused Nixon of "transferring the war in Vietnam to 14th and U," a reference to a Washington ghetto.

Hobson, suffering from cancer of the bone marrow, appeared at the NPAC news conference in a wheelchair. He said that the dismantling of the poverty programs "signals an attack on blacks and poor."

"I'm damned frightened of this man Richard Nixon," Hobson said, adding that he felt "more danger at this time than in any time in my life."

While stressing the impact of Nixon's decision to end the poverty programs, Hobson also said he did not believe the Vietnam War was over.

"We've got a garrison on every continent and a flotilla on sea," he said.

He cited continued aid for the Thieu regime, the presence of 10,000 American advisers in Southeast Asia, and the maintenance of airfields in Thailand and ships off the coast of Vietnam as evidence that the United States has not ended its involvement in Vietnam.

Judge Finds Evidence For Trial

A Marin Municipal Court judge found enough evidence yesterday to try two men arrested in a car with more than 20 pounds of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered Edward Lovell Mitchell, 52, of Marin City, and 24-year-old Gregg Stacey of no known address to appear for arraignment in Marin Superior Court March 19.

The California Highway Patrol arrested the two Jan. 30 during what began as a routine traffic stop. Found in the car, stopped in Greenbrae because it had been weaving on Highway 101, were 10 kilos of marijuana and about 100 tablets believed to be amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizers.

Mitchell and Stacey subsequently were charged with felony counts of having pot and dangerous drugs, but no charge was filed against Sheryl Ann Rudder, 18, who was arrested with the men. Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino said insufficient evidence tied her to the drugs found.

The marijuana was in a carton in the rear of the station wagon driven by Mitchell, the patrol said.

Sauer To Train Students As Rec Supervisors

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — George H. Sauer, the veteran football player, coach and scout, in September will start training men and women as recreation supervisors at Texas State Technical Institute.

TSTI Thursday announced Sauer's appointment as associate professor and chairman of a two-year program to prepare students for jobs with city, state and country recreation departments as well as private clubs and recreational organizations.

TSTI is a vocational institution operated by the State of Texas. Since the recreation program is new, Sauer is already at work on curriculum design, organization of an advisory committee, contacting prospective students and setting up physical facilities.

Sauer joined TSTI after 12 years with pro football as a general manager, director of player personnel and scout. His last pro football job was with the New England Patriots, for whom he scouted Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Feb. 23, the 54th day of 1973 with 311 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1942, a Japanese submarine fired 25 shells at an oil refinery near Santa Barbara, Calif., two and a half months after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor catapulted the United States into World War II.

In 1945, six members of the 5th Division of the U.S. Marines planted an American flag atop Mt. Suribachi on the Pacific island of Iwo Jima.

A thought for the day: American playwright Irwin Shaw said, "There are too many books I haven't read, too many places I haven't seen, too many memories I haven't kept long enough."

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

White House Picketing Planned For Total Asian Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anti-war activists, unconvinced that the Vietnam cease-fire spells the end of the war, said today they would picket the White House Saturday demanding complete American withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

The picket line, to be composed of members of the steering committee of the National Peace Action Coalition and local Washington peace groups, will be the first antiwar demonstration in Washington since the Vietnam accords were signed Jan. 27.

At the same time, however, NPAC spokesmen gave some indication that in the future the movement will stress domestic concerns, particularly President Nixon's dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Ailing activist Julius Hobson, a member of NPAC's national steering committee and the vice presidential candidate of the radical People's Party in the November election, accused Nixon of "transferring the war in Vietnam to 14th and U," a reference to a Washington ghetto.

Hobson, suffering from cancer of the bone marrow, appeared at the NPAC news conference in a wheelchair. He said that the dismantling of the poverty programs "signals an attack on blacks and poor."

"I'm damned frightened of this man Richard Nixon," Hobson said, adding that he felt "more danger at this time than in any time in my life."

While stressing the impact of Nixon's decision to end the poverty programs, Hobson also said he did not believe the Vietnam War was over.

"We've got a garrison on every continent and a flotilla on sea," he said.

He cited continued aid for the Thieu regime, the presence of 10,000 American advisers in Southeast Asia, and the maintenance of airfields in Thailand and ships off the coast of Vietnam as evidence that the United States has not ended its involvement in Vietnam.

Sauer To Train Students As Rec Supervisors

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — George H. Sauer, the veteran football player, coach and scout, in September will start training men and women as recreation supervisors at Texas State Technical Institute.

TSTI Thursday announced Sauer's appointment as associate professor and chairman of a two-year program to prepare students for jobs with city, state and country recreation departments as well as private clubs and recreational organizations.

TSTI is a vocational institution operated by the State of Texas. Since the recreation program is new, Sauer is already at work on curriculum design, organization of an advisory committee, contacting prospective students and setting up physical facilities.

Sauer joined TSTI after 12 years with pro football as a general manager, director of player personnel and scout. His last pro football job was with the New England Patriots, for whom he scouted Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

Judge Finds Evidence For Trial

A Marin Municipal Court judge found enough evidence yesterday to try two men arrested in a car with more than 20 pounds of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered Edward Lovell Mitchell, 52, of Marin City, and 24-year-old Gregg Stacey of no known address to appear for arraignment in Marin Superior Court March 19.

The California Highway Patrol arrested the two Jan. 30 during what began as a routine traffic stop. Found in the car, stopped in Greenbrae because it had been weaving on Highway 101, were 10 kilos of marijuana and about 100 tablets believed to be amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizers.

Mitchell and Stacey subsequently were charged with felony counts of having pot and dangerous drugs, but no charge was filed against Sheryl Ann Rudder, 18, who was arrested with the men. Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino said insufficient evidence tied her to the drugs found.

The marijuana was in a carton in the rear of the station wagon driven by Mitchell, the patrol said.

Parents Take State Hospital Closing Protest To Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Parents protesting the proposed closure of state hospitals for the mentally retarded today carried a promise from Gov. Ronald Reagan to "take a good hard look" before shutting down any of the facilities.

Led by actor Barry Sullivan, parent groups besieged the state Capitol Thursday to oppose the Reagan administration's plan to get the state out of the business of providing "direct care" to the mentally retarded.

The administration is asking the Legislature to approve a program to transfer mentally retarded patients to local care facilities by 1982.

Sullivan, whose mentally retarded son is a patient at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona, testified before a Senate subcommittee while pickets protested outside the Capitol. Later, he and other parents met with Reagan for almost two hours in the governor's office.

After the meeting, Sullivan reported Reagan "told us, in essence, all things will be held in abeyance until a good hard look is taken."

Edwin Gray, press secretary for Reagan, later said the group's report of what happened in the meeting was "in essence, correct."

Sullivan said "we don't know what is going to happen but we opened a line of communication that previously wasn't there" with Reagan, a former fellow film actor.

"The governor is not out to hurt mentally retarded children. We have to assume this," said Sullivan.

Earlier Thursday, Reagan defended plans to close state hospitals for both the mentally ill and retarded and declared some legislators are "trying to further their partisan goals" by confusing parents about the closures.

"No one is being shoved out (of the hospitals) until counties are ready to take care of them" the governor said in a question-and-answer session with a group of high school students.

BACKS MAILERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says he sees nothing wrong with Santa Anita racetrack mailing free political newsletters for California legislators.

In fact, the Van Nuys Democrat added, it might be a "healthy direction" in campaign contributing.

Lobbyist Kenneth A. Ross Jr., who promotes the interests of Santa Anita, recently announced he was setting up an $80,000-a-year fund to mail free political newsletters for each of the 120 assemblymen and senators. All the money will come from the racetrack.

Asked at a news conference Thursday how he felt about this, Moretti replied: "First of all, we must be adult enough to recognize that Santa Anita and almost everybody else from labor unions to the California Manufacturers Association does contribute to campaigns.

"Maybe the direction Santa Anita has taken is a healthy direction. Some people ought to be more relaxed at this because it is not a dollar contribution."

Moretti, who has sponsored horserace legislation and received contributions from racetracks, said "good will" is generated by any organization that donates political money — whether it be the "humane society, labor unions or Santa Anita."

POT PENALTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation reducing the maximum penalty for possession of marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor has been introduced by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles.

An identical bill was vetoed last year by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who said California's present marijuana law was "one of the best in the United States."

Sieroty's bill (AB449), introduced Thursday, would impose a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine for a first offense. Subsequent violations would be punishable by one year in jail and a $500 fine.

Currently, a judge has the discretion whether to impose a felony or a misdemeanor sentence on marijuana users, making the maximum penalty today 10 years in state prison.

AGAINST AID

"We'll rebuild North Vietnam after we rebuild the United States of America as far as I'm concerned," he told newsmen Thursday.

"We're going to rebuild the country that we in part destroyed. And in order to do that we're going to cut back from rebuilding our own country, rebuilding our own cities and giving our own people the kind of programs and services they need.

"That," he declared, "is the most reverse kind of logic I can conceive of."

Moretti, referring to President Nixon's announced plans to aid Hanoi and his simultaneous cutbacks in domestic spending, concluded that the result makes a "sham" of the President's much-publicized federal revenue sharing program.

PROP. 4 VOTE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted unanimously to accept legislative rules implementing Prop. 4 and giving chairmen more power over their committees.

On a 51-0 vote Thursday, the Assembly passed a resolution (AJR9) by Rules Committee Chairman John Burton, D-San Francisco, and sent it to the Senate where opposition is expected.

The rules would give committee chairmen power to force committee members to attend meetings under the threat of having the sergeant at arms summon them.

SMOKING HIT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John V. Briggs has dug into the past, back to the days of dirt streets and gold-rush saloons, to find a law putting tobacco puffers in a class by themselves, literally.

The Fullerton Republican, who doesn't smoke, doesn't like it and has authored a bill to make it illegal in public places said Thursday a new law like his (AB202) may not be necessary.

"It looks as if it has always been against the law to contaminate the air by smoking in public places," the lawmaker said, pointing to an 1872 penal law.

The 100-year old statute makes it illegal to "release, discharge or expose...(in) any theater, restaurant, place of business, place of amusement or any place of public assemblage any liquid, gaseous or solid substance of matter of any kind injurious. . . or nauseous, sickening, irritating or offensive to any of the senses."

"Protection against smoke-filled rooms," Briggs said, "may just be a case of enforcing current law to safeguard the health of nonsmokers." He asked Attorney General Evelle J. Younger for an opinion.

Yankee Station

Nixon Praises Military Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has told a delegation of Boy Scouts he hopes some of them will follow military careers because it is "an honorable profession."

Nixon received the annual report of the Boy Scouts of America Thursday and received from the 15 boys and one girl who presented it a membership card as honorary national president of the group.

"You no longer are confronted with the draft," Nixon said. "You have a choice now whether you want to enter the armed services. I hope some of you will because it is an honorable profession."

Mrs. Bellard Is Improving

HOUSTON (UPI) — Methodist Hospital officials said today that the condition of Mary Kay Bellard, the wife of the Texas A&M football coach and athletic director, has improved. Mrs. Bellard was taken to the hospital because of a swollen blood vessel in her head.

"She rested comfortably Thursday night but still remains in special neuro-intensive care unit," a hospital spokesman said.

Bagley Asks One-Year Tax Void On Incomes Less Than $6,000

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's embattled plan to cut temporarily income taxes by 20 per cent will be sweetened with an amendment to eliminate them entirely for persons earning less than $6,000, it was disclosed today.

"If they (Democrats) want to play the game, I'll play the game too," said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, sponsor of Reagan's proposal in the lower house.

Democrats, led by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, have attacked Reagan's proposal as "extremely regressive." Moretti says "it's just not fair" and contends rich people would benefit more than the poor.

The one-time 20 per cent tax reduction on income earned during this calendar year is a crucial part of Reagan's proposal to use up an $852 million revenue surplus the state says it is stockpiling.

Besides the across-the-board income tax cut, Reagan has proposed delaying a scheduled June 1 penny sales tax increase until Jan. 1 and using roughly $65 million for coastline acquisition and rebuilding the state capitol.

Bagley said he will amend in a one-time 100 per cent income tax reduction for persons earning less than $6,000 a year when the bill (AB148) encounters its first hearing Monday in the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

"Unfortunately, we're going to have to engage in a little poker game," Bagley told UPI.

He added, "the governor fully supports this amendment."

Bagley said his amendment will cost a relatively small sum, $10.8 million, but benefit approximately one-half million taxpayers. This comprises about 10 per cent of those who file income tax returns and one-third of the single taxpayers, he said.

Asked whether this would help him gain Democratic support for the proposal, Bagley conceded: "No. But it will dramatize the issue."

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The symbol of Missouri, the Black Bear, is a black bear even when its color is brown or even tan.

Parents Take State Hospital Closing Protest To Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Parents protesting the proposed closure of state hospitals for the mentally retarded today carried a promise from Gov. Ronald Reagan to "take a good hard look" before shutting down any of the facilities.

Led by actor Barry Sullivan, parent groups besieged the state Capitol Thursday to oppose the Reagan administration's plan to get the state out of the business of providing "direct care" to the mentally retarded.

The administration is asking the Legislature to approve a program to transfer mentally retarded patients to local care facilities by 1982.

Sullivan, whose mentally retarded son is a patient at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona, testified before a Senate subcommittee while pickets protested outside the Capitol. Later, he and other parents met with Reagan for almost two hours in the governor's office.

After the meeting, Sullivan reported Reagan "told us, in essence, all things will be held in abeyance until a good hard look is taken."

Edwin Gray, press secretary for Reagan, later said the group's report of what happened in the meeting was "in essence, correct."

Sullivan said "we don't know what is going to happen but we opened a line of communication that previously wasn't there" with Reagan, a former fellow film actor.

"The governor is not out to hurt mentally retarded children. We have to assume this," said Sullivan.

Earlier Thursday, Reagan defended plans to close state hospitals for both the mentally ill and retarded and declared some legislators are "trying to further their partisan goals" by confusing parents about the closures.

"No one is being shoved out (of the hospitals) until counties are ready to take care of them" the governor said in a question-and-answer session with a group of high school students.

BACKS MAILERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says he sees nothing wrong with Santa Anita racetrack mailing free political newsletters for California legislators.

In fact, the Van Nuys Democrat added, it might be a "healthy direction" in campaign contributing.

Lobbyist Kenneth A. Ross Jr., who promotes the interests of Santa Anita, recently announced he was setting up an $80,000-a-year fund to mail free political newsletters for each of the 120 assemblymen and senators. All the money will come from the racetrack.

Asked at a news conference Thursday how he felt about this, Moretti replied: "First of all, we must be adult enough to recognize that Santa Anita and almost everybody else from labor unions to the California Manufacturers Association does contribute to campaigns.

"Maybe the direction Santa Anita has taken is a healthy direction. Some people ought to be more relaxed at this because it is not a dollar contribution."

Moretti, who has sponsored horserace legislation and received contributions from racetracks, said "good will" is generated by any organization that donates political money — whether it be the "humane society, labor unions or Santa Anita."

POT PENALTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation reducing the maximum penalty for possession of marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor has been introduced by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles.

An identical bill was vetoed last year by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who said California's present marijuana law was "one of the best in the United States."

Sieroty's bill (AB449), introduced Thursday, would impose a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine for a first offense. Subsequent violations would be punishable by one year in jail and a $500 fine.

Currently, a judge has the discretion whether to impose a felony or a misdemeanor sentence on marijuana users, making the maximum penalty today 10 years in state prison.

AGAINST AID

"We'll rebuild North Vietnam after we rebuild the United States of America as far as I'm concerned," he told newsmen Thursday.

"We're going to rebuild the country that we in part destroyed. And in order to do that we're going to cut back from rebuilding our own country, rebuilding our own cities and giving our own people the kind of programs and services they need.

"That," he declared, "is the most reverse kind of logic I can conceive of."

Moretti, referring to President Nixon's announced plans to aid Hanoi and his simultaneous cutbacks in domestic spending, concluded that the result makes a "sham" of the President's much-publicized federal revenue sharing program.

PROP. 4 VOTE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted unanimously to accept legislative rules implementing Prop. 4 and giving chairmen more power over their committees.

On a 51-0 vote Thursday, the Assembly passed a resolution (AJR9) by Rules Committee Chairman John Burton, D-San Francisco, and sent it to the Senate where opposition is expected.

The rules would give committee chairmen power to force committee members to attend meetings under the threat of having the sergeant at arms summon them.

SMOKING HIT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John V. Briggs has dug into the past, back to the days of dirt streets and gold - rush saloons, to find a law putting tobacco puffers in a class by themselves, literally.

The Fullerton Republican, who doesn't smoke, doesn't like it and has authored a bill to make it illegal in public places said Thursday a new law like his (AB202) may not be necessary.

"It looks as if it has always been against the law to contaminate the air by smoking in public places," the lawmaker said, pointing to an 1872 penal law.

The 100-year old statute makes it illegal to "release, discharge or expose...(in) any theater, restaurant, place of business, place of amusement or any place of public assemblage any liquid, gaseous or solid substance of matter of any kind injurious. . . or nauseous, sickening, irritating or offensive to any of the senses."

"Protection against smoke-filled rooms," Briggs said, "may just be a case of enforcing current law to safeguard the health of nonsmokers." He asked Attorney General Evelle J. Younger for an opinion.

Nixon Praises Military Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has told a delegation of Boy Scouts he hopes some of them will follow military careers because it is "an honorable profession."

Nixon received the annual report of the Boy Scouts of America Thursday and received from the 15 boys and one girl who presented it a membership card as honorary national president of the group.

"You no longer are confronted with the draft," Nixon said. "You have a choice now whether you want to enter the armed services. I hope some of you will because it is an honorable profession."

Yankee Station

Open Doors On BART Are Noted

OAKLAND (UPI) — An expert who conducted a three-month study of the Bay Area Rapid Transit System says quality control was so poor train doors suddenly opened while cars were moving at more than 20 miles an hour.

Robert A. Profet, an electronics consultant hired by BART, told the system's directors Thursday there were no injuries on the three occasions when the doors flew open.

He also said the doors opened on the wrong side of a train at one station and if passengers had stepped out they would have fallen two stories to a city street.

Profet said the difficulties have resulted because BART handed over control of its design and equipment to consulting and manufacturing firms.

The systems' own maintenance people are not aware when changes are made and often things go uncorrected, he said.

Profet said BART was still "the best return on the tax dollar ever made in California."

"We are only criticizing a small portion of the system, 2 ½ per cent, but it turns out that that small portion is highly important to the operation of the whole system," he said.

General manager B.R. Stokes said he found some aspects of the report "quite surprising."

"Certain things brought up by Mr. Profet were based on a single instance. To broaden that into a generalization is, I think, quite misleading."

Profet also criticized Rohr Industries of Chula Vista, makers of the BART cars, and Westinghouse Corp., manufacturers of the automatic train control system.

Westinghouse had modified equipment without advising BART technicians who would be responsibele for maintenance, he said, and, cited cases in which as many as 29 modifications had been made in circuits. BART engineers were told of only 19.

Some of Rohr's cars had between 100 and 200 defects, Profit's report stated, and occasionally cars were accepted in spite of the shortcomings.

Visas Hold Up Tour Of Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Crewmen aboard a Russian ship waiting in the Port of Houston have been barred from seeing their first American city because their visas have not arrived from Moscow.

Capt. Vladimir Ozobinsky said Thursday his tanker Lozovaya arrived in the port earlier this week after waiting in the Gulf of Mexico almost a month for a place to dock.

Georgia Studying Tourist Tollway

"There's an old saying that one Yankee tourist is worth two bales of cotton, and a hell of a lot easier to pick," Deputy Transportation Commissioner Emory C. Parrish observed.

Little More Action Seen To Halt Food Price Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ezra Solomon, an economic adviser to President Nixon, says the administration has done about all government can do to combat rising food prices and what has been done should take effect later in the year.

Solomon, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, predicted at a White House briefing Thursday that retail food prices will level off toward the end of the year as a result of government actions and that farm prices will actually decline.

He made the assessment after the government announced that while most prices were relatively stable in January, food prices rose by 2.1 per cent, the biggest monthly jump since an increase of 2.5 per cent in January, 1951, during the Korean war period.

At the same time, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) figures showed that since President Nixon first took office in January, 1969, several staple foods have shown large price increases.

Bacon, for instance, has jumped 29 cents a pound to $1.07 in the past four years. Coffee costs 20 cents a pound more, while porterhouse steak is up 42 cents a pound to $1.88 and pork chops 36 cents to $1.40 a pound.

Solomon during his session with newsmen listed what the government has done to attack the problem: induced farmers to put more acreage into production; removed import quotas on meat and dried milk; ended subsidies for farm exports and reduced food stockpiles and encouraged farmers to follow suit.

He was asked what householders should do about soaring rents. His advice was that they should move.

"There is no reason that they ought to put up with that sort of nonsense," he said when told that rent increases of 40 per cent and more have been posted.

He predicted relief here, too. He said when the record number of housing starts of 1972 are converted into housing completions this year, the shortages which are creating heavy rent increases will be alleviated.

The BLS gave some other retail price comparisons. The first price is from January, 1969, and the second from January, 1973:

"Certain things brought up by Mr. Profet were based on a single instance. To broaden that into a generalization is, I think, quite misleading."

Profet also criticized Rohr Industries of Chula Vista, makers of the BART cars, and Westinghouse Corp., manufacturers of the automatic train control system.

Westinghouse had modified equipment without advising BART technicians who would be responsibele for maintenance, he said, and, cited cases in which as many as 29 modifications had been made in circuits. BART engineers were told of only 19.

Some of Rohr's cars had between 100 and 200 defects, Profit's report stated, and occasionally cars were accepted in spite of the shortcomings.

Visas Hold Up Tour Of Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Crewmen aboard a Russian ship waiting in the Port of Houston have been barred from seeing their first American city because their visas have not arrived from Moscow.

Capt. Vladimir Ozobinsky said Thursday his tanker Lozovaya arrived in the port earlier this week after waiting in the Gulf of Mexico almost a month for a place to dock.

Georgia Studying Tourist Tollway

"There's an old saying that one Yankee tourist is worth two bales of cotton, and a hell of a lot easier to pick," Deputy Transportation Commissioner Emory C. Parrish observed.

Little More Action Seen To Halt Food Price Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ezra Solomon, an economic adviser to President Nixon, says the administration has done about all government can do to combat rising food prices and what has been done should take effect later in the year.

Solomon, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, predicted at a White House briefing Thursday that retail food prices will level off toward the end of the year as a result of government actions and that farm prices will actually decline.

He made the assessment after the government announced that while most prices were relatively stable in January, food prices rose by 2.1 per cent, the biggest monthly jump since an increase of 2.5 per cent in January, 1951, during the Korean war period.

At the same time, Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) figures showed that since President Nixon first took office in January, 1969, several staple foods have shown large price increases.

Bacon, for instance, has jumped 29 cents a pound to $1.07 in the past four years. Coffee costs 20 cents a pound more, while porterhouse steak is up 42 cents a pound to $1.88 and pork chops 36 cents to $1.40 a pound.

Solomon during his session with newsmen listed what the government has done to attack the problem: induced farmers to put more acreage into production; removed import quotas on meat and dried milk; ended subsidies for farm exports and reduced food stockpiles and encouraged farmers to follow suit.

He was asked what householders should do about soaring rents. His advice was that they should move.

"There is no reason that they ought to put up with that sort of nonsense," he said when told that rent increases of 40 per cent and more have been posted.

He predicted relief here, too. He said when the record number of housing starts of 1972 are converted into housing completions this year, the shortages which are creating heavy rent increases will be alleviated.

The BLS gave some other retail price comparisons. The first price is from January, 1969, and the second from January, 1973:

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23

What's in a name? Today's birthday celebrities can be identified by translating their surnames into Old English, Spanish, French, and German. Who are they?

1. WILLIAM L. SHERIFF could be his name in Jolly Old England. But in the 20th Century his last name (other than this) became a household word because of his radio broadcasts from a Europe plunging into World War II. He is probably best known as the author of "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich." He's 69 today.

2. PETER INN, son of a famous Hollywood actor and brother to actress Jane, is 34 years old today. In Spanish their last name means "hotel, inn, lodging-house." But you'll probably recognize him from the movies in which he starred: "Easy Riders," "The Trip," and "The Wild Angels."

3. WILLIAM E. B. WOOD acquired a French last name in black slavery. But he became famous with it as a Negro professor, organizer and writer. He is a founder of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and helped develop the 1945 United Nations Charter. Translation of "wood" into French gives you his identity.

4. GEORGE F. TRADE is how one would refer in English to this celebrated German composer. This 18th Century genius studied both law and the organ, settling finally on advanced musical studies in Italy. Although native to Lower Saxony, he spent most of his later life in England, where his oratorios are celebrated to this day.

ANSWERS: 1 - William L. Shirer; 2 - Peter Fonda; 3 - William E. B. Du Bois; 4 - George Frederick Handel.

When you went to your first party, your mother undoubtedly instructed you not to take everything that was offered to you. Of course you didn't take this advice, but maybe wisdom has come with the years. Try a little self-denial at the bridge table.

NO SIDE ENTRY

East won the first trick with the king of hearts and returned a heart to remove dummy's ace. Now there was no side entry in dummy for the long clubs.

Undismayed, South returned a low club from dummy and finessed with the nine of clubs from his own hand. This fine play gave West a chance to blunder.

You can see what happens if West wins with the jack of clubs. South later overtakes the king of clubs with dummy's ace. When the queen of clubs drops on this trick, the rest of dummy's long suit becomes good.

SEES TRAP

Seeing the trap just in time, West refused to win the club trick. Now South was in trouble, with only two club tricks instead of five.

After some thought, South decided to play for a 3-3 break in spades, with the king in the East hand. He therefore led a low spade after being allowed to win a trick with the nine of clubs.

SOUTH IN JAM

West won and knocked out the jack of hearts. Now South overtook the king of clubs with dummy's ace to try a spade finesse. This lost, and West cashed two hearts and the jack of clubs to put South down two. Refusing the first club trick made a difference of three tricks to the defenders.

South can made the contract if he sees all of the cards. After winning with the nine of clubs, South cashes the king of clubs, the jack of hearts and the top diamonds. Then he puts West in with a low spade. West can cash two hearts but must then give South three spades or dummy three clubs.

Victim Says Charged Guard Is Wrong Man

The Marin County District Attorney's Office yesterday accused one San Quentin guard with disturbing the peace of another in a melee outside a San Rafael tavern Monday, but the victim said later in court the prosecutor had the wrong man.

Gary Lee Jackson, 29, of San Rafael, was charged with disturbing the peace of fellow officer James Ellis Butler, 31, of Rohnert Park, but Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court continued the case to Thursday for possible dismissal when Butler said Jackson was the wrong man.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter J. Andersen said he will file an amended charge against Jackson of disturbing the peace of Lonni Lawder Rivas, 27, of San Rafael, who himself is charged with assaulting Butler with a knife.

San Rafael police said Jackson punched Rivas during the melee at Fourth and Lootens Place. Accounts of what touched off the fracas varied, but police said exchanges between patrons of George's San Rafael Recreation Parlor and seven guards apparently caused the fighting.

A dozen officers were required to break up the melee.

Dennis Hugh Jensen, 20, of San Rafael, who was to appear yesterday for arraignment on a charge of disturbing the peace, failed to arrive. Judge Smith ordered a bench warrant for his arrest and set bail at $250.

Rivas pleaded innocent to the felony assault charge Wednesday and is to return to court Tuesday for a preliminary hearing.

Bones Said Those Of Tall Indian

Parts of a skeleton found by fishermen yesterday on the west shore of Tomales Bay have been identified as those of a prehistoric Indian who probably towered 6 feet, 8 inches tall, Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig reported yesterday.

There are numerous Indian burial grounds along the Tomales Bay shoreline, and a number of skeletons have been found in the area, Craig said.

Craig added that the skeleton, lacking feet and hands, was seen jutting from a slope on the shoreline, by two unidentified fishermen. They dug out the bones, then turned them over to sheriff's deputies who relayed them to Craig.

Board Suspends Supervisor Of Recreation

Otis Gaines, recreation supervisor for the Marin City Community Services District has been suspended from his duties for 30 days for "conduct unbecoming an employee."

The district board ordered Gaines's suspension at its Wednesday meeting after gathering briefly in closed session, according to Lillian Lee, district secretary. He was suspended without pay.

Frank Phillips Sr., board chairman, said the action was taken because Gaines had "called board members names and interrupted meetings."

Last week the board fired the district's executive director, Daniel Winters. Winters had held the job for about two years.

Leeds Withdraws Shockley Degree

LEEDS, England (AP) — Leeds University announced today it has withdrawn an offer of an honorary degree to American Nobel Prize-winning scientist Prof. William Shockley one of the developers of the transistor.

Shockley's stated belief that blacks are generally genetically inferior to whites has involved him in considerable controversy.

Manzanita Repairs Approved

The Sausalito School District board last night agreed to spend $2,275 for repairs to the vacant Manazanita School in Marin City.

Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg said the money will go to replace windows, repair windows, paint and clean the building which the district intends to rent to the Marin City Community Services District for use by community groups.

No lease has been signed yet, according to the superintendent who said the services district has been waiting for the school district to agree to make the repairs. The district will lease the empty school for $1 a year.

The board also authorized Lindberg to proceed with plans for an early childhood education program in the district. The state Board of Education has ordered local district to be ready to begin the programs during the 1973-74 school year.

Lindberg said a community advisory committee —yet to be formed — will assist in the planning. The group will include trustees, administrators, teachers and district residents.

Movie Theater Plan Approved In Cotati

The theater first had been planned for property on Highway 101 in Rohnert Park. Construction is scheduled to begin in several months.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

PRIORITIES — Set replacement of leaky water lines as top priority in the 1973-74 capital outlay budget. Lines on Arthur and George streets will be replaced first at cost of about $26,000.

PARKING LOT — Approved plans by Floyd Mattern for a 30-space parking lot for commuters at 78 West Sierra Avenue. He said monthly permits will be sold.

LOT SPLIT — Approved the application of Laura Washburn to split her property at 733 School Street into four lots.

Youths Nailed In Auto Theft

Two Petaluma youths were arrested yesterday at 3 p.m. on suspicion of car theft after leading police on a foot chase through sewer disposal land.

The pair, aged 16 and 17, was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall. Police withheld their names on advice of the Sonoma County District Attorney's office.

Police said the youths were seen in a car reported stolen from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds by James L. Thomas, 200 Prospect Street, Petaluma. Officers said the youths abandoned the car in the boat launching ramp parking lot and ran across the field toward the sewer treatment plant.

Victim Says Charged Guard Is Wrong Man

The Marin County District Attorney's Office yesterday accused one San Quentin guard with disturbing the peace of another in a melee outside a San Rafael tavern Monday, but the victim said later in court the prosecutor had the wrong man.

Gary Lee Jackson, 29, of San Rafael, was charged with disturbing the peace of fellow officer James Ellis Butler, 31, of Rohnert Park, but Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court continued the case to Thursday for possible dismissal when Butler said Jackson was the wrong man.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter J. Andersen said he will file an amended charge against Jackson of disturbing the peace of Lonni Lawder Rivas, 27, of San Rafael, who himself is charged with assaulting Butler with a knife.

San Rafael police said Jackson punched Rivas during the melee at Fourth and Lootens Place. Accounts of what touched off the fracas varied, but police said exchanges between patrons of George's San Rafael Recreation Parlor and seven guards apparently caused the fighting.

A dozen officers were required to break up the melee.

Dennis Hugh Jensen, 20, of San Rafael, who was to appear yesterday for arraignment on a charge of disturbing the peace, failed to arrive. Judge Smith ordered a bench warrant for his arrest and set bail at $250.

Rivas pleaded innocent to the felony assault charge Wednesday and is to return to court Tuesday for a preliminary hearing.

Bones Said Those Of Tall Indian

Parts of a skeleton found by fishermen yesterday on the west shore of Tomales Bay have been identified as those of a prehistoric Indian who probably towered 6 feet, 8 inches tall, Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig reported yesterday.

There are numerous Indian burial grounds along the Tomales Bay shoreline, and a number of skeletons have been found in the area, Craig said.

Craig added that the skeleton, lacking feet and hands, was seen jutting from a slope on the shoreline, by two unidentified fishermen. They dug out the bones, then turned them over to sheriff's deputies who relayed them to Craig.

Board Suspends Supervisor Of Recreation

Otis Gaines, recreation supervisor for the Marin City Community Services District has been suspended from his duties for 30 days for "conduct unbecoming an employee."

The district board ordered Gaines's suspension at its Wednesday meeting after gathering briefly in closed session, according to Lillian Lee, district secretary. He was suspended without pay.

Frank Phillips Sr., board chairman, said the action was taken because Gaines had "called board members names and interrupted meetings."

Last week the board fired the district's executive director, Daniel Winters. Winters had held the job for about two years.

Leeds Withdraws Shockley Degree

LEEDS, England (AP) — Leeds University announced today it has withdrawn an offer of an honorary degree to American Nobel Prize-winning scientist Prof. William Shockley one of the developers of the transistor.

Shockley's stated belief that blacks are generally genetically inferior to whites has involved him in considerable controversy.

Manzanita Repairs Approved

The Sausalito School District board last night agreed to spend $2,275 for repairs to the vacant Manazanita School in Marin City.

Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg said the money will go to replace windows, repair windows, paint and clean the building which the district intends to rent to the Marin City Community Services District for use by community groups.

No lease has been signed yet, according to the superintendent who said the services district has been waiting for the school district to agree to make the repairs. The district will lease the empty school for $1 a year.

The board also authorized Lindberg to proceed with plans for an early childhood education program in the district. The state Board of Education has ordered local district to be ready to begin the programs during the 1973-74 school year.

Lindberg said a community advisory committee —yet to be formed — will assist in the planning. The group will include trustees, administrators, teachers and district residents.

Movie Theater Plan Approved In Cotati

The theater first had been planned for property on Highway 101 in Rohnert Park. Construction is scheduled to begin in several months.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

PRIORITIES — Set replacement of leaky water lines as top priority in the 1973-74 capital outlay budget. Lines on Arthur and George streets will be replaced first at cost of about $26,000.

PARKING LOT — Approved plans by Floyd Mattern for a 30-space parking lot for commuters at 78 West Sierra Avenue. He said monthly permits will be sold.

LOT SPLIT — Approved the application of Laura Washburn to split her property at 733 School Street into four lots.

Youths Nailed In Auto Theft

Two Petaluma youths were arrested yesterday at 3 p.m. on suspicion of car theft after leading police on a foot chase through sewer disposal land.

The pair, aged 16 and 17, was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall. Police withheld their names on advice of the Sonoma County District Attorney's office.

Police said the youths were seen in a car reported stolen from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds by James L. Thomas, 200 Prospect Street, Petaluma. Officers said the youths abandoned the car in the boat launching ramp parking lot and ran across the field toward the sewer treatment plant.

AT SONOMA STATE HOSPITAL

Patients Find Love At 'The Farm'

By KAREN PETERSON

Past the dorms, laboratories and offices of Sonoma State Hospital and over rolling hills covered with bright green grass and a sprinkling of yellow mustard flowers, lies the private world of the hospital's Junior Farm.

In an atmosphere not unlike many rural settings, residents and visitors are greeted with neatly painted red barns, white fences and a menagerie of animals including a miniature hybrid bull, Lucy the monkey and Doris, the French Cameroon mini-goat.

Dale Hopper, an enthusiastic, dedicated man, is the manager and "founder" of the farm. A 13-year hospital employee with six years in the recreation and rehabilitation department, Hopper embarked on the farm project in 1968 after the hospital's hog and dairy ranch closed.

Hopper, who admitted many thought his project "hair-brained" in the beginning, had led excursion trips and hikes through the former ranch to let patients catch a glimpse of animals "in their natural state."

WHEN THE ranch closed, Hopper balked at the idea of taking patients on trips to the San Francisco zoo instead.

"They couldn't get anything out of seeing caged animals and it was a long way to go," he said.

Taking over the ranch buildings, spending two staight weeks with a fire hose just to remove the ground-in dirt, Hopper and his assistant, Patrick McMurty, prepared the buildings for their "guests."

Horses, burros, sheep, pigs, calves and a collection of fowl make up the farm population. All the animals are donated except calves and pigs, which are loaned to the farm by a rancher, raised and fed by the farm and returned when "they're no longer cute."

The farm is open to all hospital residents and while just a short distance from the main hospital grounds puts them in a totally different environment.

Whether they take advantage of the short walk to the farm or ride the elephant train, a motorized, colorfully decorated train that shuttles around the grounds, residents can pet, watch and enjoy the animals.

"I believe there are two ways to reach any person, retarded or normal, severely retarded or mildly," said Hopper. "One is music and the other is animals.

"I've seen kids come over afraid of everything. One in particular was deathly afraid of animals but within four or five months, he was kissing them. I've seen this happen with so many of the patients.

"It's a completely different world here. It's like a real farm, and it's good for the kids to get out here.

MARSHA McFARLAN is one of the eight Red Cross volunteers from Marin who visit the hospital each Tuesday. And Mrs. McFarlan is equally enthusiastic about the farm.

"The blind can hear the sounds and the deaf can pet and feel the feathers and the fur. Everybody comes out here and it's so wonderful for the kids."

The volunteers and the Sonoma State Hospital Auxiliary are attempting to help Hopper raise the $560 needed for heating the barn.

"The farm is an exciting thing," said Mrs. McFarlan and she fears the lack of heating may dampen further farm projects.

"The temperature in the barn fell to 20 degrees this past winter," said Hopper, "and the animals were actually shivering." The combination of a leg injury and the extreme cold caused the death of one deer," he added.

"When I just think about all I can do it's all right, but when I start talking about it, I get frustrated.

"There are so many things we want to do here and I believe things are looking up. If the Red Cross can't get the money, I'll do something — and hope for the best after that."

IN AN OUTDOOR area just off the main barn, Hopper plans to construct a grassy picnic area with tables and planters of flowers. The area, he pointed out, will be close enough to the enclosed field for the patients to watch the movements of the sheep, calves and goats on the hill.

In brilliant blues and yellows, McMurty has painted a sunshine greeting proudly announcing "Junior Farm" on the side of one of the small buildings. In this building Hopper hopes to someday house a reptile garden.

Adding that they are always in need of donations, especially for the reptile farm, Hopper in turn joked that the members of the booming guinea pig population will be donated to whomever wants one.

Children In Language Experiment

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Small children in Davis aged two to five are being sought to participate in an ongoing study in the relatively new field of developmental psycholinguistics.

Despite the imposing title, the field merely deals with how children learn to use language, according to Carol Wall, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of California.

"For instance, very young children don't distinguish between plural pronouns such as 'we' and 'them.' Both words mean the same thing to them. They also have trouble with the concept of 'I' versus 'you'" Miss Wall said.

"What we are trying to find out is how and when children learn to differentiate the meanings behind these words."

"It's a completely different world here. It's like a real farm, and it's good for the kids to get out here.

MARSHA McFARLAN is one of the eight Red Cross volunteers from Marin who visit the hospital each Tuesday. And Mrs. McFarlan is equally enthusiastic about the farm.

"The blind can hear the sounds and the deaf can pet and feel the feathers and the fur. Everybody comes out here and it's so wonderful for the kids."

The volunteers and the Sonoma State Hospital Auxiliary are attempting to help Hopper raise the $560 needed for heating the barn.

"The farm is an exciting thing," said Mrs. McFarlan and she fears the lack of heating may dampen further farm projects.

"The temperature in the barn fell to 20 degrees this past winter," said Hopper, "and the animals were actually shivering." The combination of a leg injury and the extreme cold caused the death of one deer," he added.

"When I just think about all I can do it's all right, but when I start talking about it, I get frustrated.

"There are so many things we want to do here and I believe things are looking up. If the Red Cross can't get the money, I'll do something — and hope for the best after that."

IN AN OUTDOOR area just off the main barn, Hopper plans to construct a grassy picnic area with tables and planters of flowers. The area, he pointed out, will be close enough to the enclosed field for the patients to watch the movements of the sheep, calves and goats on the hill.

In brilliant blues and yellows, McMurty has painted a sunshine greeting proudly announcing "Junior Farm" on the side of one of the small buildings. In this building Hopper hopes to someday house a reptile garden.

Adding that they are always in need of donations, especially for the reptile farm, Hopper in turn joked that the members of the booming guinea pig population will be donated to whomever wants one.

The Consumer Resource Center at Tamalpais High School will open officially with a panel discussion by consumer experts at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the student center on the Mill Valley campus.

"The Differences Between a Consumption Directed Economy and a Consumer Directed Economy" will be discussed by John J. At 1 p.m., the center itself, located adjacent to the sewing laboratory in Wood Hall, will be opened to students and visitors. Here, materials such as current publications, film strips and tapes have been collected for easy reference on consumer subjects.

Children In Language Experiment

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Small children in Davis aged two to five are being sought to participate in an ongoing study in the relatively new field of developmental psycholinguistics.

Despite the imposing title, the field merely deals with how children learn to use language, according to Carol Wall, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of California.

"For instance, very young children don't distinguish between plural pronouns such as 'we' and 'them.' Both words mean the same thing to them. They also have trouble with the concept of 'I' versus 'you'" Miss Wall said.

"What we are trying to find out is how and when children learn to differentiate the meanings behind these words."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Sales Pitches' After Baby's Death Are A Cruel Reminder

DEAR HELEN:

Our baby survived only two days after he was born. This was a crushing blow because we waited ten years for what seemed like a miracle. Doctors say this was our last hope.

After the funeral, we were making a comeback when those "sales pitches" started coming. Each carried a congratulatory note about our happy parenthood. And each opened the wound all over again.

Why can't companies and sales-persons check the death notices too? — MR. AND MRS. T.W.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. W.:

I hope your letter will be a reminder to salespeople who don't thoroughly check before they send out "congratulatory pitches."

In sympathy. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

When my husband retired, a little item about it appeared in the paper. The mail started coming by the bushel!

First it was "Invest!" We laughed, Having raised five children, withstood one awful depression and continuing inflation, who's got money to invest?

Next, the mail changed to hearing aids, false teeth cleaners, geriatric vitamins, etc.

Come to think of it, we didn't get many promotions on cruises, though there were a few letters about retirement homes. These depressed us a little too, as my husband and I were very active and "young."

But finally this being pushed into old age got to him. Not only the ads but the attitudes of our relatives, friends, clerks in stores —everything said, "You're ready for the scrap heap."

Truly, the mind controls the body. If you're loved and needed, the juices tell the body, "Hey, you're happy!" Put a monkey wrench into the "think" pattern and the mind goes into reverse. My husband fretted, worried, grew old before my eyes, and just gave up. (I haven't yet!)

When a very active man is forced to retire —to nothing — it's sheer cruelty. And it seems that all of society is aimed at proving he's old and useless. Even your children are suddenly patronizing (or "solicitous," which is even worse).

If you can't afford travel, you putter —and slowly disintegrate, and that's a sad way to end an active life.

Don't you agree? — NOT SO GOLDEN AGER

DEAR NOT:

I certainly do! And so do an increasing number of employers who bring active, alert retir-ees back to part time or advisory jobs. Useful occupations for elders would cure many "out to pasture" blues.

Our society should take a tip from the Orientals and appreciate the special talents of the old, rather than shove them off to retirement villages. Elders can help by staying in the mainstream, proving their usefulness with volunteer work (hospitals, schools, care centers, politics, service clubs), as well as knitting grandchildren's sweaters.

As for "old-age treatment," you get what you expect. If you retain a lively interest, and good sense of humor, who can pity you?

Illegitimi non Carborundum! (Which means "Don't let the you-know-whats get you down!" and makes a terrific sampler for your wall.) —H.

Funnyman Richard Pryor Finds He Gets Sick Less With Money

By SANDRA HAGGERY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

"My kind of trouble was bull. . .-trouble. You know what I mean?" Richard Pryor, funny man of the hour, was serious as he spoke of his adolescent years.

"At that time, any contact with the police was trouble, but I didn't have the heart for robbing a bank or hurting someone. Bull. . . . was the best I could do."

Pryor, special guest star of the Stax/Wolper movie production, "Wattstax," dropped out of school during his eighth year. After the Army, he fancied himself to be a singer.

" 'Funny Valentine' was my biggie," he gives that now famous raised eyebrow, wide-eyed look. "I used to sing three songs — one at the beginning of the show, one in the middle and one at the end — three renditions of 'Funny Valentine.' In between I did a little comedy."

RICHARD'S TASTE for comedy was whetted by the movie antics of Abbott and Costello and television's Sid Caesar.

"For a while, still looking for the real me, I imitated some of Bill Cosby's style. Forunately, he never minded. Now, I'm me," he said.

The "me" Pryror refers to has superb timing and a mesmerizing presence. He writes all his material, most of which surfaces during improvisations.

During the current black blitz, it is expedient to preface a title with black if one is black: black comic, black writer, black singer. Pryor is not a black comic in the sense that he speaks only to a black audience and only of black experiences. But, naturally, the black side is "where he's comin' from." He exudes black humor, but he also deals adroitly and humorously with such mundane subjects as a tuna-fish sandwich.

"Humor is a feeling," says Pryor. "Some white people may not completely understand black humor, but they readily get its feeling."

Pryor is referred to as a black Lenny Bruce, which is a gross misnomer. In the white society, where certain words are labeled as obscenities, Bruce may rightly have been labeled X. But in the black society, where black English (for lack of a better word) does exist, it is different.

PRYOR'S USE of certain black English terms in the movie "Wattstax" resulted in a restricted (R) rating. From a black point of view, that is a white racist insult. It's tantamount to saying " 'cause you niggers talk differently you're obscene."

Richard agrees that some people are turned off by black colloquialisms.

"I try to deal with people on a 'head' level. There can be an integration of black thought. W learned their language, let them learn ours," he said.

A good deal of Pryor's humor deals with religion and God.

And he is, in fact, a very religious person. "I see God in the streets. He's in me and around me. I feel spiritual. The elements take care of me," Pryor said.

Many of his skits are based on remembrances of his childhood. Pryor has no brothers and sisters and his parents were divorced, but his was not a deprived childhood.

"My people were perfect. They were divorced, but I had a lot of love. There were the normal conflicts that occur when a kid becomes a person and starts searching for other things. But love I had," he said.

With regard to his acting, in "Lady Sings the Blues," "Wattstax" and the upcoming "Call It Loving," Pryor feels he has enlarged his spectrum. "Doing nightclub or television comedy is simply a matter of 'acting' funny. I work hard at acting, funny or straight," he said.

A FEW years back, Pryor quit show business altogether. "I was crazy for a while. I am still working out things in my mind."

Divorced himself and the father of three children, Pryor has reservations about giving advice to youngsters who might look up to him because of his fame.

"I would say don't shoot up any dope, but that's 'cause I'm afraid of needles. I'm still looking and don't feel qualified to run someone else's life. I leave it to him," he said.

When asked what money has done to him or for him, he replied, "Well, I don't get sick when I have money. Having money means I don't have to take those jobs that make me vomit. It's good for my health."

What plateaus remain for this multitalented "together" black man? "I'd like to do everything I think I can do. I like being active. Can't fool around and let the crow (old age) get to me," he said with a hint of a grin.

What's relaxation for a funny man who is, of course, not funny all the time?

"I can relax when I have the feeling of knowing I've done something really good — great. Like with 'Wattstax,' it took me only a day to put together my material, but the finished product was me. No one else had done it, and I felt good about it.

"With this kind of feeling I go home and get in a hot tub. I just want to be alone for a couple of hours, you know what I mean? Pray, even. Feel everything you see.'

Childhood Adventures To Be Told

"Captain Kate" Martin of Larkspur will discuss her childhood adventures aboard her father's ship on "What's Happening" on KTIM Wednesday at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Martin accompanied her mother and sea captain father on the San Francisco to the Bering Sea salmon run on many voyages between 1913 and 1918, according to the show's host, Jorie Parr.

Also on the program will be Barbara Young of San Rafael, former executive director of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, who will discuss the San Rafael Canal, its past, present and future.

Eyelet embroidery is being used in unusual ways this spring. It is being used on prints, on polyester double-knits and to embellish cotton shirting.

"My people were perfect. They were divorced, but I had a lot of love. There were the normal conflicts that occur when a kid becomes a person and starts searching for other things. But love I had," he said.

With regard to his acting, in "Lady Sings the Blues," "Wattstax" and the upcoming "Call It Loving," Pryor feels he has enlarged his spectrum. "Doing nightclub or television comedy is simply a matter of 'acting' funny. I work hard at acting, funny or straight," he said.

A FEW years back, Pryor quit show business altogether. "I was crazy for a while. I am still working out things in my mind."

Divorced himself and the father of three children, Pryor has reservations about giving advice to youngsters who might look up to him because of his fame.

"I would say don't shoot up any dope, but that's 'cause I'm afraid of needles. I'm still looking and don't feel qualified to run someone else's life. I leave it to him," he said.

When asked what money has done to him or for him, he replied, "Well, I don't get sick when I have money. Having money means I don't have to take those jobs that make me vomit. It's good for my health."

What plateaus remain for this multitalented "together" black man? "I'd like to do everything I think I can do. I like being active. Can't fool around and let the crow (old age) get to me," he said with a hint of a grin.

What's relaxation for a funny man who is, of course, not funny all the time?

"I can relax when I have the feeling of knowing I've done something really good — great. Like with 'Wattstax,' it took me only a day to put together my material, but the finished product was me. No one else had done it, and I felt good about it.

"With this kind of feeling I go home and get in a hot tub. I just want to be alone for a couple of hours, you know what I mean? Pray, even. Feel everything you see.'

Childhood Adventures To Be Told

Wool Cost Rise Not Alarming

The steep and continuing rise in the cost of raw wool may stimulate a greater use of blends, but the Wool Bureau is not concerned that blends will take control of the market away from pure wool.

Not every manufacturer is trapped in a price range, and many women are willing to pay for pure wool products, a spokesman said.

Posse Will Search For More Bodies

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Sheriff's officers will form a posse this weekend to search for more bodies in the hills where four young campers were slain, the officer who will head the hunt said yesterday.

"We're going on a search this weekend, but we don't know whether we'll find anything," said Lt. Kenneth Pittenger. "We have no information to indicate there are more bodies there."

The search will be in the redwood-covered hills near this coastal resort which last Saturday yielded the bodies of the four young men who had been fatally shot.

Santa Cruz County Dist. Atty. Peter Chang has said he will seek indictments charging Herbert Mullin, 25, of nearby Felton, with 10 of the area's 15 recent murders.

Municipal Court Judge Donald O. May canceled the $300,000 bail on Mullin and ordered he be kept in jail while the charges are pending. Mullin is being held in a tight security block in the San Mateo County Jail at Redwood City, south of San Francisco.

Police said Wednesday that the "skillfull" decapitation of two University of California at Santa Cruz coeds found last week indicates they probably were slain by the same person who dismembered a woman in the Santa Cruz area a month earlier.

Police Lt. Charles Sherer said autopsies on coeds Alice Helen Liu, 20, of Torrance, and Rosalind Thorpe, 23, of Carmel, and on parts of the body of Cabrillo College student Cynthia Ann Schall, 19, showed a virtually identical cutting technique and extremely sharp instruments were used in all three cases.

Mullin has not been linked to the murders of the coeds. He is accused of slaying a mother and her two young children and a young couple Jan. 25, a 72-year-old former boxer Feb. 13, and the four campers.

Kissinger Jokes About His Accent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the many things presidential adviser Henry Kissinger is known for is his German accent. It is quite noticeable when he briefs reporters on Vietnam.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler introduced him Thursday for another press briefing. "I noticed Ron has begun to speak with a German accent," Kissinger said.

Jail, Fine On Pot Count

A 20-year-old Marin City Man, arrested with 11 lids of marijuana in his car, has been ordered to serve 15 days in jail and pay a $500 fine.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Wilbert Foster Jr. on probation for one year to complete a plea bargain.

Foster pleaded guilty last month after Menary agreed to reduce a felony charge of possessing pot for sale to felony possession. The district attorney opposed the arrangement.

Children's Festival Set In Sausalito

The festival which runs from 1 to 5 p.m., is sponsored by the Sausalito Arts Association at the center at 630 Nevada Street.

The Children's Repertory Dance Theater will present "Peer Gynt Suite," based on the music by Edward Grieg with narration based on the play by Henrik Ibsen.

Schawkie Roth with Ellen Estrin of the center will team up in music and movement. Roth will play the flute, zither and saxophone. Miss Estrin and her dance company will include groups from the audience in their dance improvisations.

The art work to be displayed was done by the children's classes of the center. It includes painting, plaster casting, print making, puppetry, ceramics and sculpture in rock, wire and plastic.

Posse Will Search For More Bodies

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Sheriff's officers will form a posse this weekend to search for more bodies in the hills where four young campers were slain, the officer who will head the hunt said yesterday.

"We're going on a search this weekend, but we don't know whether we'll find anything," said Lt. Kenneth Pittenger. "We have no information to indicate there are more bodies there."

The search will be in the redwood-covered hills near this coastal resort which last Saturday yielded the bodies of the four young men who had been fatally shot.

Santa Cruz County Dist. Atty. Peter Chang has said he will seek indictments charging Herbert Mullin, 25, of nearby Felton, with 10 of the area's 15 recent murders.

Municipal Court Judge Donald O. May canceled the $300,000 bail on Mullin and ordered he be kept in jail while the charges are pending. Mullin is being held in a tight security block in the San Mateo County Jail at Redwood City, south of San Francisco.

Police said Wednesday that the "skillfull" decapitation of two University of California at Santa Cruz coeds found last week indicates they probably were slain by the same person who dismembered a woman in the Santa Cruz area a month earlier.

Police Lt. Charles Sherer said autopsies on coeds Alice Helen Liu, 20, of Torrance, and Rosalind Thorpe, 23, of Carmel, and on parts of the body of Cabrillo College student Cynthia Ann Schall, 19, showed a virtually identical cutting technique and extremely sharp instruments were used in all three cases.

Mullin has not been linked to the murders of the coeds. He is accused of slaying a mother and her two young children and a young couple Jan. 25, a 72-year-old former boxer Feb. 13, and the four campers.

FAMILY

"Fiddler On The Roof" — A musical set in a small village in Tsarist Russia. The story of a Jewish man and his relationship with his family, village and his God. His efforts to hold on to the traditions of his faith brings understanding of human values and stirs deep emotions.

"World's Greatest Athlete" — Disney comedy about a desperate college athletic coach recruiting a many-muscled jungle boy to enter the NCAA track and field competition. Very entertaining.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Emigrants" — Historical melodrama of the misfortunes, rigorous life and endless poverty of Swedish peasants in 1844 and their journey to the New World. Film overly long but with distinguished acting, scenery and photography that is hauntingly beautiful.

"Man For All Seasons" — A segment of English history that does honor to a man who cannot compromise private conscience for public duty. Sir Thomas More as Lord Chancellor to Henry VIII does not give approval to the King's divorce from Catherine. Well acted.

"Poseidon Adventure" — Escape melodrama in the best Hollywood tradition. A ship filled with passengers celebrating New Year's Eve is overturned by a huge tidal wave. Their frantic efforts to seek safety keeps suspense very high.

"Shamus" — A Brooklyn detective is hired to recover stolen diamonds. He is also checking up on an export company who has a huge arsenal. Bert Reynolds is involved with much violence, murder and lovemaking on a pool table he uses for a bed.

"War Between Men and Women" — Comedy based on James Thurber's writings tells of a cartoonist who is against women, children and dogs who falls in love and marries a divorcee who has both. Sophisticated frankness with sex at the core of the film. It is not salacious.

"Young Winston" — Stages in the development of the personal and public life of Churchill are detailed brilliantly bringing history to life in a tremendously exciting fashion.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Black Gunn" — A night club owner out to avenge his brother's death at the hands of a mob. Flaming finale annihilates 80 per cent of the cast. Cursing, nudity and violence of every description.

"Cabaret" — A sophisticated and bawdy tale of a kinky English girl who works in a cabaret in Germany in 1930s. Her love affairs and subsequent abortion of her baby are interwoven with music and scenes at the cabaret. Sex - cursing.

"Dollars" — Daring robbery of safety deposit boxes of racketeers so police would not be involved is both humorous and tense. The mob's revenge, extraneous sex antics and violence is very adult in treatment.

"The Getaway" — Fast-paced action film about an ex-convict who masterminds a bank robbery but is surrounded by folks whose greed is matched only by their cold-bloodedness. Director depicts all violence in explicit detail. Women are presented as so much sexual currency. In this instance crime pays very well.

"Lady Sings The Blues" — A fictionalized biography of the late Billy Holiday. Her early life and later as a prostitute, success as a singer and her addiction to heroin is laced with music throughout the action. Strong language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — Woody Allen playing a vulnerable, painfully self-critical kook bumbling his way through a series of misadventures in trying to handle his sexual problems. Explicit sexual references.

"Save The Tiger" — Film is a bitter look at a disillusioned businessman and his unscrupulous tactics in keeping his world from collapsing. Jack Lemmon is in a non-comedy role. Strong language and some nudity.

"Steelyard Blues" — Lightweight adolescent fantasy about being free in today's restrictive society. Three stars are supposed to be losers, romp aimlessly as a demolition derby driver, a hard-luck call girl and a demented circus "human fly." Just ignore the "message" and try to enjoy the laughs. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

ADULTS ONLY

"Deliverance" — Four men go for a canoe cruise along a mountain river in Georgia. They encounter two sadistic hillbillies who rape one of them and murders ensue. Gripping suspense very extreme. Cursing.

TV Stations' Responsibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has told Congress that local television stations must be "ultimately responsible" for the views expressed by network newscasters.

Appearing before the Senate Communications subcommittee Thursday, Burch said "the man who has the license should be the one who is ultimately responsible. He is responsible for everything that goes on the air."

The subcommittee is meeting to consider administration proposals to require local stations to be accountable for content of network news programs.

Nixon Gives Travel News To Ormandy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, said he was in bed when President Nixon called him to say the orchestra had been invited to play in China.

"This may be the start of a cultural exchange program between the two countries," Ormandy said Thursday.

Subscription TV Network

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time Inc. and Sterling Communications Inc. announced Wednesday formation of a subscription television network.

The network will use existing cable television channels and a microwave relay. Sporting events and feature movies will be piped into homes with cable facilities for an additional fee.

Contracts have been signed with professional hockey and basketball teams, with Madison Square Garden for 120 events and with Warner Brothers, Universal Pictures and United Artists for movies.

Nixon Attends Musical 'Irene,' And Enjoys It

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, claiming "people are tired of that way out stuff," attended a pre-Broadway revival of the musical "Irene" last night and pronounced it a "good family show."

"I don't want to get into the business of criticizing some of the new art," Nixon told reporters outside the National Theater after the nearly three-hour performance. "But it's very difficult to find a play you really want to take your family to."

"This is that kind," he said of the 50-year-old musical which is making its comeback with actress Debbie Reynolds in the lead. "It's a lot of fun."

Nixon arrived in time for the 8 p.m. curtain, accompanied by his wife, Pat, who wore a light mink coat, and his daughter, Tricia Cox, who had told her father of the show's rave reviews.

Nixon, in an expansive mood, described Miss Reynolds as a "superstar" and expressed surprise at her "range" of talent in singing and dancing. He said that the times he had seen her previously she had been "typed as a pretty face in the movies."

The President said "this is a nostalgic musical. People are tired of that way out stuff."

He said Washington "is the hardest town for a show to open in," and considering the crowds the show has drawn, "I think it will be a hit in New York."

He autographed several programs and remained in his seat during the intermission as crowds jostled to shake his hand and greet him. The President has been getting out on the town more and more and seems to be enjoying his new lease on political life. He said under questioning that the end of the Vietnam War had lightened his burden a bit.

He went to the theater after entertaining at the White House some 200 senators and congressmen who supported his Vietnam policies. It was a stag affair and no congresswomen were present.

Non-Gala Idea To Raise Funds

Linsky sent a letter to campaign contributors announcing a "dinner in honor of Martin A. Linsky which will not be held at the Brookline High School Gymnasium on the night of the next severe snow storm."

The invitation asks for $100 from those who do not attend the dinner. Contributors who donate that sum, it says, will not have to listen to an invocation by Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who beat Linsky.

They Just Wanted To Greet Presley

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — The four young men from Lima, Peru, said all they wanted to do was shake Elvis Presley's hand. So, while Presley performed before 1,750 at the Las Vegas Hilton, they climbed on stage.

Their intentions were not clear to Presley, who has a working knowledge of karate. Presley and his guitarist delivered a few karate chops to the invaders, and hotel security guards took over. Thursday, Presley said he would not press charges.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Fiddler On The Roof" — A musical set in a small village in Tsarist Russia. The story of a Jewish man and his relationship with his family, village and his God. His efforts to hold on to the traditions of his faith brings understanding of human values and stirs deep emotions.

"World's Greatest Athlete" — Disney comedy about a desperate college athletic coach recruiting a many-muscled jungle boy to enter the NCAA track and field competition. Very entertaining.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Emigrants" — Historical melodrama of the misfortunes, rigorous life and endless poverty of Swedish peasants in 1844 and their journey to the New World. Film overly long but with distinguished acting, scenery and photography that is hauntingly beautiful.

"Man For All Seasons" — A segment of English history that does honor to a man who cannot compromise private conscience for public duty. Sir Thomas More as Lord Chancellor to Henry VIII does not give approval to the King's divorce from Catherine. Well acted.

"Poseidon Adventure" — Escape melodrama in the best Hollywood tradition. A ship filled with passengers celebrating New Year's Eve is overturned by a huge tidal wave. Their frantic efforts to seek safety keeps suspense very high.

"Shamus" — A Brooklyn detective is hired to recover stolen diamonds. He is also checking up on an export company who has a huge arsenal. Bert Reynolds is involved with much violence, murder and lovemaking on a pool table he uses for a bed.

"War Between Men and Women" — Comedy based on James Thurber's writings tells of a cartoonist who is against women, children and dogs who falls in love and marries a divorcee who has both. Sophisticated frankness with sex at the core of the film. It is not salacious.

"Young Winston" — Stages in the development of the personal and public life of Churchill are detailed brilliantly bringing history to life in a tremendously exciting fashion.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Black Gunn" — A night club owner out to avenge his brother's death at the hands of a mob. Flaming finale annihilates 80 per cent of the cast. Cursing, nudity and violence of every description.

"Cabaret" — A sophisticated and bawdy tale of a kinky English girl who works in a cabaret in Germany in 1930s. Her love affairs and subsequent abortion of her baby are interwoven with music and scenes at the cabaret. Sex - cursing.

"Dollars" — Daring robbery of safety deposit boxes of racketeers so police would not be involved is both humorous and tense. The mob's revenge, extraneous sex antics and violence is very adult in treatment.

"The Getaway" — Fast-paced action film about an ex-convict who masterminds a bank robbery but is surrounded by folks whose greed is matched only by their cold-bloodedness. Director depicts all violence in explicit detail. Women are presented as so much sexual currency. In this instance crime pays very well.

"Lady Sings The Blues" — A fictionalized biography of the late Billy Holiday. Her early life and later as a prostitute, success as a singer and her addiction to heroin is laced with music throughout the action. Strong language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — Woody Allen playing a vulnerable, painfully self-critical kook bumbling his way through a series of misadventures in trying to handle his sexual problems. Explicit sexual references.

"Save The Tiger" — Film is a bitter look at a disillusioned businessman and his unscrupulous tactics in keeping his world from collapsing. Jack Lemmon is in a non-comedy role. Strong language and some nudity.

"Steelyard Blues" — Lightweight adolescent fantasy about being free in today's restrictive society. Three stars are supposed to be losers, romp aimlessly as a demolition derby driver, a hard-luck call girl and a demented circus "human fly." Just ignore the "message" and try to enjoy the laughs. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

ADULTS ONLY

"Deliverance" — Four men go for a canoe cruise along a mountain river in Georgia. They encounter two sadistic hillbillies who rape one of them and murders ensue. Gripping suspense very extreme. Cursing.

TV Stations' Responsibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has told Congress that local television stations must be "ultimately responsible" for the views expressed by network newscasters.

Appearing before the Senate Communications subcommittee Thursday, Burch said "the man who has the license should be the one who is ultimately responsible. He is responsible for everything that goes on the air."

The subcommittee is meeting to consider administration proposals to require local stations to be accountable for content of network news programs.

Nixon Gives Travel News To Ormandy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, said he was in bed when President Nixon called him to say the orchestra had been invited to play in China.

"This may be the start of a cultural exchange program between the two countries," Ormandy said Thursday.

Subscription TV Network

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time Inc. and Sterling Communications Inc. announced Wednesday formation of a subscription television network.

The network will use existing cable television channels and a microwave relay. Sporting events and feature movies will be piped into homes with cable facilities for an additional fee.

Contracts have been signed with professional hockey and basketball teams, with Madison Square Garden for 120 events and with Warner Brothers, Universal Pictures and United Artists for movies.

Nixon Attends Musical 'Irene,' And Enjoys It

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, claiming "people are tired of that way out stuff," attended a pre-Broadway revival of the musical "Irene" last night and pronounced it a "good family show."

"I don't want to get into the business of criticizing some of the new art," Nixon told reporters outside the National Theater after the nearly three-hour performance. "But it's very difficult to find a play you really want to take your family to."

"This is that kind," he said of the 50-year-old musical which is making its comeback with actress Debbie Reynolds in the lead. "It's a lot of fun."

Nixon arrived in time for the 8 p.m. curtain, accompanied by his wife, Pat, who wore a light mink coat, and his daughter, Tricia Cox, who had told her father of the show's rave reviews.

Nixon, in an expansive mood, described Miss Reynolds as a "superstar" and expressed surprise at her "range" of talent in singing and dancing. He said that the times he had seen her previously she had been "typed as a pretty face in the movies."

The President said "this is a nostalgic musical. People are tired of that way out stuff."

He said Washington "is the hardest town for a show to open in," and considering the crowds the show has drawn, "I think it will be a hit in New York."

He autographed several programs and remained in his seat during the intermission as crowds jostled to shake his hand and greet him. The President has been getting out on the town more and more and seems to be enjoying his new lease on political life. He said under questioning that the end of the Vietnam War had lightened his burden a bit.

He went to the theater after entertaining at the White House some 200 senators and congressmen who supported his Vietnam policies. It was a stag affair and no congresswomen were present.

Non-Gala Idea To Raise Funds

Linsky sent a letter to campaign contributors announcing a "dinner in honor of Martin A. Linsky which will not be held at the Brookline High School Gymnasium on the night of the next severe snow storm."

The invitation asks for $100 from those who do not attend the dinner. Contributors who donate that sum, it says, will not have to listen to an invocation by Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who beat Linsky.

They Just Wanted To Greet Presley

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — The four young men from Lima, Peru, said all they wanted to do was shake Elvis Presley's hand. So, while Presley performed before 1,750 at the Las Vegas Hilton, they climbed on stage.

Their intentions were not clear to Presley, who has a working knowledge of karate. Presley and his guitarist delivered a few karate chops to the invaders, and hotel security guards took over. Thursday, Presley said he would not press charges.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

In Good Weather San Franciscans Gather At The Dock In Tiburon

For years I have been aware that San Franciscans delight in coming to Southern Marin's waterside dineries just so they can look with satisfaction back across the bay to their own impressive skyline.

What I didn't know is that apparently there is some sort of pattern to their visits.

According to manager Al Tognoli at the Dock in Tiburon, they flow to this peninsular community — not according to the tide — but according to the clarity of the view. If it's foggy, their attendance falls off. If it's a clear evening, particularly with moonlight on the water, they show up in heavy numbers. And if many of them are late diners it's because they wait until the last moment to judge the weather.

The Dock, of course, is one of those Tiburon restaurants that commands a magnificent view across the bay — from Angel Island west to the towers of the Golden Gate Bridge, including all the high-rise stuff in between and local yachts in the foreground. And fortunately it's not foggy as often here as you may think.

Speaking of Angel Island, Al is firmly convinced that some day a world's fair will be held here. Can you imagine what a gigantic project this would be?

But it's not inconceivable and along about 1983 when everyone has given up on what to do with it, the island may just loom up as a suitable exposition site.

But to return to the Dock — this was one of Fred Zelinsky's early restaurant construction projects in Tiburon. But it has worn well and holds up with dignity in comparison with the rest of the Main Street dineries. It's generally patronized about equally by Marinites and out-of-towners, with the latter constituting a majority in fair weather.

The menu is fairly simple, with a half-dozen of the most popular entrees, including two starred as specialties of chef John Nicolai — the Tournedos and the coquille St. Jacques. Prices range from about $4.25 to $6.95 for complete dinners.

AL TOGNOLI
Manages the Dock

EDDIE HILL
Dock's bar boss

The Dock's bar is a long one, supervised by Eddie Hill, once an engineer on construction of the Alcan Highway. But he has been here 11 years and was in the restaurant business as early as 1932, working from Honolulu to Las Vegas and serving many notables along the way.

You may have bypassed the Dock when walking along Main Street — perhaps because it's upstairs. If so, you made a mistake. It's worth the climb, which isn't a very steep one at that.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD that when the Hexagon House in Guerneville opens this spring, it will be under the new ownership of Bob Dean and Leon Alvey who, in partnership with Joeen Arnone, used to have Redwood Restaurant in downtown Mill Valley.

They sold out last year to Stephen Wyle, who remodeled and changed it to the Paprika. If you remember, the Redwood had quite a reputation for its South American dishes. And these again will be a specialty of Bob and Leon at the Hexagon House, which will be opened this coming season on April 1, somewhat earlier than usual.

They will take over the Hexagon's general on sale seasonal liquor license and will feature South American wines and cocktails. They may offer dinners seven days a week throughout their April 1 to Dec. 31 season and are planning to serve lunches during the summer months. Look for music for dancing on Friday and Saturday nights.

THE VERY SUCDESSFUL SUB HUT at 4380 Redwood Highway in the Northgate Industrial section is leaning toward expansion. Present plans call for three more places in the next 20 months, with the first of these probably opening in June — farther south in Marin.

THE FLEUR DE FRANCE on B Street, San Rafael has been sold by Howard and Mary Cadwell to Ilson W. New of San Francisco, but apparently this new owner does not intend to operate it himself as a restaurant and hotel. It is being offered for lease.

IT IS ESTIMATED that for the time being there should be little change one way or the other in the cost of ordering wine in a restaurant as a result of the dollar devaluation.

Reputable foreign wines are already at peak prices and an increase of a few cents per bottle may not make such difference. And at home if you buy the cheaper foreign wines, many of them cost only 20 to 30 cents a bottle at the winery. An increase of two or three cents should not be significant.

And the devaluation should have little effect on California's vintners, who currently produce three out of four bottles enjoyed in the United States.

RECENT WORD from Fred and Sylvie Vast of Gobbler's Roostaurant in Sebastopol is that they definitely will open for the spring and summer season again this year on Easter Sunday, April 22.

And as in prior years, this restaurant with its turkey farm and colorful water wheel, will serve dinners from 5:30 to 9 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and from 1 to 8 p.m. on Sundays. Dinner prices will range from $3 to $6 for "down on the farm" turkey dinners, skillet fried chicken to order, their own smoked ham and barbecue ribs and thick New York steaks. There will also be a special stuffed, smoked roast pig buffet (also featuring smoked turkey) on Thursday nights. You should definitely phone ahead for reservations for this one.

There is a special lunch menu on Saturdays from noon to 2:30 p.m. And there are wines and beers with meals and the Gobbler's smoked products on sale in the delicatessen, where there is a large smokehouse.

Reservations are recommended for holidays. Lunch and dinner reservations for groups are taken for any day of the week. Private banquet room seats up to 70 persons.

Chess Tourney Marked By Ties

A series of ties marked the February tournament competition for the Ross Valley Chess Club, director Jerry Frazier reported yesterday.

Con Federoff Jr., L. A. Post and John Powers tied for first place in the five-round Swiss competition for players rated by the United States Chess Federation. Frazier said the award money would be divided evenly, eliminating playoffs.

In the competition for nonrated players, James Westergaard was winner and Kevin Lewis, William Farfitt and Douglas Ziegler tied, sharing second and third-place money evenly.

Anyone wishing to join the Ross Valley Chess Club is eligible to enter the March contest with signups due Tuesday at the Pepperwood Restaurant in San Anselmo, or by mail to Frazier at 37 Angela Avenue, San Anselmo.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

In Good Weather San Franciscans Gather At The Dock In Tiburon

For years I have been aware that San Franciscans delight in coming to Southern Marin's waterside dineries just so they can look with satisfaction back across the bay to their own impressive skyline.

What I didn't know is that apparently there is some sort of pattern to their visits.

According to manager Al Tognoli at the Dock in Tiburon, they flow to this peninsular community — not according to the tide — but according to the clarity of the view. If it's foggy, their attendance falls off. If it's a clear evening, particularly with moonlight on the water, they show up in heavy numbers. And if many of them are late diners it's because they wait until the last moment to judge the weather.

The Dock, of course, is one of those Tiburon restaurants that commands a magnificent view across the bay — from Angel Island west to the towers of the Golden Gate Bridge, including all the high-rise stuff in between and local yachts in the foreground. And fortunately it's not foggy as often here as you may think.

Speaking of Angel Island, Al is firmly convinced that some day a world's fair will be held here. Can you imagine what a gigantic project this would be?

But it's not inconceivable and along about 1983 when everyone has given up on what to do with it, the island may just loom up as a suitable exposition site.

But to return to the Dock — this was one of Fred Zelinsky's early restaurant construction projects in Tiburon. But it has worn well and holds up with dignity in comparison with the rest of the Main Street dineries. It's generally patronized about equally by Marinites and out-of-towners, with the latter constituting a majority in fair weather.

The menu is fairly simple, with a half-dozen of the most popular entrees, including two starred as specialties of chef John Nicolai — the Tournedos and the coquille St. Jacques. Prices range from about $4.25 to $6.95 for complete dinners.

EDDIE HILL
Dock's bar boss

The Dock's bar is a long one, supervised by Eddie Hill, once an engineer on construction of the Alcan Highway. But he has been here 11 years and was in the restaurant business as early as 1932, working from Honolulu to Las Vegas and serving many notables along the way.

You may have bypassed the Dock when walking along Main Street — perhaps because it's upstairs. If so, you made a mistake. It's worth the climb, which isn't a very steep one at that.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD that when the Hexagon House in Guerneville opens this spring, it will be under the new ownership of Bob Dean and Leon Alvey who, in partnership with Joeen Arnone, used to have Redwood Restaurant in downtown Mill Valley.

They sold out last year to Stephen Wyle, who remodeled and changed it to the Paprika. If you remember, the Redwood had quite a reputation for its South American dishes. And these again will be a specialty of Bob and Leon at the Hexagon House, which will be opened this coming season on April 1, somewhat earlier than usual.

They will take over the Hexagon's general on sale seasonal liquor license and will feature South American wines and cocktails. They may offer dinners seven days a week throughout their April 1 to Dec. 31 season and are planning to serve lunches during the summer months. Look for music for dancing on Friday and Saturday nights.

THE VERY SUCDESSFUL SUB HUT at 4380 Redwood Highway in the Northgate Industrial section is leaning toward expansion. Present plans call for three more places in the next 20 months, with the first of these probably opening in June — farther south in Marin.

THE FLEUR DE FRANCE on B Street, San Rafael has been sold by Howard and Mary Cadwell to Ilson W. New of San Francisco, but apparently this new owner does not intend to operate it himself as a restaurant and hotel. It is being offered for lease.

IT IS ESTIMATED that for the time being there should be little change one way or the other in the cost of ordering wine in a restaurant as a result of the dollar devaluation.

Reputable foreign wines are already at peak prices and an increase of a few cents per bottle may not make such difference. And at home if you buy the cheaper foreign wines, many of them cost only 20 to 30 cents a bottle at the winery. An increase of two or three cents should not be significant.

And the devaluation should have little effect on California's vintners, who currently produce three out of four bottles enjoyed in the United States.

RECENT WORD from Fred and Sylvie Vast of Gobbler's Roostaurant in Sebastopol is that they definitely will open for the spring and summer season again this year on Easter Sunday, April 22.

And as in prior years, this restaurant with its turkey farm and colorful water wheel, will serve dinners from 5:30 to 9 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and from 1 to 8 p.m. on Sundays. Dinner prices will range from $3 to $6 for "down on the farm" turkey dinners, skillet fried chicken to order, their own smoked ham and barbecue ribs and thick New York steaks. There will also be a special stuffed, smoked roast pig buffet (also featuring smoked turkey) on Thursday nights. You should definitely phone ahead for reservations for this one.

There is a special lunch menu on Saturdays from noon to 2:30 p.m. And there are wines and beers with meals and the Gobbler's smoked products on sale in the delicatessen, where there is a large smokehouse.

Reservations are recommended for holidays. Lunch and dinner reservations for groups are taken for any day of the week. Private banquet room seats up to 70 persons.

Chess Tourney Marked By Ties

A series of ties marked the February tournament competition for the Ross Valley Chess Club, director Jerry Frazier reported yesterday.

Con Federoff Jr., L. A. Post and John Powers tied for first place in the five-round Swiss competition for players rated by the United States Chess Federation. Frazier said the award money would be divided evenly, eliminating playoffs.

In the competition for nonrated players, James Westergaard was winner and Kevin Lewis, William Farfitt and Douglas Ziegler tied, sharing second and third-place money evenly.

Anyone wishing to join the Ross Valley Chess Club is eligible to enter the March contest with signups due Tuesday at the Pepperwood Restaurant in San Anselmo, or by mail to Frazier at 37 Angela Avenue, San Anselmo.

Heritage Ruled Out In Cancer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Viruses from outside, rather than genes on the inside, appear to be the cause of cancer, according to a Columbia University researcher.

Dr. Sol Spiegelman reported here Thursday his research with identical twins indicated at least some forms of cancer were not part of a person's genetic heritage.

"We've raised the curse off the disease," said Spiegelman. "We don't have to fight our own genes in order to control cancer."

Spiegelman's research tends to disprove a theory that outside effects such as radiation, chemicals, nicotine and smog can start a genetic sequence that causes cancer.

Spiegelman believes viruses from outside the body are the cause and, if true, he said many forms of human cancer were open to normal means of correction once the human cancer viruses were found and identified.

For his research, Spiegelman used two sets of identical twins, one suffering from cancer, the other normal.

He said that when mixing the deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) molecule present in every cell in the twins with cancer, the DNA molecules formed hybrids. But he said that when the malignant DNA was mixed with molecules from the healthy twins, they did not mix, indicating there was no inherent cancer sequence of genes in the DNA molecule of the healthy twins.

Gray's Tenure Under Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying he was not "nitpicking" or just having "political fun," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., contended today that acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III is in office illegally and should resign at once.

Proxmire said the General Accounting Office supports his view, but that the Justice Department disagrees.

Armed with a letter from Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, Proxmire told a news conference that the law limits an acting director of an agency to 30 days in that job before official nomination by the president. The law applies to all jobs subject to Senate confirmation, Proxmire said.

Gray, he said, became acting director of the FBI May 3, 1972, the day after the death of J. Edgar Hoover.

"The FBI has been run illegally since June 3, 1972," Proxmire contended.

"Did the President want to avoid the full glare of publicity on this issue until after the election?" Proxmire asked.

The Staats letter to Proxmire cited sections of the U. S. Code that, Staats said, clearly were "intended to preclude the extended filling of an office subject to Senate confirmation without submission of a nomination to the Senate."

Staats noted that Justice thinks the Gray appointment is not under the statutes cited. As evidence that Justice Department appointments are an exception, the department said, one section of the Code authorizes the president to designate the succession for department heads "generally," but another section "authorizes the attorney general to make this designation in the Department of Justice."

"We interpreted the legal code one way and the GAO interpreted it another, and Senator Proxmire chose to go with the GAO," a Justice spokesman said.

He said that the department sent a letter to the GAO on Jan. 10 at Staats' request, outlining their views and disagreeing that the appointment was illegal.

"On May 3, 1972, Mr. Gray was designated acting director," the spokesman said. "Eight days later, he was reassigned as associate director. The code of regulations sets forth that an associate director serves as acting director in the event of a vacancy in the directorship."

Returning POW's Pal Not Given To Him; He Just Took The Pup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Lt. Cmdr. Edward A. Davis ever returns to Hanoi he may find himself having to answer to the North Vietnamese for swiping one of their dogs and spiriting her out of the country on a POW flight.

Contrary to earlier published reports, Davis said today that Ma-Co was not a gift to him from a prison guard.

Answering questions through a Navy information officer, Davis said there were a number of dogs around the prison yard and that the small pups could run through the bars. Ma-Co was the smallest one of the prison puppies and usually ended up at the bottom of the heap in fights.

While Davis would not give the location of the camp, other sources said the pilot was being held near the Chinese border when he and the puppy became friends.

Ma-Co was the term one of the prison guards used for the tiniest pup, Davis said, adding that he didn't know what the word meant.

(A woman at the South Vietnamese Embassy said, "Ohhhh, that's a very bad word for the person who introduces a bad girl to you.")

When it came time for Davis to leave his cell two weeks ago for the flight out of Hanoi, the naval officer tucked Ma-Co into his bag and carried her onto the plane without anyone's knowledge.

On his return, Davis greeted his wife Doris with a boyish grin as he held up Ma-Co and asked, "Can I keep her? She followed me home." The couple was married only a few months before Davis went off to Vietnam and captivity seven and a half years ago. They will keep the dog at their Leola, Pa., home.

Ma-Co is getting VIP treatment similar to other freed POWs. She has her own private room in the veterinary section at the Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington—the same hospital where Davis is going through his medical checks and debriefings.

The vets say she is healthy and has a good appetite for American dog food. In prison Davis fed her pork fat from his own food rations.

U.S. regulations say immigrant dogs must be kept under control, although not necessarily confined or quarantined, for 30 days after getting a rabies shot, the hospital said.

Special Session Of Tam Board Canceled

The special meeting of the Tamalpais High School District board which was to have been held Monday night to consider notification of reassignment to five Tamalpais High School administrators has been canceled.

District information officer said it had been decided that formal notice of possible reassignment to the administrators isn't necessary.

A MARIN HISTORIAN AND HIS POSSESSIONS

Thomas J. Barfield, attorney and history buff and authority, examines the first metal postal boxes to serve his home community of Bolinas. The boxes date back to 1870. And they are only a small part of Barfield's vast and valuable collection of memorabilia from early-day Marin. For this week's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, Dorothy Gardiner has written the story of Tom Barfield, who has been true to his own pioneer heritage through a ceaseless effort to uncover the truths of Marin history and to preserve its relics. And accompanying that story will be new photographs of some of Barfield's most valued possessions, plus old photos from the lawyer-historian's superb collection of scenes of pioneer Marin.

Gray, he said, became acting director of the FBI May 3, 1972, the day after the death of J. Edgar Hoover.

"The FBI has been run illegally since June 3, 1972," Proxmire contended.

"Did the President want to avoid the full glare of publicity on this issue until after the election?" Proxmire asked.

The Staats letter to Proxmire cited sections of the U. S. Code that, Staats said, clearly were "intended to preclude the extended filling of an office subject to Senate confirmation without submission of a nomination to the Senate."

Staats noted that Justice thinks the Gray appointment is not under the statutes cited. As evidence that Justice Department appointments are an exception, the department said, one section of the Code authorizes the president to designate the succession for department heads "generally," but another section "authorizes the attorney general to make this designation in the Department of Justice."

"We interpreted the legal code one way and the GAO interpreted it another, and Senator Proxmire chose to go with the GAO," a Justice spokesman said.

He said that the department sent a letter to the GAO on Jan. 10 at Staats' request, outlining their views and disagreeing that the appointment was illegal.

"On May 3, 1972, Mr. Gray was designated acting director," the spokesman said. "Eight days later, he was reassigned as associate director. The code of regulations sets forth that an associate director serves as acting director in the event of a vacancy in the directorship."

Returning POW's Pal Not Given To Him; He Just Took The Pup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Lt. Cmdr. Edward A. Davis ever returns to Hanoi he may find himself having to answer to the North Vietnamese for swiping one of their dogs and spiriting her out of the country on a POW flight.

Contrary to earlier published reports, Davis said today that Ma-Co was not a gift to him from a prison guard.

Answering questions through a Navy information officer, Davis said there were a number of dogs around the prison yard and that the small pups could run through the bars. Ma-Co was the smallest one of the prison puppies and usually ended up at the bottom of the heap in fights.

While Davis would not give the location of the camp, other sources said the pilot was being held near the Chinese border when he and the puppy became friends.

Ma-Co was the term one of the prison guards used for the tiniest pup, Davis said, adding that he didn't know what the word meant.

(A woman at the South Vietnamese Embassy said, "Ohhhh, that's a very bad word for the person who introduces a bad girl to you.")

When it came time for Davis to leave his cell two weeks ago for the flight out of Hanoi, the naval officer tucked Ma-Co into his bag and carried her onto the plane without anyone's knowledge.

On his return, Davis greeted his wife Doris with a boyish grin as he held up Ma-Co and asked, "Can I keep her? She followed me home." The couple was married only a few months before Davis went off to Vietnam and captivity seven and a half years ago. They will keep the dog at their Leola, Pa., home.

Ma-Co is getting VIP treatment similar to other freed POWs. She has her own private room in the veterinary section at the Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington—the same hospital where Davis is going through his medical checks and debriefings.

The vets say she is healthy and has a good appetite for American dog food. In prison Davis fed her pork fat from his own food rations.

U.S. regulations say immigrant dogs must be kept under control, although not necessarily confined or quarantined, for 30 days after getting a rabies shot, the hospital said.

Special Session Of Tam Board Canceled

The special meeting of the Tamalpais High School District board which was to have been held Monday night to consider notification of reassignment to five Tamalpais High School administrators has been canceled.

District information officer said it had been decided that formal notice of possible reassignment to the administrators isn't necessary.

A MARIN HISTORIAN AND HIS POSSESSIONS

Thomas J. Barfield, attorney and history buff and authority, examines the first metal postal boxes to serve his home community of Bolinas. The boxes date back to 1870. And they are only a small part of Barfield's vast and valuable collection of memorabilia from early-day Marin. For this week's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, Dorothy Gardiner has written the story of Tom Barfield, who has been true to his own pioneer heritage through a ceaseless effort to uncover the truths of Marin history and to preserve its relics. And accompanying that story will be new photographs of some of Barfield's most valued possessions, plus old photos from the lawyer-historian's superb collection of scenes of pioneer Marin.

Dibble Loses Job On Water Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has not reappointed Edward F. Dibble to the state Water Resources Control Board. Dibble was involved in a conflict of interest controversy last year.

Appointed to the board in 1967 and made vice chairman three years later, Dibble was replaced by Wallace Don Maughan, former executive director of the federal Water Resources Council in Washington, D.C., Reagan's office said Thursday.

Dibble could not be reached for comment.

Last year he disposed of his private engineering business in Redlands after questions arose about the propriety of the firm performing work for the Mojave Water Agency. The agency, in turn, did work for the state Water Resources Department.

Dibble agreed to divest himself of the firm in February 1972 despite a Reagan administration determination that there had been no conflict of interest.

A month later, it was disclosed that Dibble had been receiving more than $900 a month living and travel expenses on top of his salary by maintaining his official headquarters at his Redlands home and commuting to work in Sacramento.

The state Board of Control ordered Dibble to move his headquarters from his home to the state capitol. His term expired Jan. 15.

Reagan's office said that Maughan, a Republican from Carmichael, has 23 years experience in water resources planning, including a stint as chief of the interstate planning branch of the State Water Resources Department prior to accepting the federal appointment.

He will receive $26,250 annually as a member of the state board.

Underground Freeway Idea Tabled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After two hours of mostly hostile public debate, a board of supervisors' committee has tabled plans to study a possible underground freeway between the Golden Gate Bridge and existing freeways near Market Street.

Many opponents quoted testimony from freeway fights here during the 1950s and 1960s at a crowded hearing Thursday before the supervisors' streets and transportation committee.

"I can't believe we still have to do this," said Gil Bailey of the Ecology Center. "San Francisco is the city that stops freeways, not the city that builds them."

The Chamber of Commerce had proposed that the city, along with state and regional agencies, undertake a $300,000 study of the proposed freeway connection.

Chamber planner Ed Lawson told the crowded hearing that the construction of an underground freeway around the city's northern waterfront would allow for removal of the Embarcadero Freeway and would sharply reduce traffic on local streets.

"It would be underground, invisible, not anything like what we think of as a freeway," he said.

William E. Dauer, the chamber's executive vice president, said the next move on the proposal "would be up to the supervisors."

"I would say the city some day is going to have to figure out what to do with the stub end of the Embarcadero Freeway — if the supervisors aren't ready to answer that question, I don't know anyone else who can," he said.

Exhaust Control Rules Extended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Air Resources Board ruled Thursday that small foreign used cars—as well as American vehicles built between 1966 and 1970—must have exhaust control devices installed.

The board, which had exempted Volkswagen, Datsun, Toyota and similar foreign vehicles earlier, extended the regulation to them after approving a smog device produced by STP Co. for use on the small cars.

All 1966 to 1970 automobiles sold in southern California this month must be equipped with the device. The rule will later be extended to northern California and all cars from those years—whether being sold or not—will need the exhaust devices by April of 1974.

The new exhaust control devices cost about $35 installed, the board said.

Study Asked Of Growth In Bay Area

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) Thursday night passed a resolution calling for a study on long-range growth patterns in the Bay Area.

The resolution allows ABAG planners to study alternative growth levels for the period of 1980 to 2000, with a possible projection of between 6.2 and 8.8 million people.

The association —which consists of 85 cities and seven counties —will work with other agencies to recommend growth control in areas where it is desired, a spokesman said.

The resolution passed Thursday night noted that efforts to guide population growth may require efforts to redirect economic growth in some geographic areas.

Members also agreed to a special study of the effect of population growth restrictions and economic restrictions on minorities.

In addition, ABAG members placed a high priority on the need to study local and regional tax reform. The resolution said this is essential, "So that property tax considerations and assessors cease dictating local planning decisions."

Other action Thursday night saw easy approval of a $1.6 million ABAG budget for 1973-74, up $329,000 over last year.

Storage Problem For Border Pot

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Federal agents are rapidly running out of space to store marijuana confiscated at the Texas-Mexico border, the Justice Department said Thursday.

"We are swamped with marijuana cases," said assistant U.S. Attorney Raul A. Gonzalez. "These people are not thugs and criminals. They come from some of the best families in Texas."

Agents estimated the wholesale value of seven tons of marijuana confiscated in the past 40 days at more than $700,000. "We're running out of places to store it," said Gonzalez.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Federal agents are rapidly running out of space to store marijuana confiscated at the Texas-Mexico border, the Justice Department said Thursday.

"We are swamped with marijuana cases," said assistant U.S. Attorney Raul A. Gonzalez. "These people are not thugs and criminals. They come from some of the best families in Texas."

Agents estimated the wholesale value of seven tons of marijuana confiscated in the past 40 days at more than $700,000. "We're running out of places to store it," said Gonzalez.

A MEN'S COLLECTIVE

Stereotyped Roles Under Attack

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Oppressed because he must live up to the Madison Avenue male image of the junior executive with the sports car and the plasticene woman on his arm, says Steve Melsh, 29-year-old sociology professor and faculty adviser for the men's group.

The collective, made up of seven male students, is dedicated to fighting what it regards as society's stereotyped male role. Once a week they get together at a member's home to discuss sexism, which Melsh defines as "a covert form of discrimination against a person on the basis of sex."

Men have been conditioned to strive for success (success in this instance meaning a prestigious occupation and lots of money), says Melsh. They must be unexpressive of feeling or thought, which would be a symptom of being unmanly or weak.

"Everyone is going around doing their little act, trying to impress each other," says collective member Jess Jestrab, 33. "Meanwhile, they are all full of self-hate and anxiety because they don't look like the models."

The collective is modeled after women's consciousness-raising groups that developed along with the women's liberation movement. The men try to get honest feedback from each other and support in learning experiences.

Melsh formed the group in October after organizing his first men's caucus last summer.

"At first we just got to know each other, established a trust in each other so that we could speak freely," says Jim Nelson, 20, of his experience in the group. "We had to develop an intimacy, which is the ability to express our innermost feelings and thoughts to another person."

They then pressed on to attack the stereotype of male domination over women and weaker men, competition and the ruthlessness and lack of emotion they say accompany these traits.

Members believe that men should be free to communicate their true feelings without being the object of jokes by their peers and lack of acceptance because they do not fit into an expected mold.

"Look at the men in Marin County," says Jim Katon, 25. "They are constantly trying to one-up their neighbor. And the way men relate to women. Men don't always have to impress and prove their masculinity. They must learn to see themselves as themselves and not as a status symbol or breadwinner."

Melsh puts down any attempt to classify the collective as a therapy or "Touchy-feely-type encounter group," preferring to see it as a reality-oriented group that examines the male role in life.

Jestrab said he believes that men will begin to see the urgency for more men's groups. "We only have so much time to live," he says. "Something is needed to bring people back alive, so many of us are quasi-dead."

Won't this new attitude threaten the present system, they hold responsible for forcing men into traditional roles?

Melsh doesn't think so. The priorities of the system are being reordered, he says, in order to insure its survival.

In fact, he believes the present system could be enhanced by increased consciousness, and points to the success of Ms. Magazine as a female example of this. While Look and Life have gone to their traditional graves, Ms. circulation has increased from 30,000 for its first edition to nearly half a million now.

Members say they plan someday to include women in the group, but for now say they are having enough trouble dealing with their own problems, and only after men are able to free themselves from the bonds of the sex role will there be freedom for both sexes.

Melsh is forming other men's groups that will be open to stu-dents and nonstudents and will be based, he says, on a philosophy that is hardly new or radical, that "the unexamined life is not worth living."

Sanitary Board Ponders Role In Growth Control

By NELS JOHNSON

Has Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District the right or the duty to limit population growth in the area it serves?

That question was at the heart of a public hearing last night on a report on the environmental impact of the district's proposed sewage plant expansion. And it drew varying response, as has been the case throughout the county when limiting growth has been the issue before public agencies.

It was the essential question last night since the report held the only adverse effect on the environment would result from ultimately adding 13,000 persons to the present 27,000 residents, requiring development of 2,200 acres and the addition of the cars, roads and services the added persons would require.

The three-hour hearing, attended by more than 80 persons and cut short by Marin Civic Center's 11 p.m. closing time, was inconclusive.

The board said it will wrestle once more with what its role should be — controller of population or simple supplier of a service — when it meets March 1 to discuss growth and technical aspects of increasing capacity of its plant on Smith Ranch Road from 2.25 million gallons a day to three million. That meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the district office.

A host of state, county and San Rafael officials, as well as several local residents addressed the board.

Waide Egener, a senior planner of the Association of Bay Area Governments, noted that ABAG last week stalled action on federal and state grants to the district totalling $224,000 of the $256,000 improvement after an ABAG staff recommendation that the project be scaled down or delayed. The staff advised expansion be reduced to meet "controlled growth goals" of the Marin countywide plan for 1980 to serve a population of 33,200, he said.

If sewage facilities cannot be scaled down to limit population, then the district should find "other methods" of controlling the rate of growth, such as a tripartite agreement among the district, San Rafael and the county limiting hookup permits, he said.

Egener noted that ABAG is merely an advisory agency and has no veto over federal funding.

District board chairman Gene H. Dyer replied, "We have the option of proceeding without state or federal contributions."

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell said the plant improvement would yield "a very reasonable expansion rate" basically in line with the projections of the proposed countywide plan. The document predicts the area will have an employee population producing a sewage equivalent of about 2,500 residents in addition to the 33,200 population projected to be living there by 1980, he said.

San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner declared that ABAG's concern with population growth is meaningless. "The primary function of the district is to maintain the quality of the effluent" and not population, Hotchner said in a lengthy review of the city's interest in the matter. "ABAG didn't address itself to this," he said, declaring that ABAG had made a shallow study of the impact report.

Hotchner, who said he was speaking as a citizen since the city council has taken no stand on plant expansion in the valley, claimed the area is within the city's "sphere of influence" and that growth decisions should be left to municipal officials. He urged the board to "let the public decide" through the normal planning process "whether to turn off the toilet tanks."

Hotchner said the city's citizens' advisory committee is currently aiding in creation of a general plan, but noted only residents living within city limits were appointed to the 60-member group by the council. Said board member Calvin B. Colt: "If you are planning for an area you plan to attach at some time, it might be useful to include some people from this area."

Roger E. James, chief of policy implementation for the state Regional Water Quality Control Board, said he believes the extent of growth is a local planning matter, but wants assurance that the district's treatment facilities "are ahead of your growth."

Colt said the district board is in a "quandary" over what its planning function is, if any. He and other board members promised to come to grips with the dilemma March 1.

About a half dozen members of the audience rose to ask questions or offer suggestions, although none appeared in outright opposition to the findings of the environmental impact report.

Constance M. Johnstone of 12 Clover Hill Court, San Rafael, urged the board to pass an ordinance allocating sewer hookups on an annual incremental basis until 1980. "We do not feel we are asking the board to usurp powers rightfully belonging to the County of Marin of the City of San Rafael," she said. ". . .The board would be acting to insure the availability of treatment facilities until 1980 while attempting to maximize compliance with effluent quality goals."

One man, astounded at a revelation by board member Frank Solomon Jr. that sewage flow last month averaged 4,756,000 gallons of waste per day — almost double the state authorized level —declared: "How can you in good conscience think of allowing more hookups if the district is violating its capacity limits now." Solomon attributed the excess flow to rainwater infiltration.

Dance Benefit To Aid Foreign Student's Costs

Rock drummer Buddy Miles will perform at a music and dance concert Monday at San Marin High School, a benefit for the Joice Monicah Mbatha Medical Fund.

Miss Mbatha, a foreign exchange student at San Marin High School from Kenya, suffered a serious illness and medical costs were more than $4,000.

She became ill shortly after the start of the school year, was hospitalized and out of school for about six weeks.

Miles, a resident of Novato, is scheduled to start playing at 8:30 p.m., although the benefit actually will start at 6:30 p.m. with Bill Burgess and Mike Hughes and their band and the Notations from Berkeley performing.

Others appearing:

Ray Hutchinson of Bel Marin Keys will be master of ceremonies.

Tickets are available at San Marin and Novato High schools.

San Anselmo Schools To Trim Jobs Of Parodi, 11 Teachers

San Anselmo School District trustees voted last night to trim an assistant superintendent and up to 11 teachers from the district payroll next year, because of shrinking enrollment and uncertainty that Miller-Unruh special funds will be available for 1973-74.

The board instructed Supt. Frank R. Elliott to send letters to up to 22 district employees before March 15, in order to comply with state law requiring that they be notified they may not be rehired next year.

Among these will be Steven L. Parodi, assistant superintendent in charge of business; and Eleanor Prentiss, temporary teacher.

Eliott reported that enrollment shrinkage will make at least six classroom teaching posts surplus, and probable cutbacks in state funding for Miller-Unruh special instruction will require releasing four teachers and leaving vacant a fifth position from which the teacher has resigned.

Elliott told the board he couldn't predict how many teachers "will actually be laid off because attrition through resignations and retirement is now known." He said most of the layoffs will involve probationary teachers.

Enrollment is predicted to decline from 2,037 in March 1971 to 1,687 students by March 1974, Elliott said.

The San Anselmo School District Board also:

TENNIS COURTS — Instructed Elliott and Board President Mary T. Olive to work with San Anselmo city officials and attorneys on the final wording of a contract for joint construction of courts at Red Hill School.

EARLY EDUCATION — After extensive discussion of the state's planned Early Childhood Education program, instructed Elliott to submit names for appointment of a district advisory committee for the March 8 meeting. The board also ordered a letter to the state Department of Education declaring the district will participate in the program for 5-year-olds and eventually 4-year-olds.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Miller-Unruh reading specialist Grace Thompson; granted a leave of absence for next year to Catherine Reisenberg and a one-month leave to Barbara Romaneck. Granted sabbatical leaves to Beverly Ludwig for a year's study in Great Britain and to Dorothy Israel for graduate study.

ADJOURNMENT — Because of the late hour, postponed the rest of last nght's agenda to the March 8 meeting.

Child Development Center Opens Drive

The Marin Child Development Center has launched a campaign to raise $11,800 for operation of the center's paraprofessional training program, board member Mrs. Neal Reagin said yesterday.

The program to train ajdes and volunteers to work with developmentally disabled children throughout the county, has received pledges from two foundations, if the center meets its goal. Both the S. H. Cowell Foundation of San Francisco and the William Babcock Memorial Endowment of San Rafael have pledged $10,000 sums to the training program, Mrs. Reagin reported.

She said the training plan is designed to solve the shortage of paraprofessional workers trained for early identification and treatment of children with development disabilities.

Teen-Age Church Rally Set Tonight

About 150 Marin and Sonoma county teen-agers will participate at 7:30 p.m. today in a Teens for Jesus Christ rally at Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, according to Rev. David A. Tucker, pastor of the Church.

The program will include a six-team Bible quiz contest, a film on "Time and Eternity" and gospel music. Admission will be free.

County Plan Cost Estimate Asked

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin last night asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to instruct County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell to prepare estimates of what the countywide general plan might cost taxpayers if it is adopted.

Sarah Nome, spokesmen for the taxpayer group, explained its members question how much impact the open space proposals, population and development restriction and other factors would have on the county's and cities' tax base.

The Irate Taxpayers believe the information should be available before the various cities act on the plan, Mrs. Nome said.

Bonsai Talk Tuesday

Commander Change Due At Hamilton

Col. R. R. Melton, vice commander of the 26th North American Defense Command Region at Luke Air Force Base, Ariz., will become base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base in change of command ceremonies Wednesday.

Melton will succeed Col. Vermont Garrison, commander at Hamiltonsince Aug. 3, 1971, who will be retiring after 31 years of active military service.

Melton, at his present post since January 1972, has been in military service since he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps in 1944.

During World War II he was with the Eighth Air Force, flying out of England, and during the post-war years served as a member of the occupation forces in Germany.

After that, he was assigned to the Air Training Command in Taiwan and with the Air Defense Command at Hamilton and Colorado Springs.

Melton attended the Imperial Defense College in London in 1965, and later was assigned to the 81st Tactical Fighter Wing, Brentwaters, England, serving as vice commander and then as commander of the wing.

He returned to the United States as commander of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., and held that command until 1969 when he served as commander of the 12th Tactical Fighter Wing at Cam Ranh Bay Air Base in Vietnam.

Fairfax Driver Suffers Injury

Timothy R. Life, of 27 Berry Trail, was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital with a broken nose and facial and leg cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said Life was westbound on the road when his auto apparently drifted across the highway, went over a ditch and through the fence. Officers said Life stated he remembered nothing about the accident, which occurred at 12:45 a.m.

"Look at the men in Marin County," says Jim Katon, 25. "They are constantly trying to one-up their neighbor. And the way men relate to women. Men don't always have to impress and prove their masculinity. They must learn to see themselves as themselves and not as a status symbol or breadwinner."

Melsh puts down any attempt to classify the collective as a therapy or "Touchy-feely-type encounter group," preferring to see it as a reality-oriented group that examines the male role in life.

Jestrab said he believes that men will begin to see the urgency for more men's groups. "We only have so much time to live," he says. "Something is needed to bring people back alive, so many of us are quasi-dead."

Won't this new attitude threaten the present system, they hold responsible for forcing men into traditional roles?

Melsh doesn't think so. The priorities of the system are being reordered, he says, in order to insure its survival.

In fact, he believes the present system could be enhanced by increased consciousness, and points to the success of Ms. Magazine as a female example of this. While Look and Life have gone to their traditional graves, Ms. circulation has increased from 30,000 for its first edition to nearly half a million now.

Members say they plan someday to include women in the group, but for now say they are having enough trouble dealing with their own problems, and only after men are able to free themselves from the bonds of the sex role will there be freedom for both sexes.

Melsh is forming other men's groups that will be open to stu-dents and nonstudents and will be based, he says, on a philosophy that is hardly new or radical, that "the unexamined life is not worth living."

Sanitary Board Ponders Role In Growth Control

By NELS JOHNSON

Has Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District the right or the duty to limit population growth in the area it serves?

That question was at the heart of a public hearing last night on a report on the environmental impact of the district's proposed sewage plant expansion. And it drew varying response, as has been the case throughout the county when limiting growth has been the issue before public agencies.

It was the essential question last night since the report held the only adverse effect on the environment would result from ultimately adding 13,000 persons to the present 27,000 residents, requiring development of 2,200 acres and the addition of the cars, roads and services the added persons would require.

The three-hour hearing, attended by more than 80 persons and cut short by Marin Civic Center's 11 p.m. closing time, was inconclusive.

The board said it will wrestle once more with what its role should be — controller of population or simple supplier of a service — when it meets March 1 to discuss growth and technical aspects of increasing capacity of its plant on Smith Ranch Road from 2.25 million gallons a day to three million. That meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the district office.

A host of state, county and San Rafael officials, as well as several local residents addressed the board.

Waide Egener, a senior planner of the Association of Bay Area Governments, noted that ABAG last week stalled action on federal and state grants to the district totalling $224,000 of the $256,000 improvement after an ABAG staff recommendation that the project be scaled down or delayed. The staff advised expansion be reduced to meet "controlled growth goals" of the Marin countywide plan for 1980 to serve a population of 33,200, he said.

If sewage facilities cannot be scaled down to limit population, then the district should find "other methods" of controlling the rate of growth, such as a tripartite agreement among the district, San Rafael and the county limiting hookup permits, he said.

Egener noted that ABAG is merely an advisory agency and has no veto over federal funding.

District board chairman Gene H. Dyer replied, "We have the option of proceeding without state or federal contributions."

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell said the plant improvement would yield "a very reasonable expansion rate" basically in line with the projections of the proposed countywide plan. The document predicts the area will have an employee population producing a sewage equivalent of about 2,500 residents in addition to the 33,200 population projected to be living there by 1980, he said.

San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner declared that ABAG's concern with population growth is meaningless. "The primary function of the district is to maintain the quality of the effluent" and not population, Hotchner said in a lengthy review of the city's interest in the matter. "ABAG didn't address itself to this," he said, declaring that ABAG had made a shallow study of the impact report.

Hotchner, who said he was speaking as a citizen since the city council has taken no stand on plant expansion in the valley, claimed the area is within the city's "sphere of influence" and that growth decisions should be left to municipal officials. He urged the board to "let the public decide" through the normal planning process "whether to turn off the toilet tanks."

Hotchner said the city's citizens' advisory committee is currently aiding in creation of a general plan, but noted only residents living within city limits were appointed to the 60-member group by the council. Said board member Calvin B. Colt: "If you are planning for an area you plan to attach at some time, it might be useful to include some people from this area."

Roger E. James, chief of policy implementation for the state Regional Water Quality Control Board, said he believes the extent of growth is a local planning matter, but wants assurance that the district's treatment facilities "are ahead of your growth."

Colt said the district board is in a "quandary" over what its planning function is, if any. He and other board members promised to come to grips with the dilemma March 1.

About a half dozen members of the audience rose to ask questions or offer suggestions, although none appeared in outright opposition to the findings of the environmental impact report.

Constance M. Johnstone of 12 Clover Hill Court, San Rafael, urged the board to pass an ordinance allocating sewer hookups on an annual incremental basis until 1980. "We do not feel we are asking the board to usurp powers rightfully belonging to the County of Marin of the City of San Rafael," she said. ". . .The board would be acting to insure the availability of treatment facilities until 1980 while attempting to maximize compliance with effluent quality goals."

One man, astounded at a revelation by board member Frank Solomon Jr. that sewage flow last month averaged 4,756,000 gallons of waste per day — almost double the state authorized level —declared: "How can you in good conscience think of allowing more hookups if the district is violating its capacity limits now." Solomon attributed the excess flow to rainwater infiltration.

Dance Benefit To Aid Foreign Student's Costs

Rock drummer Buddy Miles will perform at a music and dance concert Monday at San Marin High School, a benefit for the Joice Monicah Mbatha Medical Fund.

Miss Mbatha, a foreign exchange student at San Marin High School from Kenya, suffered a serious illness and medical costs were more than $4,000.

She became ill shortly after the start of the school year, was hospitalized and out of school for about six weeks.

Miles, a resident of Novato, is scheduled to start playing at 8:30 p.m., although the benefit actually will start at 6:30 p.m. with Bill Burgess and Mike Hughes and their band and the Notations from Berkeley performing.

Others appearing:

Ray Hutchinson of Bel Marin Keys will be master of ceremonies.

Tickets are available at San Marin and Novato High schools.

San Anselmo Schools To Trim Jobs Of Parodi, 11 Teachers

San Anselmo School District trustees voted last night to trim an assistant superintendent and up to 11 teachers from the district payroll next year, because of shrinking enrollment and uncertainty that Miller-Unruh special funds will be available for 1973-74.

The board instructed Supt. Frank R. Elliott to send letters to up to 22 district employees before March 15, in order to comply with state law requiring that they be notified they may not be rehired next year.

Among these will be Steven L. Parodi, assistant superintendent in charge of business; and Eleanor Prentiss, temporary teacher.

Eliott reported that enrollment shrinkage will make at least six classroom teaching posts surplus, and probable cutbacks in state funding for Miller-Unruh special instruction will require releasing four teachers and leaving vacant a fifth position from which the teacher has resigned.

Elliott told the board he couldn't predict how many teachers "will actually be laid off because attrition through resignations and retirement is now known." He said most of the layoffs will involve probationary teachers.

Enrollment is predicted to decline from 2,037 in March 1971 to 1,687 students by March 1974, Elliott said.

The San Anselmo School District Board also:

TENNIS COURTS — Instructed Elliott and Board President Mary T. Olive to work with San Anselmo city officials and attorneys on the final wording of a contract for joint construction of courts at Red Hill School.

EARLY EDUCATION — After extensive discussion of the state's planned Early Childhood Education program, instructed Elliott to submit names for appointment of a district advisory committee for the March 8 meeting. The board also ordered a letter to the state Department of Education declaring the district will participate in the program for 5-year-olds and eventually 4-year-olds.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Miller-Unruh reading specialist Grace Thompson; granted a leave of absence for next year to Catherine Reisenberg and a one-month leave to Barbara Romaneck. Granted sabbatical leaves to Beverly Ludwig for a year's study in Great Britain and to Dorothy Israel for graduate study.

ADJOURNMENT — Because of the late hour, postponed the rest of last ngiht's agenda to the March 8 meeting.

Child Development Center Opens Drive

The Marin Child Development Center has launched a campaign to raise $11,800 for operation of the center's paraprofessional training program, board member Mrs. Neal Reagin said yesterday.

The program to train ajdes and volunteers to work with developmentally disabled children throughout the county, has received pledges from two foundations, if the center meets its goal. Both the S. H. Cowell Foundation of San Francisco and the William Babcock Memorial Endowment of San Rafael have pledged $10,000 sums to the training program, Mrs. Reagin reported.

She said the training plan is designed to solve the shortage of paraprofessional workers trained for early identification and treatment of children with development disabilities.

Teen-Age Church Rally Set Tonight

About 150 Marin and Sonoma county teen-agers will participate at 7:30 p.m. today in a Teens for Jesus Christ rally at Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, according to Rev. David A. Tucker, pastor of the Church.

The program will include a six-team Bible quiz contest, a film on "Time and Eternity" and gospel music. Admission will be free.

County Plan Cost Estimate Asked

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin last night asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to instruct County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell to prepare estimates of what the countywide general plan might cost taxpayers if it is adopted.

Sarah Nome, spokesmen for the taxpayer group, explained its members question how much impact the open space proposals, population and development restriction and other factors would have on the county's and cities' tax base.

The Irate Taxpayers believe the information should be available before the various cities act on the plan, Mrs. Nome said.

Bonsai Talk Tuesday

Commander Change Due At Hamilton

Col. R. R. Melton, vice commander of the 26th North American Defense Command Region at Luke Air Force Base, Ariz., will become base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base in change of command ceremonies Wednesday.

Melton will succeed Col. Vermont Garrison, commander at Hamiltonsince Aug. 3, 1971, who will be retiring after 31 years of active military service.

Melton, at his present post since January 1972, has been in military service since he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps in 1944.

During World War II he was with the Eighth Air Force, flying out of England, and during the post-war years served as a member of the occupation forces in Germany.

After that, he was assigned to the Air Training Command in Taiwan and with the Air Defense Command at Hamilton and Colorado Springs.

Melton attended the Imperial Defense College in London in 1965, and later was assigned to the 81st Tactical Fighter Wing, Brentwaters, England, serving as vice commander and then as commander of the wing.

He returned to the United States as commander of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., and held that command until 1969 when he served as commander of the 12th Tactical Fighter Wing at Cam Ranh Bay Air Base in Vietnam.

Fairfax Driver Suffers Injury

Timothy R. Life, of 27 Berry Trail, was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital with a broken nose and facial and leg cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said Life was westbound on the road when his auto apparently drifted across the highway, went over a ditch and through the fence. Officers said Life stated he remembered nothing about the accident, which occurred at 12:45 a.m.

Reservations At Yosemite Camps Studied

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — Reservations will be required for most campgrounds in this national park next summer under a proposal currently before Congress, it was reported yesterday.

A spokesman said National Park Service representatives were to appear before the U.S. Senate subcommittee on parks and recreation today to explain the plan and ask for a test operation in Yosemite, Yellowstone, Grand Teton, Grand Canyon, Acadia and Everglades National Parks.

The Golden Eagle Act, which currently regulates entrance and user fees in the national parks, must be amended in order to try out the reservation system.

Under the program, visitors would make reservations with the NPS or private computerized reservation companies on contract with the park service.

If approved, a spokesman said the reservation system would apply to about 65 per cent of Yosemite's campgrounds.

Freak Conditions Jumble Police Radio

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Police in Morris County heard orders crackling over their radios this week that confused them. The orders were signed off by the Los Angeles County sheriff's office.

Freak atmospheric conditions "skipped" the transmissions 3,600 miles from Los Angeles for 1 ½ hours Thursday and three hours Wednesday.

A Southern Drawl Creeps Into Radio Calls

The twangy tones of Georgia and Alabama police took over the Marin County Police Radio System Wednesday, apparently because of sun spots.

Police calls about auto accidents, truants, the whereabouts of the mayor of a southern town and even a report of a helicopter crash in the two southeastern states drowned out local police broadcasting.

She said the interference is most prevalent during warm weather and is related to sun spots. On other occasions police broadcasts from Michigan, Wisconsin and Idaho have jammed Marin broadcasts, she said.

Man Ordered To Shine Shoes

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A man who pleaded guilty to resisting arrest was ordered yesterday to spend a day shining the shoes of policemen.

Judge John V. Hogan of Niagara County Court also fined Glenn W. White, 38, of Niagara $250. White was arrested in 1971 when he became involved in a scuffle with several policemen.

Citing White's "apparent lack of respect for police officers," Hogan told him to report to Niagara Falls police headquarters with rags and polish Saturday.

Final Hearing On Open Space Element Slated

The Tiburon Planning Commission has set March 5 for its final hearing on the open space element of the city's general plan.

Commissioners said they expect to be able to recommend the open space proposal to the city council for further hearings and adoption after the March 5 session.

At their meeting Wednesday, the commissioners also continued to March 5 their hearing on developer Richard B. Ham's plans for a five-acre parcel on Miraflores Avenue. The land is under an open space moratorium.

The planning panel also continued to an indefinite date, any decision on a proposal to ask the city council for an emergency building freeze on all multiple residential zones. The suggested freeze would allow the commission time to draft new controls in the zones.

New Rules To Govern Drug Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The television industry has adopted new, voluntary rules that prohibit on-camera consumption of nonprescription drugs.

The new rules governing television advertising of pills and other nonprescription drug products were approved Thursday by the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB). The regulations take effect Sept. 1 for stations that follow NAB standards.

They ban commercials in which a person shows a dramatic change of mood as a result of taking medication. The only change that can be shown is that "reasonably experienced through the relief of symptoms or conditions for which the product has been proven effective."

The new standards also ban advertising of drugs during or just before or after children's programs; the use of children in commercials for adult medications; drug testimonials by famous persons; advertising approaches commonly associated with the drug culture, and references to nonprescription drugs as "nonhabit forming" or "nonaddictive."

Advertisements must state the need to read and follow label directions. Drugs must be presented as being for occasional use only. Product effectiveness must be stated in terms of relief of symptoms for which substantiation will be supplied.

NAB is a voluntary organization which sets broadcasting standards for its membership of 525 television and 3,589 radio stations.

The voluntary nature of the rules was seen by some as an effort to forestall regulation by the government. The voluntary rules involve no enforcement against stations which do not wish to comply.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., who has criticized mood-change advertisements said "I hope that this will result in an end to the Cinderella syndrome which over-the-counter drugs have created on television."

Canada Murder Suspect Cleared

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jacques Rose was acquitted Thursday in his third trial on charges connected with the kidnaping and murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte in the midst of Canada's 1970 crisis with revolutionaries.

A jury of nine men and three women deliberated 13 hours before finding the 25-year old mechanic not guilty of murder.

Rose still has two charges facing him in connection with the kidnaping. He is charged with complicity after the fact, and one charge of forcible confinement. If convicted he could be sentenced to a total of 19 years. He is free until his next trial on March 5.

Reservations At Yosemite Camps Studied

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — Reservations will be required for most campgrounds in this national park next summer under a proposal currently before Congress, it was reported yesterday.

A spokesman said National Park Service representatives were to appear before the U.S. Senate subcommittee on parks and recreation today to explain the plan and ask for a test operation in Yosemite, Yellowstone, Grand Teton, Grand Canyon, Acadia and Everglades National Parks.

The Golden Eagle Act, which currently regulates entrance and user fees in the national parks, must be amended in order to try out the reservation system.

Under the program, visitors would make reservations with the NPS or private computerized reservation companies on contract with the park service.

If approved, a spokesman said the reservation system would apply to about 65 per cent of Yosemite's campgrounds.

Freak Conditions Jumble Police Radio

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Police in Morris County heard orders crackling over their radios this week that confused them. The orders were signed off by the Los Angeles County sheriff's office.

Freak atmospheric conditions "skipped" the transmissions 3,600 miles from Los Angeles for 1 ½ hours Thursday and three hours Wednesday.

A Southern Drawl Creeps Into Radio Calls

The twangy tones of Georgia and Alabama police took over the Marin County Police Radio System Wednesday, apparently because of sun spots.

Police calls about auto accidents, truants, the whereabouts of the mayor of a southern town and even a report of a helicopter crash in the two southeastern states drowned out local police broadcasting.

She said the interference is most prevalent during warm weather and is related to sun spots. On other occasions police broadcasts from Michigan, Wisconsin and Idaho have jammed Marin broadcasts, she said.

Man Ordered To Shine Shoes

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A man who pleaded guilty to resisting arrest was ordered yesterday to spend a day shining the shoes of policemen.

Judge John V. Hogan of Niagara County Court also fined Glenn W. White, 38, of Niagara $250. White was arrested in 1971 when he became involved in a scuffle with several policemen.

Citing White's "apparent lack of respect for police officers," Hogan told him to report to Niagara Falls police headquarters with rags and polish Saturday.

Final Hearing On Open Space Element Slated

The Tiburon Planning Commission has set March 5 for its final hearing on the open space element of the city's general plan.

Commissioners said they expect to be able to recommend the open space proposal to the city council for further hearings and adoption after the March 5 session.

At their meeting Wednesday, the commissioners also continued to March 5 their hearing on developer Richard B. Ham's plans for a five-acre parcel on Miraflores Avenue. The land is under an open space moratorium.

The planning panel also continued to an indefinite date, any decision on a proposal to ask the city council for an emergency building freeze on all multiple residential zones. The suggested freeze would allow the commission time to draft new controls in the zones.

New Rules To Govern Drug Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The television industry has adopted new, voluntary rules that prohibit on-camera consumption of nonprescription drugs.

The new rules governing television advertising of pills and other nonprescription drug products were approved Thursday by the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB). The regulations take effect Sept. 1 for stations that follow NAB standards.

They ban commercials in which a person shows a dramatic change of mood as a result of taking medication. The only change that can be shown is that "reasonably experienced through the relief of symptoms or conditions for which the product has been proven effective."

The new standards also ban advertising of drugs during or just before or after children's programs; the use of children in commercials for adult medications; drug testimonials by famous persons; advertising approaches commonly associated with the drug culture, and references to nonprescription drugs as "nonhabit forming" or "nonaddictive."

Advertisements must state the need to read and follow label directions. Drugs must be presented as being for occasional use only. Product effectiveness must be stated in terms of relief of symptoms for which substantiation will be supplied.

NAB is a voluntary organization which sets broadcasting standards for its membership of 525 television and 3,589 radio stations.

The voluntary nature of the rules was seen by some as an effort to forestall regulation by the government. The voluntary rules involve no enforcement against stations which do not wish to comply.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., who has criticized mood-change advertisements said "I hope that this will result in an end to the Cinderella syndrome which over-the-counter drugs have created on television."

Canada Murder Suspect Cleared

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jacques Rose was acquitted Thursday in his third trial on charges connected with the kidnaping and murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte in the midst of Canada's 1970 crisis with revolutionaries.

A jury of nine men and three women deliberated 13 hours before finding the 25-year old mechanic not guilty of murder.

Rose still has two charges facing him in connection with the kidnaping. He is charged with complicity after the fact, and one charge of forcible confinement. If convicted he could be sentenced to a total of 19 years. He is free until his next trial on March 5.

Fezler: Playing It Too Safe In Golf

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — for a fellow who insisted that finding himself in the lead of the year's second richest golf tournament didn't faze him, Forrest Fezler sure didn't leave that impression.

The young Californian was a stroke ahead of the field with only three holes to play in Thursday's opening round of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic.

His closest rival, veteran Gay Brewer, had already finished for the day so all Fezler had to do is play safe and the first round lead was his.

So what does he do? He plays too safe—and it costs him a double bogey, and the lead.

"I didn't want to go into the water so I decided to use a four -wood," Fezler tried to explain. "The ball landed in the fairway, but bounced into the water.

"I took a drop and the ball wound up in the rough. I was still 165 yards from the pin but I obviously overclubbed as the ball sailed 30 feet over the green." Fezler got back one stroke with a birdie on the 17th hole.

Brewer, who has been playing better golf at age 40 than ever before, and Fezler both had 5-under-par 67s in Thursday's opening round of the Gleason Classic and went into today's second round two strokes ahead of Lee Trevino and Gibby Gilbert, the only other two in the 149-man field able to break 70 while battling unusual cold in the morning.

Gilbert was the only early starter among the top four and he held a one stroke lead over Pacific Golfers Association rookie Tom Kite (70) until Brewer came in with his 67 late in the afternoon.

Trevino's 69 came later and didn't attract much attention but Lee was delighted since, as he pointed out, it was only the second tournament round in the 60s he has had this year.

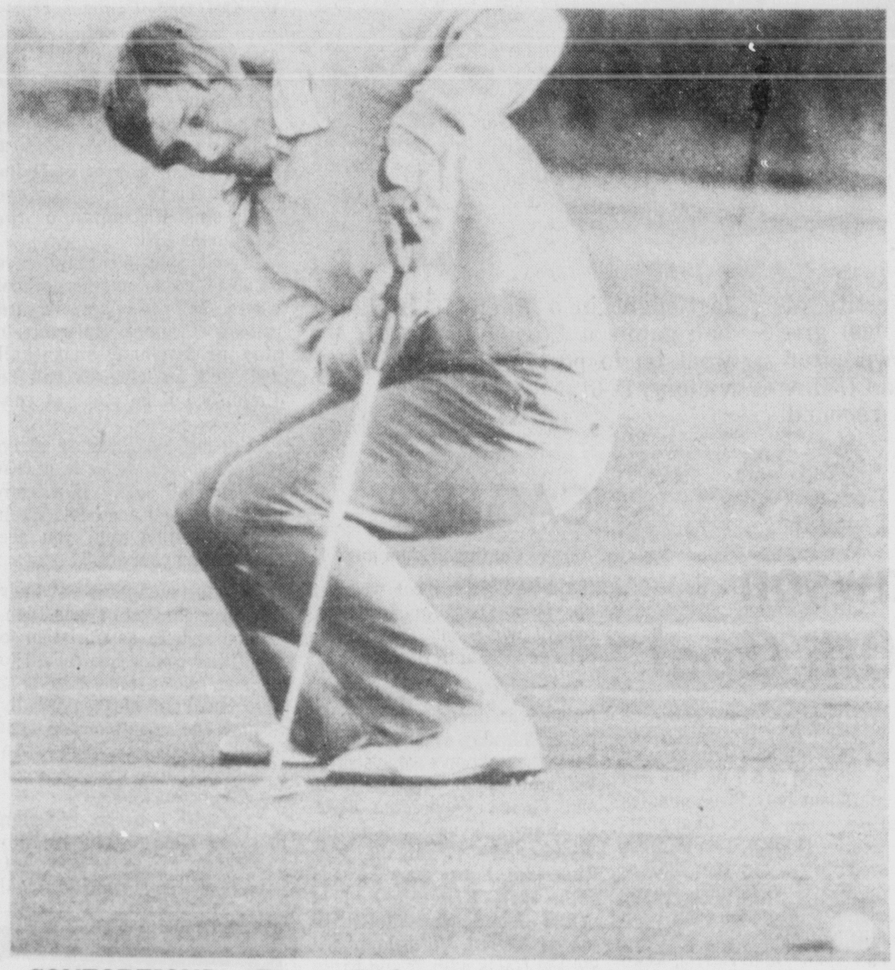
Brewer, who was rushed to a hospital with a bleeding ulcer during last year's Masters, said he has felt much better and played much better since that time, "because although I still have my ulcer, I'm not worried about it like I was for nearly two and a half years before I was hospitalized at the Masters."

Brewer, who has won more than $33,000 so far this year, could take over the money lead by winning the $52,000 first prize being paid by the Gleason. The current money leader, Bruce Crampton ($75,000) withdrew Thursday after shooting a 5-over-par 77, saying he needed a rest.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer both have their work cut out for them. Nicklaus, the favorite just about every time he plays, missed a bundle of birdie putts Thursday and shot a 73 while Palmer, who noted he hadn't made a single birdie in three days, had a 74.

Defending champion Tom Weiskopf headed a list of six 71 shooters, making a total of only 11 golfers who were able to break par Thursday.

The Gleason field will be cut to the low 70 scorers (and ties for 70th place) at the end of today's second round.



CONTORTIONS — Forrest Fezler used body english to try to urge the ball into the cup yesterday during the first round of the Jackie Gleason Inverrary golf tournament in Lauderhill, Fla. Fezler shot a 67 and shared the lead with Gay Brewer going into today's second round.

Need First Aid? Ask For Panagakis

As a basketball coach, John Panagakis' success at College of Marin is well known. What is not so well known is his success as a teacher of first aid. It's called practical application.

Panagakis' Tars basketball team has clinched no worse than a Camino Norte Conference championship tie, needing only one win in the final two games to take the title outright and earn a berth in the state championships. Winning coaching is not new to John. Neither is teaching first aid.

He has a first aid class this semester on Tuesdays and Thursdays at College of Marin and if any of his students have any doubts about his knowledge of first aid or his ability to take charge of a situation they should have seen him in action on the way back from Marin's winning basketball game Wednesday night against West Valley in Campbell.

While the team bus was stopped at a red light, still within the city limits of Campbell, three cars were involved in a crunching accident at the intersection in front of the bus, one of the cars sent rolling over on its side.

When the bus pulled over to the side of the road, John, assisstant coach Jim Webster, junior varsity coach Fred Arnold and trainer Bob Overmyer jumped out and raced across the street to help the injured. Someone reached into the car's side window and came out with a little boy. Seeing that the man and woman in the car couldn't be taken out that way, Panagakis and some other men at the scene pulled away all the broken glass of the windshield and John reached in and first helped out the woman and then the man. Then he made sure they were lying down. A few feet away Webster was comforting the little boy, dazed and scared.

Minutes later police cars, a fire truck and an ambulance were on the scene and we were all back on the bus.

I didn't find out until yesterday when I got through to the Santa Clara Valley Medical Center tha names of that man and woman John helped. They were Vahit Apaydin and his wife Bahigia, parents of Enver Apaydin, a starting guard on West Valley's basketball team, the same player who had scored 10 points just minutes earlier against Marin.

They are still resting in the Santa Clara hospital, he for observation and she for chest pains. Both had multiple cuts and bruises. The boy who was in the car with them, 7-year-old Dino Begovich, their nephew, was treated at the hospital and released.

So I hope those students in Panagakis' class yesterday morning were attentive. He knows what he's talking about.

TARNOTES:

If you think the fans at Wednesday night's game in Campbell were getting excited, what about the coaches? On more than one occasion assistant coach Webster was seen taking a slight whiff out of a little bottle which looked very much like it contained a liquid form of smelling salts.

It's a turnaround from the season close last year when Marin, locked with Contra Costa College for the conference lead, went into Campbell desperately needing a win. Well, the Tars lost, 60-62, and then in the next game were beaten by Skyline College of San Bruno by 15 points, a truly demoralized team. But this time around, after that thrilling 60-58 victory over West Valley, I look for Marin to come out like gangbusters tomorrow night against Skyline, since a win for Marin in this one puts them in the state championships in Ventura, March 8.

Tomorrow night's game will be Marin's last game on local grounds, since it winds up the season Wednesday in Suisun against Solano College before — hopefully — starting play in the state championships. So if you haven't seen this Tars' team yet, the state's fourth-ranked, you better be in the Kentfield gym tomorrow night. It's well worth the price of admission, believe me.

Redwood '5' Hosts Drake Tonight

One of the residual benefits accruing to Drake High School as a result of clinching the Marin County Athletic League basketball championship Wednesday night is a chance to be spared one of the MCAL's more unpleasant experiences — playing Redwood in Larkspur with something at stake.

The Pirates (11-2) will visit the second-place Giants (9-4) in the regular season's final game tonight at 8:30. Also on tonight's schedule are Marin Catholic at San Rafael, Terra Linda at Novato and San Marin vs. Tamalpais at College of Marin, all at 8 o'clock.

After a chaotic first half, the MCAL race evolved into a two-team affair, with Redwood chasing Drake. The Pirates won eight games in a row, one of them an 81-60 thumping of the Giants, and received an unexpected bonus Feb. 9 when Tamalpais upset Redwood, 65-62.

Marin Catholic (6-7) and San Rafael (6-7) take identical records but different histories into their battle for third place. The Wildcats have lost four games in a row after challenging the leaders, while San Rafael has won four of its last five after once being tied for last place.

Terra Linda, Novato, San Marin and Tamalpais all have 5-8 records, so at the end of tonight's doings, the two winners will be tied for fifth place and the two losers for seventh (last, if you prefer).

Alone among the four, Tam is surging, with three victories in its last four games. San Marin broke a five-game losing streak by beating Terra Linda Wednesday. The Trojans have lost five of their last six games also, and Novato has dropped seven of eight.

BY WEEKEND

Baseball Furor Ending Is Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball's big deadlock may be settled by the weekend.

For one thing, before leaving, Miller, executive director of the Major League Player Association, said he felt, "optimistic" for the first time since he began meeting with John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the baseball owners.

For another thing, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suddenly came back here from Florida and conferred with American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Chub Feeney.

And for a third thing, Miller, who had scheduled the trip to Los Angeles some time ago, said he would be back here later today to meet with Gaherin again.

Both Miller and Gaherin were smiling following Thursday's session and that was another first in the recent series of negotiations.

The two principal stumbling blocks to agreement between the players and owners so far have been the issues on arbitration and free agency, and there seems to be some feeling that the owners may concede at least in the area of arbitration.

Since early this week, both sides have adopted a policy of not commenting following their meetings and this practice has promoted conjecture on all sides. But even some of the players already working out on their own in Florida have been talking about a settlement which seems imminent and it could be that both sides will get together within the next 48 hours so that at least all major league training camps could open no later than March 1. The owners have vowed not to open the camps until they have reached agreement with the players.

Warriors Visit Lakers Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — The injury-riddled Los Angeles Lakers, losers of three consecutive games for only the second time in nearly two seasons, can still go more than 10 games ahead of the Golden State Warriors with a victory tonight at the Forum.

The Lakers led the Warriors by 9½ games in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division despite the losing streak that continued Wednesday night with a 106-98 defeat at Detroit.

The availability of all-pro guard Jerry West, sidelined with hamstring muscle injury, was listed as "questionable" by the Lakers for the Warriors game. Forward Harold Hairston, of course, is out for the regular season with knee surgery.

And, against Detroit, forward-guard Keith Erickson injured the little finger of his right hand. The wound probably will be taped to allow him to play despite what doctors said was a sprained joint in the finger.

Gail Goodrich has picked up some of the scoring slack caused by West's absence but the 6-foot-1 guard will need more offensive help against the Warriors, who have in Nate Thurmond, Cazzie Russell and Rick Barry one of the best frontcourts in the NBA.

The Warriors, who have won only 11 of their last 24, have to come home after tonight's game to face Milwaukee tomorrow night. Since they'll apparently have to face either the Lakers or Bucks in the first playoff round, they would like to prove they can beat these teams in the regular season.

"We need these games," says Warrior guard Jeff Mullins. "They're going to be good for us. They'll put us up against the wall and make us come out scratching and clawing to see if we have anything."

Champion Foreman Wins On The Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foreman, who became the new world heavyweight champion by knocking out Joe Frazier in the second round on Jan. 22, was a near unanimous choice as the Hickok Award winner for the month of January.

Foreman received 146 of the 155 first place votes as he became the first winner in the 1973 balloting for the 24th annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" Award.

Little League Signups

Signups for San Geronimo Valley Little League are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Nicasio School. Parents are asked to come without children, but with registration fee of $7.50 for one child or $12.50 for more than one.

Nine Marin Wrestlers In Hayward Meet

The nine wrestlers from Marin who performed well last Saturday will go on to bigger and tougher things at the North Coast Section meet at Tennyson High School in Hayward tomorrow.

The Marin contingent will be led by heavyweight Jon Loberg, who won his weight class at the Division I meet last weekend, and three of Loberg's Terra Linda High teammates.

"I think Jon has a fairly good chance of winning," said Trojan coach Bob Hetherington. "I was talking to the coach from Montgomery (of Santa Rosa), and he seemed to think the same thing."

Loberg suffered a rib injury earlier this week, but Hetherington feels he will be ready tomorrow. Preliminaries start at 10 a.m. and finals at 7 p.m.

The top four wrestlers who win each weight class will advance to the state meet March 2-3 at Hayward State University.

Another Trojan considered to have a good chance is 194-pounder Ron Losk, second last week. Redwood's Mike Roush (178), who was third, and San Rafael's Len Duff (123), who was fourth, also bring strong credentials.

The other Marinites who qualified were Reggie Grant of Terra Linda, fifth at 136; Ron Ford of Tamalpais, fifth at 106; Dick Paulson of San Rafael, fifth at 178; Bob Spain of Terra Linda, sixth at 178; and Peder Pedersen of Redwood, sixth at 148. They are accorded only outside chances because, to make the top four, they must outperform wrestlers who placed higher than they did last week.

VERSUS SEALS

Ailing Rangers In Oakland Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The California Golden Seals' long, long National Hockey League season continues tonight when they can break a club record they'd rather leave intact.

The Seals, after a 6-2 loss to Boston Wednesday night, have played 14 straight games without a victory. The opposition is the ailing New York Rangers tonight, and a 15th winless game would be a new Seals' record.

The only bright things about Wednesday night were the crowd of 12,033 and the fact that Seals outscored the Bruins 2-1 over the last two periods, getting goals from Bob Stewart and Stan Weir.

Steve Vickers of New York appears to have a slight edge over Hilliard Graves of the Seals in their battle for NHL Rookie of the Year. Vickers has scored a few more goals than Graves and is performing well with a team boasting a 40-15-5 record.

Graves, meanwhile, is trying to shake off various ailments, including a sinus condition, while skating for a team which has been able to win only nine of 61 games this season.

On the Rangers' injured list are Rod Gilbert (flu), Brad Park (knee), Vic Hadfield (thumb) and Bruce MacGregor (ankle).

Rumors were prevalent in the Seals' camp that young goalie Gilles Meloche may be traded to the Boston Bruins or involve the Seals in a bidding war with Chicago of the World Hockey Association.

Sonoma Has Chance To Take Cage Lead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sonoma State Cossacks have the opportunity to take at least a temporary lead in the Far Western Conference basketball race this weekend.

They have two conference games, at Hayward State tonight and at San Francisco State Saturday night, while co-leader Chico State has just one FWC game.

Both Sonoma and Chico are 7-2. The Wildcats are at Sacramento State tonight and at non-conference Stanislaus State Saturday night.

The University of California at Davis Aggies lost 84-78 at Sacramento last night to drop to 6-4 and out of contention for the league lead.

Sacramento State, 4-5 in the league and 13-8 over-all, got 24 points from Larry Heron and 22 from Rick Diregolo, while Andy Hansen topped Davis with 18.

Sacramento State led by eight points at the half and by 60-51 with 14 minutes left. Davis pulled into a 70-70 tie, but the Hornets scored eight free throws in two minutes to go ahead 82-72.

The San Francisco Gators appear dangerous, having won their last two games with point totals of 106 and 97. Guard Vance Devost shared conference Player-of-the-Week honors last weekend with U.C. Davis forward Mark Olson.

Steve Tiedeman of Sonoma holds a slim lead over Walter Lewis of Hayward in FWC individual scoring. Tiedeman has an average of 20.7 points per game to Lewis' 20.4.

Hockey Dinner Party

A Marin Amateur Hockey Club benefit beer, wine and pizza dinner and party will be held tomorrow from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Sacrement Hall in San Rafael. Donations of $1 will benefit the youth hockey program.

Chaney, Barton Sign With Reds

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Darrel Chaney and Bob Barton agreed to terms with the Cincinnati Reds Thursday.

Chaney, a shortstop, appeared in only 83 games for the Reds last season while Barton, a catcher, hit .200 in 28 games for San Diego before being dealt to Cincinnati last summer.

COAST BASKETBALL

UCLA Unaffected On Night Of Upsets

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Even a night of upsets couldn't affect the mighty UCLA Bruins, who rolled to their 67th win in a row.

UCLA took Oregon 72-61 Thursday with a well-balanced scoring attack and the domination of the boards by All America Bill Walton.

The Ducks had beaten a UCLA team with a 21-0 record three seasons ago under nearidentical circumstances and trailed by only five points at the half Friday. But UCLA roared out to a 60-39 lead by dominating early second half play in an awesome show. Keith Wilkes led the winners with 18 but Walton's 20 rebounds were the real key.

Elsewhere on the Coast Thursday, upsets were the story.

Oregon State rolled over USC 82-66 by hitting .625 of its shots to hand the Trojans their second Pac-8 loss in a row. They are still in second with a 7-3 mark, however, while both Oregon teams are at 6-4. Oregon State was led by Sam Whitehead's 24 points while Charlie Neal added 19 and Gus Williams topped the Trojans with 17.

The rest of the Pac-8 plays tonight with Washington at Stanford and Washington State at Cal. UCLA and USC swap Oregon foes Saturday.

In the Pacific Athletic Association, winless Fresno State rose up to smite University of Pacific 54-49 Thursday in a stunner that ended a six-game Bulldog losing streak and was Fresno's first win over UOP in seven seasons. Clarence Metcalfe had 21 for the Bulldogs, who are 1013 overall despite a 1-8 PCAA slate. Jim McCargo hit 17 for the Tigers, whose 49 points were their lowest output in nearly a decade. They're 5-5 in the conference and 13-11 for the year.

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — for a fellow who insisted that finding himself in the lead of the year's second richest golf tournament didn't faze him, Forrest Fezler sure didn't leave that impression.

The young Californian was a stroke ahead of the field with only three holes to play in Thursday's opening round of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic.

His closest rival, veteran Gay Brewer, had already finished for the day so all Fezler had to do is play safe and the first round lead was his.

So what does he do? He plays too safe—and it costs him a double bogey, and the lead.

"I didn't want to go into the water so I decided to use a four-wood," Fezler tried to explain. "The ball landed in the fairway, but bounced into the water.

"I took a drop and the ball wound up in the rough. I was still 165 yards from the pin but I obviously overclubbed as the ball sailed 30 feet over the green." Fezler got back one stroke with a birdie on the 17th hole.

Brewer, who has been playing better golf at age 40 than ever before, and Fezler both had 5-under-par 67s in Thursday's opening round of the Gleason Classic and went into today's second round two strokes ahead of Lee Trevino and Gibby Gilbert, the only other two in the 149-man field able to break 70 while battling unusual cold in the morning.

Gilbert was the only early starter among the top four and he held a one stroke lead over Pacific Golfers Association rookie Tom Kite (70) until Brewer came in with his 67 late in the afternoon.

Trevino's 69 came later and didn't attract much attention but Lee was delighted since, as he pointed out, it was only the second tournament round in the 60s he has had this year.

Brewer, who was rushed to a hospital with a bleeding ulcer during last year's Masters, said he has felt much better and played much better since that time, "because although I still have my ulcer, I'm not worried about it like I was for nearly two and a half years before I was hospitalized at the Masters."

Brewer, who has won more than $33,000 so far this year, could take over the money lead by winning the $52,000 first prize being paid by the Gleason. The current money leader, Bruce Crampton ($75,000) withdrew Thursday after shooting a 5-over-par 77, saying he needed a rest.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer both have their work cut out for them. Nicklaus, the favorite just about every time he plays, missed a bundle of birdie putts Thursday and shot a 73 while Palmer, who noted he hadn't made a single birdie in three days, had a 74.

Defending champion Tom Weiskopf headed a list of six 71 shooters, making a total of only 11 golfers who were able to break par Thursday.

The Gleason field will be cut to the low 70 scorers (and ties for 70th place) at the end of today's second round.

Redwood '5' Hosts Drake Tonight

One of the residual benefits accruing to Drake High School as a result of clinching the Marin County Athletic League basketball championship Wednesday night is a chance to be spared one of the MCAL's more unpleasant experiences — playing Redwood in Larkspur with something at stake.

The Pirates (11-2) will visit the second-place Giants (9-4) in the regular season's final game tonight at 8:30. Also on tonight's schedule are Marin Catholic at San Rafael, Terra Linda at Novato and San Marin vs. Tamalpais at College of Marin, all at 8 o'clock.

After a chaotic first half, the MCAL race evolved into a two-team affair, with Redwood chasing Drake. The Pirates won eight games in a row, one of them an 81-60 thumping of the Giants, and received an unexpected bonus Feb. 9 when Tamalpais upset Redwood, 65-62.

That surprise gave Drake enough breathing room to clinch the title outright before having to visit the Giants' lair.

Marin Catholic (6-7) and San Rafael (6-7) take identical records but different histories into their battle for third place. The Wildcats have lost four games in a row after challenging the leaders, while San Rafael has won four of its last five after once being tied for last place.

Terra Linda, Novato, San Marin and Tamalpais all have 5-8 records, so at the end of tonight's doings, the two winners will be tied for fifth place and the two losers for seventh (last, if you prefer).

Alone among the four, Tam is surging, with three victories in its last four games. San Marin broke a five-game losing streak by beating Terra Linda Wednesday. The Trojans have lost five of their last six games also, and Novato has dropped seven of eight.

Champion Foreman Wins On The Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foreman, who became the new world heavyweight champion by knocking out Joe Frazier in the second round on Jan. 22, was a near unanimous choice as the Hickok Award winner for the month of January.

Foreman received 146 of the 155 first place votes as he became the first winner in the 1973 balloting for the 24th annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" Award.

Baseball Furor Ending Is Seen

For one thing, before leaving, Miller, executive director of the Major League Player Association, said he felt, "optimistic" for the first time since he began meeting with John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the baseball owners.

For another thing, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suddenly came back here from Florida and conferred with American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Chub Feeney.

And for a third thing, Miller, who had scheduled the trip to Los Angeles some time ago, said he would be back here later today to meet with Gaherin again.

Both Miller and Gaherin were smiling following Thursday's session and that was another first in the recent series of negotiations.

The two principal stumbling blocks to agreement between the players and owners so far have been the issues on arbitration and free agency, and there seems to be some feeling that the owners may concede at least in the area of arbitration.

Since early this week, both sides have adopted a policy of not commenting following their meetings and this practice has promoted conjecture on all sides. But even some of the players already working out on their own in Florida have been talking about a settlement which seems imminent and it could be that both sides will get together within the next 48 hours so that at least all major league training camps could open no later than March 1. The owners have vowed not to open the camps until they have reached agreement with the players.

Warriors Visit Lakers Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — The injury-riddled Los Angeles Lakers, losers of three consecutive games for only the second time in nearly two seasons, can still go more than 10 games ahead of the Golden State Warriors with a victory tonight at the Forum.

The Lakers led the Warriors by 9½ games in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division despite the losing streak that continued Wednesday night with a 106-98 defeat at Detroit.

The availability of all-pro guard Jerry West, sidelined with hamstring muscle injury, was listed as "questionable" by the Lakers for the Warriors game. Forward Harold Hairston, of course, is out for the regular season with knee surgery.

And, against Detroit, forward-guard Keith Erickson injured the little finger of his right hand. The wound probably will be taped to allow him to play despite what doctors said was a sprained joint in the finger.

Gail Goodrich has picked up some of the scoring slack caused by West's absence but the 6-foot-1 guard will need more offensive help against the Warriors, who have in Nate Thurmond, Cazzie Russell and Rick Barry one of the best frontcourts in the NBA.

The Warriors, who have won only 11 of their last 24, have to come home after tonight's game to face Milwaukee tomorrow night. Since they'll apparently have to face either the Lakers or Bucks in the first playoff round, they would like to prove they can beat these teams in the regular season.

"We need these games," says Warrior guard Jeff Mullins. "They're going to be good for us. They'll put us up against the wall and make us come out scratching and clawing to see if we have anything."

Little League Signups

Signups for San Geronimo Valley Little League are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Nicasio School. Parents are asked to come without children, but with registration fee of $7.50 for one child or $12.50 for more than one.

Nine Marin Wrestlers In Hayward Meet

The nine wrestlers from Marin who performed well last Saturday will go on to bigger and tougher things at the North Coast Section meet at Tennyson High School in Hayward tomorrow.

The Marin contingent will be led by heavyweight Jon Loberg, who won his weight class at the Division I meet last weekend, and three of Loberg's Terra Linda High teammates.

"I think Jon has a fairly good chance of winning," said Trojan coach Bob Hetherington. "I was talking to the coach from Montgomery (of Santa Rosa), and he seemed to think the same thing."

Loberg suffered a rib injury earlier this week, but Hetherington feels he will be ready tomorrow. Preliminaries start at 10 a.m. and finals at 7 p.m.

The top four wrestlers who win each weight class will advance to the state meet March 2-3 at Hayward State University.

Another Trojan considered to have a good chance is 194-pounder Ron Losk, second last week. Redwood's Mike Roush (178), who was third, and San Rafael's Len Duff (123), who was fourth, also bring strong credentials.

The other Marinites who qualified were Reggie Grant of Terra Linda, fifth at 136; Ron Ford of Tamalpais, fifth at 106; Dick Paulson of San Rafael, fifth at 178; Bob Spain of Terra Linda, sixth at 178; and Peder Pedersen of Redwood, sixth at 148. They are accorded only outside chances because, to make the top four, they must outperform wrestlers who placed higher than they did last week.

Chaney, Barton Sign With Reds

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Darrel Chaney and Bob Barton agreed to terms with the Cincinnati Reds Thursday.

Chaney, a shortstop, appeared in only 83 games for the Reds last season while Barton, a catcher, hit .200 in 28 games for San Diego before being dealt to Cincinnati last summer.

VERSUS SEALS

Ailing Rangers In Oakland Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The California Golden Seals' long, long National Hockey League season continues tonight when they can break a club record they'd rather leave intact.

The Seals, after a 6-2 loss to Boston Wednesday night, have played 14 straight games without a victory. The opposition is the ailing New York Rangers tonight, and a 15th winless game would be a new Seals' record.

The only bright things about Wednesday night were the crowd of 12,033 and the fact that Seals outscored the Bruins 2-1 over the last two periods, getting goals from Bob Stewart and Stan Weir.

Steve Vickers of New York appears to have a slight edge over Hilliard Graves of the Seals in their battle for NHL Rookie of the Year. Vickers has scored a few more goals than Graves and is performing well with a team boasting a 40-15-5 record.

Graves, meanwhile, is trying to shake off various ailments, including a sinus condition, while skating for a team which has been able to win only nine of 61 games this season.

On the Rangers' injured list are Rod Gilbert (flu), Brad Park (knee), Vic Hadfield (thumb) and Bruce MacGregor (ankle).

Rumors were prevalent in the Seals' camp that young goalie Gilles Meloche may be traded to the Boston Bruins or involve the Seals in a bidding war with Chicago of the World Hockey Association.

COAST BASKETBALL

UCLA Unaffected On Night Of Upsets

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Even a night of upsets couldn't affect the mighty UCLA Bruins, who rolled to their 67th win in a row.

UCLA took Oregon 72-61 Thursday with a well-balanced scoring attack and the domination of the boards by All America Bill Walton.

The Ducks had beaten a UCLA team with a 21-0 record three seasons ago under nearidentical circumstances and trailed by only five points at the half Friday. But UCLA roared out to a 60-39 lead by dominating early second half play in an awesome show. Keith Wilkes led the winners with 18 but Walton's 20 rebounds were the real key.

Elsewhere on the Coast Thursday, upsets were the story.

Oregon State rolled over USC 82-66 by hitting .625 of its shots to hand the Trojans their second Pac-8 loss in a row. They are still in second with a 7-3 mark, however, while both Oregon teams are at 6-4. Oregon State was led by Sam Whitehead's 24 points while Charlie Neal added 19 and Gus Williams topped the Trojans with 17.

The rest of the Pac-8 plays tonight with Washington at Stanford and Washington State at Cal. UCLA and USC swap Oregon foes Saturday.

In the Pacific Athletic Association, winless Fresno State rose up to smite University of Pacific 54-49 Thursday in a stunner that ended a six-game Bulldog losing streak and was Fresno's first win over UOP in seven seasons. Clarence Metcalfe had 21 for the Bulldogs, who are 1013 overall despite a 1-8 PCAA slate. Jim McCargo hit 17 for the Tigers, whose 49 points were their lowest output in nearly a decade. They're 5-5 in the conference and 13-11 for the year.

Sonoma Has Chance To Take Cage Lead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sonoma State Cossacks have the opportunity to take at least a temporary lead in the Far Western Conference basketball race this weekend.

They have two conference games, at Hayward State tonight and at San Francisco State Saturday night, while co-leader Chico State has just one FWC game.

Both Sonoma and Chico are 7-2. The Wildcats are at Sacramento State tonight and at non-conference Stanislaus State Saturday night.

The University of California at Davis Aggies lost 84-78 at Sacramento last night to drop to 6-4 and out of contention for the league lead.

Sacramento State, 4-5 in the league and 13-8 over-all, got 24 points from Larry Heron and 22 from Rick Diregolo, while Andy Hansen topped Davis with 18.

Sacramento State led by eight points at the half and by 60-51 with 14 minutes left. Davis pulled into a 70-70 tie, but the Hornets scored eight free throws in two minutes to go ahead 82-72.

The San Francisco Gators appear dangerous, having won their last two games with point totals of 106 and 97. Guard Vance Devost shared conference Player-of-the-Week honors last weekend with U.C. Davis forward Mark Olson.

Steve Tiedeman of Sonoma holds a slim lead over Walter Lewis of Hayward in FWC individual scoring. Tiedeman has an average of 20.7 points per game to Lewis' 20.4.

Robinson Quits Pro Football

Combined AP & UPI

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Former Green Bay Packers all-pro linebacker Dave Robinson said yesterday he has decided not to join the Washington Redskins because his job with a brewery offers a better future.

"I've told the brewery I'm going to stay," said Robinson. "They were concerned after I was traded to Washington, because they knew the Redskins were the kind of team I would play for."

Robinson was traded by the Packers to Washington on the first day of the college draft Jan. 30. He announced his retirement from football the same day. He had told the Packers of his intention to retire and the Packers told Washington Robinson's decision before the deal was made for an undisclosed draft choice.

He visited in Washington several days ago, talking with Washington Redskins coach and general manager George Allen.

Robinson is director of Minority affairs for the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. He has spent four off-seasons learning the business before advancing to the executive position.

HOUSTON — Dan Pastorini, the Houston Oiler quarterback, said yesterday he and actress June Wilkinson were going to be married March 18 at Carmel.

Pastorini, 23, a native of Sonora, Calif., said he met Miss Wilkinson during her appearance in the play "Pajama Tops" at the Windmill Dinner Theater in Houston last October. She is the star of that play.

Miss Wilkinson, 32, a native of Sussex, England, came to the United States in 1958.

Basketball

TORONTO — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association will play nine regular season games and one pre-season contest at Maple Leaf Gardens next year, it was announced here yesterday.

At a joint press conference, Braves owner Paul Snyder said the games would be used "as a barometer in determining whether to grant a franchise to the gardens."

He said the Braves agreed to the deal to interest Toronto fans in their team, and to also lay the groundwork for what could be a "great rivalry" if this city gets the franchise. He denied the games would be a prelude to shifting the Buffalo franchise to Toronto.

PHILADELPHIA — Two New Mexico State University (NMSU) basketball players suspended for allegedly taking excessive financial aid will be able to play in the rest of their team's games this season, it was learned yesterday.

Coach Lou Henson, in an affidavit filed in the Court of Common Pleas, said John Williamson and Roland Grant could play until he heard otherwise from the Missouri Valley Conference or the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

The NCAA, which suspended the players last Jan. 8, has ordered the school to reinstate them in compliance with a temporary restraining order issued by Common Pleas Court. The court handed down its ruling after Richard G. Phillips, attorney for Grant and Williamson, filed a $2.5 million defamation suit against the NCAA.

COLOGNE, Germany — Australian Ken Rosewall advanced yesterday to the quarter-finals of the Cologne World Champion Tennis Tournament, defeating Roger Taylor, England, 6-1, 7-5.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Don Johnson, Akron, Ohio, yesterday moved into first place in the $90,000 Winston-Salem Bowling Classic with a 63-pin lead.

Knievel Challenges Golf Stars

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Evel Knievel, 34, in town with his jet propelled motorcycle to leap over 13 trucks, said Thursday he would like to play Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer in a head-to-head golf match at $10,000 a hole.

"They would find it different when they weren't playing for Bob Hope's, Bing Crosby's, Glen Campbell's, Dean Martin's or Andy William's money, but were playing for their own," he said. "It's different when it comes out of your own pocket when you lose."

"Everybody has his own choking price, but I play $2,000-a-hole with two guys every day I play," Knievel said. "And we pay $1,500 into the kitty for every sand trap you hit, every water hazard and every out-of-bounds.

"I have lost $60,000 on a round of golf," he said. "When Nicklaus or Palmer says he 'lost' $60,000, he merely means he didn't win it," said Knievel. "I lost it."

Knievel will participate in the weekend Cycle-Rama at the Convention Center, using his jet propelled motorcycle which he says can hit speeds up to 350 miles per hour to leap 13 trucks.

GOING DOWN — University of Oregon guard Ron Lee (30) grimaced while falling down after tangling with All-American UCLA center Bill Walton for a rebound last night in a Pacific-8 basketball game at Eugene, Ore. UCLA went on to post its 67th straight victory, 72-61.

WHA ROUNDUP

Blazers' Lawson Notches 50th Goal

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Danny Lawson never had it so good.

The 25-year-old right wing scored a total of 28 goals during a four-year National Hockey League career comprising 235 games.

However, in his 61st game with Philadelphia of the World Hockey Association, Lawson tallied his 50th goal, helping the visiting Blazers beat the Ottawa Nationals 6-5 and move into third place in the WHA's Eastern Division Thursday night.

In the only other WHA contest, Houston beat Quebec 41 as the Aeros took over second place in the West, one point ahead of idle Minnesota.

Lawson's goal came with less than two minutes left to play and snapped a 5-5 tie that had come about only three minutes earlier when Bob Charlebois tallied for Ottawa. Don Burgess scored twice for the Blazers while Gavin Kirk and Wayne Carleton tallied two goals each for the Nationals.

The trio of Duke Harris, Keke Mortson and Ed Hoekstra combined for three goals in the last period to spark Houston past Quebec. Harris' goal at 5:22 on assists by Mortson and Hoekstra snapped a 1-1 tie and Mortson scored what proved to be the deciding goal at 12:07 on an assist by Hoekstra. Hoekstra closed out the scoring at 16:56 with an assist by Harris.

The West Coast Athletic Conference produced another surprise Thursday when St. Mary's held the nation's top scorer, William "Bird" Averitt, to 22 and nipped Pepperdine 83-82. St. Mary's is now 2-10 in the WCAC and 7-17 for the year while the losers are 5-6 and 1210. Matt Kriletich had 14 points while doing the defensive job on Averitt. Vince Lombard led the Gaels with 22 and Craig Casault hit the layup at the buzzer that won it.

But the big WCAC action is tonight when USF (9-1) calls on Nevada-Las Vegas, a team that rarely loses at home, while Santa Clara (8-2) is at Nevada-Reno, which averaged 101 points in beating Loyola and Pepperdine last week.

Cage Team Dissension At Southern Methodist

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist's outstanding freshman basketball player is talking about leaving the team, and several players and influential fans want a new coach.

The dissatisfaction apparently stems from differing philosophies between Coach Bob Prewitt and assistant Mike Pinkham and the fact that the highly-regarded Mustangs have lost three conference games in a row to drop out of contention for an NCAA playoff spot.

"I know there are an awful lot of people unhappy with the team's record this season," Bert Flashnick, a member of the "Fast Break Club" booster group, said in today's edition of the SMU Daily Campus. "There have been some definite pressures put on Prewitt and I've spoken to many players who are unhappy."

The unhappiest of the players appears to be Ira Terrell, the 6-foot-8 center who is receiving support for both Player of the Year and Freshman of the Year in the SWC.

Terrell said he may leave SMU to go to another school where he can play forward instead of center. He wants to play professional basketball and said his chances will be diminished if he stays at center.

"I'm just hurt because of the type of games we've been losing," Terrell said. "If a team beats you, you are beat. When they're beating you, you are also beating yourself."

The Mustangs have lost their last three games to Texas Tech, Baylor and Texas Christian to drop their conference record to 7-4 and season record to 10-12 They could still mathematically tie for the championship, but would not go to the NCAA playoffs because they went last year.

"The rift between Pinkham and Prewitt has been hell for the team," said one player. "Pinkham and Kinlund (Neil Kinlund, another assistant) have worked all year to alienate the players from Prewitt by teaming players against him. This might not have worked quite the way they planned, but it's worked to unify the team against the whole coaching staff."

Pinkham said he had to "rift" with Prewitt. Prewitt said he would not comment.

"There is definitely a communication problem between the players and coaches," another team member said. "Pinkham and Prewitt are as different as night and day.

"Prewitt's idea is to get something more from the contest than a win or a loss. But the majority of the players would go along with Pinkham's idea of winning big and doing so with a discipline-oriented program."

Another player said there were two sets of "disciplinary values"—one for blacks and one for whites—but that this had not been a "serious" problem.

"It's been irritating to see the blacks treated as super-gods," he said.

Mill Valley Wins Girls' Gymnastics

Mill Valley Middle School scored eight points, one more than host A.E. Kent School of Kentfield and two more than Miller Creek School of San Rafael, to win the Marin County Junior High-Middle School compulsory balance beam girls' gymnastics "flag meet" yesterday.

The flag meets are being held to give inexperienced gymnasts an opportunity to perform in competition before judges. The final one, or uneven parallel bars, will be held Monday at Tamalpais High School and will be hosted by Mill Valley Middle School.

HOUSTON — Dan Pastorini, the Houston Oiler quarterback, said yesterday he and actress June Wilkinson were going to be married March 18 at Carmel.

Pastorini, 23, a native of Sonora, Calif., said he met Miss Wilkinson during her appearance in the play "Pajama Tops" at the Windmill Dinner Theater in Houston last October. She is the star of that play.

Miss Wilkinson, 32, a native of Sussex, England, came to the United States in 1958.

Basketball

TORONTO — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association will play nine regular season games and one pre-season contest at Maple Leaf Gardens next year, it was announced here yesterday.

At a joint press conference, Braves owner Paul Snyder said the games would be used "as a barometer in determining whether to grant a franchise to the gardens."

He said the Braves agreed to the deal to interest Toronto fans in their team, and to also lay the groundwork for what could be a "great rivalry" if this city gets the franchise. He denied the games would be a prelude to shifting the Buffalo franchise to Toronto.

PHILADELPHIA — Two New Mexico State University (NMSU) basketball players suspended for allegedly taking excessive financial aid will be able to play in the rest of their team's games this season, it was learned yesterday.

Coach Lou Henson, in an affidavit filed in the Court of Common Pleas, said John Williamson and Roland Grant could play until he heard otherwise from the Missouri Valley Conference or the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

The NCAA, which suspended the players last Jan. 8, has ordered the school to reinstate them in compliance with a temporary restraining order issued by Common Pleas Court. The court handed down its ruling after Richard G. Phillips, attorney for Grant and Williamson, filed a $2.5 million defamation suit against the NCAA.

COLOGNE, Germany — Australian Ken Rosewall advanced yesterday to the quarter-finals of the Cologne World Champion Tennis Tournament, defeating Roger Taylor, England, 6-1, 7-5.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Don Johnson, Akron, Ohio, yesterday moved into first place in the $90,000 Winston-Salem Bowling Classic with a 63-pin lead.

Knievel Challenges Golf Stars

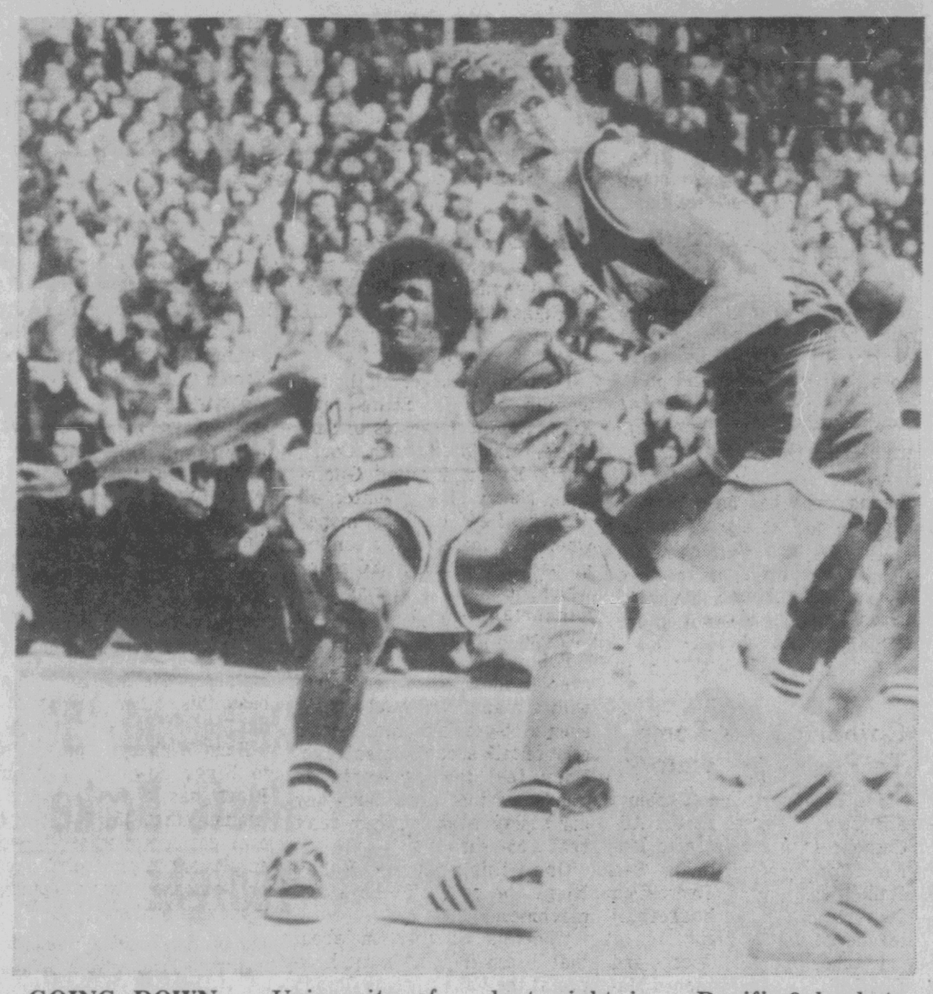
CLEVELAND (UPI) — Evel Knievel, 34, in town with his jet propelled motorcycle to leap over 13 trucks, said Thursday he would like to play Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer in a head-to-head golf match at $10,000 a hole.

"They would find it different when they weren't playing for Bob Hope's, Bing Crosby's, Glen Campbell's, Dean Martin's or Andy William's money, but were playing for their own," he said. "It's different when it comes out of your own pocket when you lose."

"Everybody has his own choking price, but I play $2,000-a-hole with two guys every day I play," Knievel said. "And we pay $1,500 into the kitty for every sand trap you hit, every water hazard and every out-of-bounds.

"I have lost $60,000 on a round of golf," he said. "When Nicklaus or Palmer says he 'lost' $60,000, he merely means he didn't win it," said Knievel. "I lost it."

Knievel will participate in the weekend Cycle-Rama at the Convention Center, using his jet propelled motorcycle which he says can hit speeds up to 350 miles per hour to leap 13 trucks.



GOING DOWN — University of Oregon guard Ron Lee (30) grimaced while falling down after tangling with All-American UCLA center Bill Walton for a rebound last night in a Pacific-8 basketball game at Eugene, Ore. UCLA went on to post its 67th straight victory, 72-61.

WHA ROUNDUP

Blazers' Lawson Notches 50th Goal

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Danny Lawson never had it so good.

The 25-year-old right wing scored a total of 28 goals during a four-year National Hockey League career comprising 235 games.

However, in his 61st game with Philadelphia of the World Hockey Association, Lawson tallied his 50th goal, helping the visiting Blazers beat the Ottawa Nationals 6-5 and move into third place in the WHA's Eastern Division Thursday night.

In the only other WHA contest, Houston beat Quebec 41 as the Aeros took over second place in the West, one point ahead of idle Minnesota.

Lawson's goal came with less than two minutes left to play and snapped a 5-5 tie that had come about only three minutes earlier when Bob Charlebois tallied for Ottawa. Don Burgess scored twice for the Blazers while Gavin Kirk and Wayne Carleton tallied two goals each for the Nationals.

The trio of Duke Harris, Keke Mortson and Ed Hoekstra combined for three goals in the last period to spark Houston past Quebec. Harris' goal at 5:22 on assists by Mortson and Hoekstra snapped a 1-1 tie and Mortson scored what proved to be the deciding goal at 12:07 on an assist by Hoekstra. Hoekstra closed out the scoring at 16:56 with an assist by Harris.

the PCAA just about wrapped up, is at Los Angeles State tonight while San Diego State calls on UC Santa Barbara.

The West Coast Athletic Conference produced another surprise Thursday when St. Mary's held the nation's top scorer, William "Bird" Averitt, to 22 and nipped Pepperdine 83-82. St. Mary's is now 2-10 in the WCAC and 7-17 for the year while the losers are 5-6 and 1210. Matt Kriletich had 14 points while doing the defensive job on Averitt. Vince Lombard led the Gaels with 22 and Craig Casault hit the layup at the buzzer that won it.

But the big WCAC action is tonight when USF (9-1) calls on Nevada-Las Vegas, a team that rarely loses at home, while Santa Clara (8-2) is at Nevada-Reno, which averaged 101 points in beating Loyola and Pepperdine last week.

Cage Team Dissension At Southern Methodist

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist's outstanding freshman basketball player is talking about leaving the team, and several players and influential fans want a new coach.

The dissatisfaction apparently stems from differing philosophies between Coach Bob Prewitt and assistant Mike Pinkham and the fact that the highly-regarded Mustangs have lost three conference games in a row to drop out of contention for an NCAA playoff spot.

"I know there are an awful lot of people unhappy with the team's record this season," Bert Flashnick, a member of the "Fast Break Club" booster group, said in today's edition of the SMU Daily Campus. "There have been some definite pressures put on Prewitt and I've spoken to many players who are unhappy."

The unhappiest of the players appears to be Ira Terrell, the 6-foot-8 center who is receiving support for both Player of the Year and Freshman of the Year in the SWC.

Terrell said he may leave SMU to go to another school where he can play forward instead of center. He wants to play professional basketball and said his chances will be diminished if he stays at center.

"I'm just hurt because of the type of games we've been losing," Terrell said. "If a team beats you, you are beat. When they're beating you, you are also beating yourself."

The Mustangs have lost their last three games to Texas Tech, Baylor and Texas Christian to drop their conference record to 7-4 and season record to 10-12 They could still mathematically tie for the championship, but would not go to the NCAA playoffs because they went last year.

"The rift between Pinkham and Prewitt has been hell for the team," said one player. "Pinkham and Kinlund (Neil Kinlund, another assistant) have worked all year to alienate the players from Prewitt by teaming players against him. This might not have worked quite the way they planned, but it's worked to unify the team against the whole coaching staff."

Pinkham said he had to "rift" with Prewitt. Prewitt said he would not comment.

"There is definitely a communication problem between the players and coaches," another team member said. "Pinkham and Prewitt are as different as night and day.

"Prewitt's idea is to get something more from the contest than a win or a loss. But the majority of the players would go along with Pinkham's idea of winning big and doing so with a discipline-oriented program."

Another player said there were two sets of "disciplinary values"—one for blacks and one for whites—but that this had not been a "serious" problem.

"It's been irritating to see the blacks treated as super-gods," he said.

Mill Valley Wins Girls' Gymnastics

Mill Valley Middle School scored eight points, one more than host A.E. Kent School of Kentfield and two more than Miller Creek School of San Rafael, to win the Marin County Junior High-Middle School compulsory balance beam girls' gymnastics "flag meet" yesterday.

The flag meets are being held to give inexperienced gymnasts an opportunity to perform in competition before judges. The final one, or uneven parallel bars, will be held Monday at Tamalpais High School and will be hosted by Mill Valley Middle School.

FISH AND GAME

Ocean Salmon Fishing Slow

The ocean salmon fishing hasn't shown a great deal of improvement since opening day last Saturday though some of the party boats have been ranging far and wide. The Blue Horizon out of Sausalito with 25 customers aboard went up past Double Point last Monday. They landed 15 salmon for the day.

Most of the skippers figure the fresh water in the bay and just outside the Gate has moved the bait fish out to the saltier waters further off shore. It may take some time for the high amounts of fresh water to disperse this year. It could mean a slow season for the first couple of months for those fishing in close.

THE RAINS and heavy runoff have had just the opposite effect on the sturgeon — and probably the striper fishery, though the stripers need a warm up of the waters to bite best. The runoff of all the rains in the Delta have put the sturgeon in San Pablo and San Francisco Bay. People call me daily to report catching their first sturgeon. Rich Carter of San Rafael got a 50-pounder off China Champ fishing with Sam Crawford, the jovial skipper from Loch Lomond. The fish had 10 pounds of roe ready for making caviar.

They also landed six flounders and they reported no bullhead bites. Dick Steinhart of San Rafael caught a 135-pounder at the bird cage out at the end of the San Rafael canal channel. The same place also paid off for Art Donati of the Loch Lomond Bait Shop. He caught a 63-pounder. In both cases, the two men took along just 10 ghost shrimp. Each caught his fish on the last bait. Bobby Ament Jr. of Novato, also using ghost shrimp for bait, caught a 93-pound sturgeon by the Pump House.

INCIDENTALLY, I've had a number of calls asking about Kingfish. Kingfish are a very common fish caught by fishermen in shallow sandy areas. It is a schooling fish. It is erroneously called Kingfish or a Tom cod by most fishermen. It is really a White Creaker.

With everyone eating sturgeon and herring roe, it might be the time to talk about that popular ocean fish called the cabezon. It is one of the most sought-after of California's ocean fishes. It is a tenacious fighter, and fish fanciers favor it for its tasty flesh.

However, cabezon eggs are poisonous and can cause severe illness if eaten.

THE CABEZON may not be the ugliest fish in the ocean, but in any piscatorial beauty contest, it's a sure bet not to make the finals.

According to one text, its skin is smooth and scaleless, it has a prominent flap on the middle of its snout, a stout body, a broad head and a large mouth.

Its color can range from dark brown to red, tan, gray or green and the skin is usually a mottled combination of some or all of these colors. Females tend to be green, and the males reddish.

The flesh, when raw, can vary from off-white to turquoise green, but, fortunately for most of us, it changes to white when cooked.

CABEZON ARE found along the coast from British Columbia to Baja California, in waters as deep as 250 feet. Most fish caught come from rocky bottoms less than 50 feet deep.

Cabezon up to 25 pounds have been reported but the largest fish on actual record weighed just over 15 pounds and was 13 years old. A favorite bait used by anglers include the abalone gut.

The Marin Skin Divers Club is having its annual Trophy dinner Saturday night at Deer Park Villa and trophies will be awarded to Mike Ford for Diver of the Year; to Carl Koehler for Largest Fish with scuba with a 28½-pound Ling Cod; to Carl's wife, Jackie Koehler, for largest abalone with a 10 3/16 inch abalone, upholding the honor of the gals by just beating out her ol' man by a squeak. His largest abalone was 10⅛ inch. Rich Brunn wins a trophy for largest fish free diving, and a number of photographic awards were won by Earle Wight, Alan Gilbert, Bob Willson, Rich Brunn, Carl Koehler, and Nick Bowles, for their fantastic underwater photography.

Players Get A Warning From Parker

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wes Parker, former player representative for the Los Angeles Dodgers, says, "if the players are not careful, greed will be the death of professional baseball."

Parker, who retired from baseball last year, doesn't like the idea of another players' strike such as occurred last season.

"What we're getting into," he said, "is a game of brinkmanship. They're playing with fire."

Last year he was the only player representative who did not vote in favor of the strike. He abstained.

"My position is the same this year," he said. "Basically, I'm against anything that will harm baseball. In my opinion, what's happening this year between owners and players is harming baseball, as it did last year.

"There are definitely two sides in a situation like this. But if I had to pick a side at this point I would lean more toward the owners. My reason is I feel the players are pushing a good thing too far.

"If the players are not careful, greed will be the death of professional baseball."

Parker said both sides should give a little.

"Like on the reserve clause," he said, "On the one hand you can't have players bound to clubs like slaves and on the other, you can't have them bounding around wherever they want to go."

He suggested players join their clubs for spring training while issues continue to be discussed.

Thorpe Medals Proposed By Congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Thorpe, "the world's greatest athlete," would be commemorated in medals of the U.S. Mint, if a bill introduced by Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett becomes law.

Bartlett filed the bill Thursday and said Thorpe "is a legend not only in Oklahoma, his birthplace, or in America, his homeland, but throughout the world. His prowess in baseball, football, track and field go unsurpssed today."

The bill would authorize medals, whose sale would support awards by the Jim Thorpe Memorial Athletic Hall of Fame Commission, and would pay for a Jim Thorpe Museum.

Thorpe was the American Indian whose medals at the 1912 Olympics were taken away because he had once played semi-professional baseball.

DiMaggio A Guest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Di Maggio, who recently was chosen as baseball's greatest living player, will be the honored guest of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society here at its second annual Dinner of Champions on May 11.

55-YEAR-OLD PLAYER

Riggs' Challenge To Gal Netters

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Okay, so Bobby Riggs may have lost a step here and there on the court, and maybe his serve does have a bit of a kink in it, but all of a sudden he has emerged as the top tennis figure in the world.

Bobby Riggs, who is 55 and still plays a great game of tennis, stood up on his own two feet in San Diego and simply said what most other men are thinking.

He said Women's Lib is plumb full of crumbs. Especially when women want to talk about "equality" in tennis. Bobby Riggs didn't hold back at all. He gave it to the girls, but good.

Then he challenged all the top women players. Billie Jean King, Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, Margaret Smith Court, Chris Evert, Evonne Goolagong, Nancy Richey Gunter, all of them. He also put his money where his mouth is by coming up with a certified $5,000 check which he's willing to risk in a winnertake-all match against any one of them.

Bobby Riggs says "no woman ever lived who could compete with a man on an equal basis—even a 55-year-old man. there's a lot of talk about Women's Lib. They feel they're worth as much as the guys, but they can't play a lick if they can't beat a 55-year-old guy."

"Nobody has to worry about the money with him," says Wichary. "He's got it, and if he beats you and you beat him, he pays right away. I saw him lose $1,335 in one day not so long ago, and he paid up immediately. In cash. He's completely serious about this latest offer He's tired of hearing Billie Jn King and some of these others mouthing off all the time about Women's Lib."

Bobby Riggs, who was quite a tennis player in his day, always has loved a challenge.

And he'd bet at the drop of a tennis racquet. The crazier the bet, the more it appealed to him.

"I remember seeing him wearing an overcoat once and carrying a suitcase in one hand while he was on the tennis court," says an acquaintance of his here. "He bet $100 he'd still beat this other guy, and he did."

Hans Wichary is pretty close to Riggs now, and he thinks Riggs has a 50-50 chance of winning that $5,000 if he can ever get one of those top women players to put the money up or someone else to put the money up for her.

"Bobby is in excellent physical condition," says Wichary, "and has tremendous endurance. He thinks nothing of playing 10-12 sets a day. He'll start at 10 in the morning and still be going 10:30 at night under the lights. I guarantee you one thing, he's no pigeon."

That's undoubtedly true.

He's foot-faulting when he says "no woman ever lived who could compete with a man on an equal basis."

Did he ever see the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias?

Bobby Riggs may say he's only talking about tennis, but even there, I'm not that sure Althea Gibson couldn't beat some men in her prime, or that Billie Jean King can't now. Althea Gibson could hit that ball, Bobby, and such ladies as Britain's Virginia Wade, Australia's Margaret Smith Court and California's Billie Jean King can whack it pretty good, too.

Possibly the only sport where men and women start on completely equal terms is in gymnastics. Bobby Riggs isn't going to risk his five big ones on that, though.

Maybe none of the women will take him up on his tennis offer, but there's one more thing I can guarantee him. Positively.

He'll hear from them.

From 10 in the morning until 10:30 at night under the lights, he'll hear from them. It may be significant or not, but after Bobby Riggs said what he did in San Diego, he caught the next plane out for Pittsburgh.

NHL ROUNDUP

'French Connection' Line Is Split Up

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — For the first time this season the "French Connection" was disconnected but it didn't make much difference to the Buffalo Sabres.

The Sabres' high scoring "French Connection" line of Gil Perreault, Rick Martin and Rene Robert was split up a bit Thursday night but the Sabres still managed a 3-1 National Hockey League victory over the Vancouver Canucks.

The win gave the Sabres a four-point edge over the Detroit Red Wings in the fight for the fourth and final playoff spot in the NHL's East Division. Detroit skated to a 3-3 tie with the Montreal Canadiens. In the only other NHL contest, Pittsburgh edged the New York Islanders 2-1.

For the first time this season, other than during an illness to Martin about mid-season, Buffalo Coach Joe Crozier shook up the high scoring line, putting newcomer Norm Gratton on a wing with Perreault and Martin. Robert was moved to a wing on the line of Gerry Meehan and Craig Ramsay.

"Right now I don't know what's going on," Robert said of the switch. "I can't tell you why he (Crozier) did it but it takes a little time to get used to your center."

Gratton adjusted to the change as he scored what proved to be the game winner at 6:51 of the second period when he knocked in a rebound during a scramble in front of the Vancouver net.

Yvan Cournoyer's power play goal early in the final period enabled Montreal to gain its standoff against Detroit and partially offset Marcel Dionne's second career hat trick that accounted for all of the Red Wings' goals. The tie moved the Eastern Division-leading Canadiens eight points ahead of the second-place New York Rangers. Guy Lafleur and Jim Roberts also scored for Montreal.

Al McDonough's 28th goal of the season midway through the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and helped Pittsburgh edge the Islanders. The Islanders had jumped off to a 1-0 lead at 13:11 of the first period on a goal by Craig Cameron but Pittsburgh defenseman Dave Burrows tied the score only four minutes later.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Ocean Salmon Fishing Slow

The ocean salmon fishing hasn't shown a great deal of improvement since opening day last Saturday though some of the party boats have been ranging far and wide. The Blue Horizon out of Sausalito with 25 customers aboard went up past Double Point last Monday. They landed 15 salmon for the day.

Most of the skippers figure the fresh water in the bay and just outside the Gate has moved the bait fish out to the saltier waters further off shore. It may take some time for the high amounts of fresh water to disperse this year. It could mean a slow season for the first couple of months for those fishing in close.

THE RAINS and heavy runoff have had just the opposite effect on the sturgeon — and probably the striper fishery, though the stripers need a warm up of the waters to bite best. The runoff of all the rains in the Delta have put the sturgeon in San Pablo and San Francisco Bay. People call me daily to report catching their first sturgeon. Rich Carter of San Rafael got a 50-pounder off China Champ fishing with Sam Crawford, the jovial skipper from Loch Lomond. The fish had 10 pounds of roe ready for making caviar.

They also landed six flounders and they reported no bullhead bites. Dick Steinhart of San Rafael caught a 135-pounder at the bird cage out at the end of the San Rafael canal channel. The same place also paid off for Art Donati of the Loch Lomond Bait Shop. He caught a 63-pounder. In both cases, the two men took along just 10 ghost shrimp. Each caught his fish on the last bait. Bobby Ament Jr. of Novato, also using ghost shrimp for bait, caught a 93-pound sturgeon by the Pump House.

INCIDENTALLY, I've had a number of calls asking about Kingfish. Kingfish are a very common fish caught by fishermen in shallow sandy areas. It is a schooling fish. It is erroneously called Kingfish or a Tom cod by most fishermen. It is really a White Creaker.

With everyone eating sturgeon and herring roe, it might be the time to talk about that popular ocean fish called the cabezon. It is one of the most sought-after of California's ocean fishes. It is a tenacious fighter, and fish fanciers favor it for its tasty flesh.

However, cabezon eggs are poisonous and can cause severe illness if eaten.

THE CABEZON may not be the ugliest fish in the ocean, but in any piscatorial beauty contest, it's a sure bet not to make the finals.

According to one text, its skin is smooth and scaleless, it has a prominent flap on the middle of its snout, a stout body, a broad head and a large mouth.

Its color can range from dark brown to red, tan, gray or green and the skin is usually a mottled combination of some or all of these colors. Females tend to be green, and the males reddish.

The flesh, when raw, can vary from off-white to turquoise green, but, fortunately for most of us, it changes to white when cooked.

CABEZON ARE found along the coast from British Columbia to Baja California, in waters as deep as 250 feet. Most fish caught come from rocky bottoms less than 50 feet deep.

Cabezon up to 25 pounds have been reported but the largest fish on actual record weighed just over 15 pounds and was 13 years old. A favorite bait used by anglers include the abalone gut.

The Marin Skin Divers Club is having its annual Trophy dinner Saturday night at Deer Park Villa and trophies will be awarded to Mike Ford for Diver of the Year; to Carl Koehler for Largest Fish with scuba with a 28½-pound Ling Cod; to Carl's wife, Jackie Koehler, for largest abalone with a 10 3/16 inch abalone, upholding the honor of the gals by just beating out her ol' man by a squeak. His largest abalone was 10⅛ inch. Rich Brunn wins a trophy for largest fish free diving, and a number of photographic awards were won by Earle Wight, Alan Gilbert, Bob Willson, Rich Brunn, Carl Koehler, and Nick Bowles, for their fantastic underwater photography.

Players Get A Warning From Parker

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wes Parker, former player representative for the Los Angeles Dodgers, says, "if the players are not careful, greed will be the death of professional baseball."

Parker, who retired from baseball last year, doesn't like the idea of another players' strike such as occurred last season.

"What we're getting into," he said, "is a game of brinkmanship. They're playing with fire."

Last year he was the only player representative who did not vote in favor of the strike. He abstained.

"My position is the same this year," he said. "Basically, I'm against anything that will harm baseball. In my opinion, what's happening this year between owners and players is harming baseball, as it did last year.

"There are definitely two sides in a situation like this. But if I had to pick a side at this point I would lean more toward the owners. My reason is I feel the players are pushing a good thing too far.

"If the players are not careful, greed will be the death of professional baseball."

Parker said both sides should give a little.

"Like on the reserve clause," he said, "On the one hand you can't have players bound to clubs like slaves and on the other, you can't have them bounding around wherever they want to go."

He suggested players join their clubs for spring training while issues continue to be discussed.

Thorpe Medals Proposed By Congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Thorpe, "the world's greatest athlete," would be commemorated in medals of the U.S. Mint, if a bill introduced by Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett becomes law.

Bartlett filed the bill Thursday and said Thorpe "is a legend not only in Oklahoma, his birthplace, or in America, his homeland, but throughout the world. His prowess in baseball, football, track and field go unsurpssed today."

The bill would authorize medals, whose sale would support awards by the Jim Thorpe Memorial Athletic Hall of Fame Commission, and would pay for a Jim Thorpe Museum.

Thorpe was the American Indian whose medals at the 1912 Olympics were taken away because he had once played semi-professional baseball.

DiMaggio A Guest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Di Maggio, who recently was chosen as baseball's greatest living player, will be the honored guest of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society here at its second annual Dinner of Champions on May 11.

NHL ROUNDUP

'French Connection' Line Is Split Up

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — For the first time this season the "French Connection" was disconnected but it didn't make much difference to the Buffalo Sabres.

The Sabres' high scoring "French Connection" line of Gil Perreault, Rick Martin and Rene Robert was split up a bit Thursday night but the Sabres still managed a 3-1 National Hockey League victory over the Vancouver Canucks.

The win gave the Sabres a four-point edge over the Detroit Red Wings in the fight for the fourth and final playoff spot in the NHL's East Division. Detroit skated to a 3-3 tie with the Montreal Canadiens. In the only other NHL contest, Pittsburgh edged the New York Islanders 2-1.

For the first time this season, other than during an illness to Martin about mid-season, Buffalo Coach Joe Crozier shook up the high scoring line, putting newcomer Norm Gratton on a wing with Perreault and Martin. Robert was moved to a wing on the line of Gerry Meehan and Craig Ramsay.

"Right now I don't know what's going on," Robert said of the switch. "I can't tell you why he (Crozier) did it but it takes a little time to get used to your center."

Gratton adjusted to the change as he scored what proved to be the game winner at 6:51 of the second period when he knocked in a rebound during a scramble in front of the Vancouver net.

Yvan Cournoyer's power play goal early in the final period enabled Montreal to gain its standoff against Detroit and partially offset Marcel Dionne's second career hat trick that accounted for all of the Red Wings' goals. The tie moved the Eastern Division-leading Canadiens eight points ahead of the second-place New York Rangers. Guy Lafleur and Jim Roberts also scored for Montreal.

Al McDonough's 28th goal of the season midway through the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and helped Pittsburgh edge the Islanders. The Islanders had jumped off to a 1-0 lead at 13:11 of the first period on a goal by Craig Cameron but Pittsburgh defenseman Dave Burrows tied the score only four minutes later.

55-YEAR-OLD PLAYER

Riggs' Challenge To Gal Netters

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Okay, so Bobby Riggs may have lost a step here and there on the court, and maybe his serve does have a bit of a kink in it, but all of a sudden he has emerged as the top tennis figure in the world.

As far as every red-blooded man is concerned, anyway.

Bobby Riggs, who is 55 and still plays a great game of tennis, stood up on his own two feet in San Diego and simply said what most other men are thinking.

He said Women's Lib is plumb full of crumbs. Especially when women want to talk about "equality" in tennis. Bobby Riggs didn't hold back at all. He gave it to the girls, but good.

Then he challenged all the top women players. Billie Jean King, Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, Margaret Smith Court, Chris Evert, Evonne Goolagong, Nancy Richey Gunter, all of them. He also put his money where his mouth is by coming up with a certified $5,000 check which he's willing to risk in a winnertake-all match against any one of them.

Bobby Riggs says "no woman ever lived who could compete with a man on an equal basis—even a 55-year-old man. there's a lot of talk about Women's Lib. They feel they're worth as much as the guys, but they can't play a lick if they can't beat a 55-year-old guy."

"Nobody has to worry about the money with him," says Wichary. "He's got it, and if he beats you and you beat him, he pays right away. I saw him lose $1,335 in one day not so long ago, and he paid up immediately. In cash. He's completely serious about this latest offer He's tired of hearing Billie Jn King and some of these others mouthing off all the time about Women's Lib."

Bobby Riggs, who was quite a tennis player in his day, always has loved a challenge.

And he'd bet at the drop of a tennis racquet. The crazier the bet, the more it appealed to him.

"I remember seeing him wearing an overcoat once and carrying a suitcase in one hand while he was on the tennis court," says an acquaintance of his here. "He bet $100 he'd still beat this other guy, and he did."

Hans Wichary is pretty close to Riggs now, and he thinks Riggs has a 50-50 chance of winning that $5,000 if he can ever get one of those top women players to put the money up or someone else to put the money up for her.

"Bobby is in excellent physical condition," says Wichary, "and has tremendous endurance. He thinks nothing of playing 10-12 sets a day. He'll start at 10 in the morning and still be going 10:30 at night under the lights. I guarantee you one thing, he's no pigeon."

That's undoubtedly true.

But I can guarantee Bobby Riggs another thing.

He's foot-faulting when he says "no woman ever lived who could compete with a man on an equal basis."

Did he ever see the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias?

Bobby Riggs may say he's only talking about tennis, but even there, I'm not that sure Althea Gibson couldn't beat some men in her prime, or that Billie Jean King can't now. Althea Gibson could hit that ball, Bobby, and such ladies as Britain's Virginia Wade, Australia's Margaret Smith Court and California's Billie Jean King can whack it pretty good, too.

Possibly the only sport where men and women start on completely equal terms is in gymnastics. Bobby Riggs isn't going to risk his five big ones on that, though.

Maybe none of the women will take him up on his tennis offer, but there's one more thing I can guarantee him. Positively.

He'll hear from them.

From 10 in the morning until 10:30 at night under the lights, he'll hear from them. It may be significant or not, but after Bobby Riggs said what he did in San Diego, he caught the next plane out for Pittsburgh.

GOLF NOTES

Soggy Conditions Are Drying Out

Golf course conditions have generally improved this week and a good turnout is foreseen on the Marin County fairways this weekend, according to the local club and assistant pros.

With the reappearance of the hoped-for sunshine in recent days, conditions on local fairways have been improving steadily.

"The course has been drying up pretty well. There is no damage here," pointed out Paul Fakundiny, assistant pro at Marin Country Club in Novato.

Larry Babica, assistant pro at Meadow Club near Fairfax, echoed Fakundiny's sentiments and added: "if it remains dry around here, we can expect a busy weekend."

BUSINESS WAS booming over the three-day George Washington weekend that concluded Monday. Most of the pros and their assistants were links action over the l-o-n-g weekend. "We had about 600 people come out here over the weekend," Fakundiny said.

Chuck Meyer, assistant pro at Indian Valley Golf Club said "We had a good weekend for a change. This was our first good weekend since the rains started in the last week of October."

The only disappointed pro was Mill Valley Golf Course's Malcolm Brown who said: "We're still fouled up. There's still too much water. Give us another week of dry weather and it should be pretty good out here."

Babica estimated that "we had about 300." Peacock Gap's pro Rob McQuade commented: "We had three great days over the weekend. We had about 200 a day. And the course is drying up fine."

McQuade was enthusiastic because, he believes that he pulled a coup. "We've kept the carts off the fairways since Oct. 7. By keeping them off, it helped save our fairways. We believe we now have the best fairways in Marin County." Carts will be permitted there again starting tomorrow.

THE PEACOCK GAP pro also mentioned that Mikio Ishisaki of San Francisco recorded the first hole-in-one of the year Sunday on the San Rafael course. A sumitomo Bank vice president in San Francisco Ishisaki used a nine-iron on the 121-yard, par three 10th hole. Brothers Tabko and Tom Nakano witnessed Ishisaki's first ace.

Approval Needed For Cagers' Tour

KANSAS CITY, Mo.(UPI) — College students participating in a six-city tour in April with a Soviet basketball team will be ineligible for participation in any National Collegiate Athletic Association certified athletic events unless the tour wins NCAA certification, a spokesman for the athletic association said Friday.

The spokesman said the basketball tour, sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), has not sought NCAA certification.

"If they're going to use college athletes they'd better seek certification," the spokesman said.

"The AAU is not the franchise holder in the United States for athletes world-wide in basketball and they had no right to jump in and sponsor this.

"Currently, there is no such franchise holder because the AAU's franchise was taken away at a meeting in Munich," the spokesman said. He added that two conferences have been called in the United States among all national athletic organizations, and that the AAU has not attended either one.

The spokesman said only undergraduate American players would be ineligible for future participation in NCAA certified sports in any field.

Grid Cardinals Select Sullivan

ST. LOUIS, Mo (UPI) — The St. Louis Football Cardinals today named Joe Sullivan to the newly created position of director of operations, a post similar to that of a general manager.

Sullivan has been in the National Football League 17 years, the last two as assistant general manager and assistant coach with the Washington Redskins.

Bill Bidwill, Cardinal president, said Sullivan will be responsible for trades, the signing of players and supervison of the team's college and professional scouting.

WANTS NO SYMPATHY

Playing Shortstop Despite Leukemia

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Danny Thompson, 26-year-old shortstop for the Minnesota Twins, has a form of leukemia. But he'll continue to man his position when the 1973 baseball season gets under way.

"I don't want sympathy," said Thompson. "I don't want people feeling sorry for me if I go 0-for-4 or make an error. I don't want this thing to become an alibi."

He wasn't concerned, though. After all, he had been working 66 hours a week as a car salesman and speaking three or four nights a week to groups of baseball fans in Minnesota.

The following day, his 26th birthday, he was asked to return to the office of Dr. Leonard Michienzi, a Twins' physician. The doctor had explained over the telephone that his white-cell count was high and another blood test was needed.

When a second test produced the same result, Michienzi told Thompson a bone marrow test would be required. That's when Thompson became suspicious.

"I asked him what they thought was wrong," Thompson related. "Doc said, 'We suspect you have leukemia.'"

"They told me I had granulocytic leukemia and I couldn't bring myself to believe them," he said. "I felt great. They said I was in great condition. I kept thinking they had to be making a mistake in their diagnosis. I think I still feel that way."

Granulocytic leukemia was described to Thompson as a chronic blood disease, one that might not affect him for five or six years, if ever.

"When I first heard the word leukemia, I thought of Ernie Davis," he said, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Syracuse who died from leukemia in the early 1960s. "But his wasn't diagnosed until it was acute. I'm not even receiving treatment now.

"Doctors told me that 10 years ago, when you mentioned leukemia they started getting the grave ready. Now, they are so close to a vaccine, one that would be similar to the polio vaccine, that they may develop it any day. They said they should have one at least within two years. So, I'm sure they'll have one by the time this starts affecting me, if it ever does."

"I asked the doctors if it would affect my playing, if I was going to be me on the field or someone else," he said. "They said it wouldn't affect me at all, that I was as healthy as anyone in the league.

"I'm glad the baseball season is near, it will give me something to think about and take my mind off the illness. I try to put it out of my mind.

"If everyone else would forget it, it would be easier for me not to think about."

Champ Duran Stops Medina In Seventh

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Panama's Roberto Duran, the World Boxing Association lightweight champion, suffered a cut on the side of his right eye but managed to knock out Mexico's Juan Medina at 1:23 of the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night at Olympic Auditorium.

If the cut heals in time, Duran will fight Javier Ayala, of Guadalajara, Mexico, in another nontitle bout on March 17 at the Sports Arena.

On the same card, Rodolfo Gonzalez of Long Beach, Calif., will defend his World Boxing Council lightweight title against Ruben Navarro of Los Angeles.

Duran, whose record is now 33-1 with 29 knockouts, had some trouble solving Medina's southpaw style. After the champion got cut in the fourth round—either from a butt or a punch—he seemed to pick up steam and began connecting with combinations.

In the first 20 seconds of the seventh, Medina went down for an eight count. Then with Medina in a crouch, Duran belted him on the button with a left-right combo and that was it.

Raiders To Play Two In Berkeley

OAKLAND (UPI) — Now it turns out the Oakland Raiders will play two exhibition games at the University of California's Memorial Stadium at Berkeley.

They announced Friday that they'll play Minnesota Aug. 25. Since that conflicts with an Oakland A's home baseball date, they'll play at Berkeley.

GOLF NOTES

Soggy Conditions Are Drying Out

Golf course conditions have generally improved this week and a good turnout is foreseen on the Marin County fairways this weekend, according to the local club and assistant pros.

With the reappearance of the hoped-for sunshine in recent days, conditions on local fairways have been improving steadily.

"The course has been drying up pretty well. There is no damage here," pointed out Paul Fakundiny, assistant pro at Marin Country Club in Novato.

Larry Babica, assistant pro at Meadow Club near Fairfax, echoed Fakundiny's sentiments and added: "if it remains dry around here, we can expect a busy weekend."

BUSINESS WAS booming over the three-day George Washington weekend that concluded Monday. Most of the pros and their assistants were links action over the l-o-n-g weekend. "We had about 600 people come out here over the weekend," Fakundiny said.

Chuck Meyer, assistant pro at Indian Valley Golf Club said "We had a good weekend for a change. This was our first good weekend since the rains started in the last week of October."

The only disappointed pro was Mill Valley Golf Course's Malcolm Brown who said: "We're still fouled up. There's still too much water. Give us another week of dry weather and it should be pretty good out here."

Babica estimated that "we had about 300." Peacock Gap's pro Rob McQuade commented: "We had three great days over the weekend. We had about 200 a day. And the course is drying up fine."

McQuade was enthusiastic because, he believes that he pulled a coup. "We've kept the carts off the fairways since Oct. 7. By keeping them off, it helped save our fairways. We believe we now have the best fairways in Marin County." Carts will be permitted there again starting tomorrow.

THE PEACOCK GAP pro also mentioned that Mikio Ishisaki of San Francisco recorded the first hole-in-one of the year Sunday on the San Rafael course. A sumitomo Bank vice president in San Francisco Ishisaki used a nine-iron on the 121-yard, par three 10th hole. Brothers Tabko and Tom Nakano witnessed Ishisaki's first ace.

Approval Needed For Cagers' Tour

KANSAS CITY, Mo.(UPI) — College students participating in a six-city tour in April with a Soviet basketball team will be ineligible for participation in any National Collegiate Athletic Association certified athletic events unless the tour wins NCAA certification, a spokesman for the athletic association said Friday.

The spokesman said the basketball tour, sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), has not sought NCAA certification.

"If they're going to use college athletes they'd better seek certification," the spokesman said.

"The AAU is not the franchise holder in the United States for athletes world-wide in basketball and they had no right to jump in and sponsor this.

"Currently, there is no such franchise holder because the AAU's franchise was taken away at a meeting in Munich," the spokesman said. He added that two conferences have been called in the United States among all national athletic organizations, and that the AAU has not attended either one.

The spokesman said only undergraduate American players would be ineligible for future participation in NCAA certified sports in any field.

WANTS NO SYMPATHY

Playing Shortstop Despite Leukemia

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Danny Thompson, 26-year-old shortstop for the Minnesota Twins, has a form of leukemia. But he'll continue to man his position when the 1973 baseball season gets under way.

"I don't want sympathy," said Thompson. "I don't want people feeling sorry for me if I go 0-for-4 or make an error. I don't want this thing to become an alibi."

He wasn't concerned, though. After all, he had been working 66 hours a week as a car salesman and speaking three or four nights a week to groups of baseball fans in Minnesota.

The following day, his 26th birthday, he was asked to return to the office of Dr. Leonard Michienzi, a Twins' physician. The doctor had explained over the telephone that his white-cell count was high and another blood test was needed.

When a second test produced the same result, Michienzi told Thompson a bone marrow test would be required. That's when Thompson became suspicious.

"I asked him what they thought was wrong," Thompson related. "Doc said, 'We suspect you have leukemia.' "

"They told me I had granulocytic leukemia and I couldn't bring myself to believe them," he said. "I felt great. They said I was in great condition. I kept thinking they had to be making a mistake in their diagnosis. I think I still feel that way."

Granulocytic leukemia was described to Thompson as a chronic blood disease, one that might not affect him for five or six years, if ever.

"When I first heard the word leukemia, I thought of Ernie Davis," he said, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Syracuse who died from leukemia in the early 1960s. "But his wasn't diagnosed until it was acute. I'm not even receiving treatment now.

"Doctors told me that 10 years ago, when you mentioned leukemia they started getting the grave ready. Now, they are so close to a vaccine, one that would be similar to the polio vaccine, that they may develop it any day. They said they should have one at least within two years. So, I'm sure they'll have one by the time this starts affecting me, if it ever does."

"I asked the doctors if it would affect my playing, if I was going to be me on the field or someone else," he said. "They said it wouldn't affect me at all, that I was as healthy as anyone in the league.

"I'm glad the baseball season is near, it will give me something to think about and take my mind off the illness. I try to put it out of my mind.

"If everyone else would forget it, it would be easier for me not to think about."

Raiders To Play Two In Berkeley

OAKLAND (UPI) — Now it turns out the Oakland Raiders will play two exhibition games at the University of California's Memorial Stadium at Berkeley.

They announced Friday that they'll play Minnesota Aug. 25. Since that conflicts with an Oakland A's home baseball date, they'll play at Berkeley.

Champ Duran Stops Medina In Seventh

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Panama's Roberto Duran, the World Boxing Association lightweight champion, suffered a cut on the side of his right eye but managed to knock out Mexico's Juan Medina at 1:23 of the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night at Olympic Auditorium.

If the cut heals in time, Duran will fight Javier Ayala, of Guadalajara, Mexico, in another nontitle bout on March 17 at the Sports Arena.

On the same card, Rodolfo Gonzalez of Long Beach, Calif., will defend his World Boxing Council lightweight title against Ruben Navarro of Los Angeles.

Duran, whose record is now 33-1 with 29 knockouts, had some trouble solving Medina's southpaw style. After the champion got cut in the fourth round—either from a butt or a punch—he seemed to pick up steam and began connecting with combinations.

In the first 20 seconds of the seventh, Medina went down for an eight count. Then with Medina in a crouch, Duran belted him on the button with a left-right combo and that was it.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Deduction For Moving Expenses Available To More People Now

Moving expense deduction is now available to more taxpayers than ever before.

Employers must furnish their employees with an itemized Form 4782 for each move made during the year. This form shows the amounts paid to the employee, the amount paid to a third party for benefit of the employee and the value of services furnished in-kind.

This could result in additional taxable income to you rather than a deduction or both a deduction and additional taxable income.

For you to claim a moving expense deduction on your 1972 income tax return, you must have the Form 4782 from your employer and you complete a Form 3903 in order to determine the actual amount of your deduction.

If you are self-employed and moved for business reasons, you do not have to have a Form 4782 and you may be able to deduct many of the costs of moving. The new job location must be at least 50 miles further from your old home than the old job was. This is via the most commonly used route.

You must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the 12-month period immediately after the move. You do not have to work for one employer for the 39 weeks, nor must the weeks be consecutive.

If you are self-employed, you must also during the 24-month period immediately following the arrival at your new job, perform services on a full-time basis for at least 78 weeks, of which not less than 39 weeks must fall within the 12-month period immediately following your arrival at your new place of work.

If you move and pay the expenses in the last part of the year and it looks as though you will qualify, you can go ahead and claim the deduction. However, if you don't complete the full 39 weeks or 78 weeks, then you must include whatever you deducted last year in your next year's income. In cases of death, disability, discharge or transfer, the 39 or 78-week test does not apply.

Deductible moving expenses include:

A. Expenses of moving household goods and personal effects from your old residence to your new residence;

B. Expenses of traveling (including meals and lodging) from your old residence to your new residence;

C. Expenses of traveling (including meals and lodging) after getting the new job, from the old residence to the general location of the new job and return for the principal purpose of looking for a new residence;

D. Temporary living expenses (up to thirty days) at the new job location; and

Also, there is a limit to the deduction. Expenses for house hunting and temporary living expenses cannot be more than $1,000. The combined expenses for house hunting, temporary living expenses and qualified residence sale cannot be more than $2,500.

Moving expenses are deductible from gross income in computing adjusted gross income, so you can deduct your moving expenses regardless of whether you elect to itemize or not.

Secure Form 3903 from the IRS and complete it fully. Attach this form to your tax return to explain the deduction you make on line 17 of Form 1040.

Market Feels New Crisis Over Dollar

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average declined 5.42 to 966.36. Declines led advances, 699 to 443, among the 1,519 issues on the tape.

The two-hour volume came to about 6,300,000 shares, compared to 7,070,000 shares traded Thursday for the comparable period.

On overseas markets, the dollar dropped in value, prompting one London dealer to say, "We could be in for another crisis." The stock market has been sensitive to developments on the world monetary problems.

A recent government report showed retail food prices rose at the fastest rate in 20 years. Ezra Solomon, an economic adviser to President Nixon, said the administration has done everything possible to combat rising food prices, but the effect won't be felt until later in the year.

Ramada Inns was the most active issue, off ⅜ at 17 ⅞ on 267,200 shares, including a block trade of 263,400 shares at 17 ¾.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading. Champion Home Builders was the most active issue, off ⅜ at 10 on 38,700 shares.

On the Big Board, Mattel Corp. was off ¼ and actively traded. The company said it expected an operating loss in its year ending in February instead of a profit.

Computer and electronics issues declined. IBM lost 1 ½, Burroughs 1 ⅜, and General Electric ⅞.

Glamor issues slid lower with Corning Glass off 1 ¾, Avon Products 1 ¼ and Polaroid 1. Oils declined. Superior Oil dipped 4¾ and California Standard ¾.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Deduction For Moving Expenses Available To More People Now

Moving expense deduction is now available to more taxpayers than ever before.

Employers must furnish their employees with an itemized Form 4782 for each move made during the year. This form shows the amounts paid to the employee, the amount paid to a third party for benefit of the employee and the value of services furnished in-kind.

This could result in additional taxable income to you rather than a deduction or both a deduction and additional taxable income.

For you to claim a moving expense deduction on your 1972 income tax return, you must have the Form 4782 from your employer and you complete a Form 3903 in order to determine the actual amount of your deduction.

If you are self-employed and moved for business reasons, you do not have to have a Form 4782 and you may be able to deduct many of the costs of moving. The new job location must be at least 50 miles further from your old home than the old job was. This is via the most commonly used route.

You must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the 12-month period immediately after the move. You do not have to work for one employer for the 39 weeks, nor must the weeks be consecutive.

If you are self-employed, you must also during the 24-month period immediately following the arrival at your new job, perform services on a full-time basis for at least 78 weeks, of which not less than 39 weeks must fall within the 12-month period immediately following your arrival at your new place of work.

If you move and pay the expenses in the last part of the year and it looks as though you will qualify, you can go ahead and claim the deduction. However, if you don't complete the full 39 weeks or 78 weeks, then you must include whatever you deducted last year in your next year's income. In cases of death, disability, discharge or transfer, the 39 or 78-week test does not apply.

Deductible moving expenses include:

A. Expenses of moving household goods and personal effects from your old residence to your new residence;

B. Expenses of traveling (including meals and lodging) from your old residence to your new residence;

C. Expenses of traveling (including meals and lodging) after getting the new job, from the old residence to the general location of the new job and return for the principal purpose of looking for a new residence;

D. Temporary living expenses (up to thirty days) at the new job location; and

Also, there is a limit to the deduction. Expenses for house hunting and temporary living expenses cannot be more than $1,000. The combined expenses for house hunting, temporary living expenses and qualified residence sale cannot be more than $2,500.

Moving expenses are deductible from gross income in computing adjusted gross income, so you can deduct your moving expenses regardless of whether you elect to itemize or not.

Secure Form 3903 from the IRS and complete it fully. Attach this form to your tax return to explain the deduction you make on line 17 of Form 1040.

Market Feels New Crisis Over Dollar

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average declined 5.42 to 966.36. Declines led advances, 699 to 443, among the 1,519 issues on the tape.

The two-hour volume came to about 6,300,000 shares, compared to 7,070,000 shares traded Thursday for the comparable period.

On overseas markets, the dollar dropped in value, prompting one London dealer to say, "We could be in for another crisis." The stock market has been sensitive to developments on the world monetary problems.

A recent government report showed retail food prices rose at the fastest rate in 20 years. Ezra Solomon, an economic adviser to President Nixon, said the administration has done everything possible to combat rising food prices, but the effect won't be felt until later in the year.

Ramada Inns was the most active issue, off ⅜ at 17 ⅞ on 267,200 shares, including a block trade of 263,400 shares at 17 ¾.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading. Champion Home Builders was the most active issue, off ⅜ at 10 on 38,700 shares.

On the Big Board, Mattel Corp. was off ¼ and actively traded. The company said it expected an operating loss in its year ending in February instead of a profit.

Computer and electronics issues declined. IBM lost 1 ½, Burroughs 1 ⅜, and General Electric ⅞.

Glamor issues slid lower with Corning Glass off 1 ¾, Avon Products 1 ¼ and Polaroid 1. Oils declined. Superior Oil dipped 4¾ and California Standard ¾.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Growth Funds Are For a Long Term

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you please explain what are growth funds and growth stocks? We are thinking of investing. — A.M.

A. Growth stocks are those securities which have a record of annually increasing sales and earnings. The usual outcome of such consistent improvement in operating results is higher dividends and an overall uptrending pattern in share price. For the younger person or individual anticipating retirement in 10 to 15 years,the growth stocks make sense. Because the span of years is extended, interim price fluctuations tend to be obscured by the longer-term rising trend.

Growth funds are mutual funds which have price appreciation or growth as their investment goal. In order to achieve this goal, mutual funds invest in stocks which appear capable of appreciating in price. Many individuals choose to invest in mutual funds rather than directly in stocks because they prefer that a professional make their investment decisions. In a mutual fund the holder owns, indirectly, a small percentage in a broad portfolio of securities. This diversification helps to spread risk. In the 1969-'70 bear market, however, this did not always prove to be the case, thus many mutual fund shareholders were disillusioned and redeemed their holdings.

As a guide to you in your decision, I am forwarding two lists, one of recommended growth stocks and the other of suggested growth funds. These lists are available to all readers free of charge upon receipt of a large stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please direct your request to Roger E. Spear c/o this newspaper.

Q. I own 1,000 shares of Palomar Financial Corp. (ASE) for which I paid $12 per share. Earnings keep rising but the share price goes the other way. Should I hold or sell? — J.H.

A. The decline in share price reflects investor apprehension over rising interest rates, a dispute between Palomar and the IRS, a $5 million suit against the company and the narrow margin between current assets and liabilities. Because recovery may be slow, I would sell shares.

Big Five Sporting Goods Store To Open A Branch In Corte Madera

Big Five Sporting Goods store will open a branch in Corte Madera this summer at 110 Nellen Avenue where Dorothy Kell Furniture is now located.

Big Five, headquartered in Los Angeles, already has a branch store in Terra Linda at 470 Las Gallinas Avenue.

Dorothy Kell will vacate the building on March 15 and move to its new location in Santa Rosa.

Western Real Estate Development Co. of San Francisco, owner of the Dorothy Kell building, will remodel the structure for occupancy by the sporting goods store in late April.

Merritt Sher, president of Western Real Estate Development, said a new parking area for about 50 cars will be paved in the space between the Dorothy Kell building and the new Sizzler Family Steak restaurant which is under construction. Sizzler Family Steak is expected to open about the first of April.

MARY STRICKLER'S QUILTS, dealing in quilts and antique furniture, will open on March 1 in San Rafael at 936 B Street where the Great San Rafael Coffee and Tea Shop was formerly located. (The Great Store moved to Fourth Street near Rafael Theater).

Owners of Mary Strickler's Quilts are Linda A. Reuther and Julie Silber of Inverness, former nursery school teachers who have been collecting quilts and antiques since they quit teaching two years ago.

"We'll have fine old handmade quilts, old patchwork pillows, and turn-of-the century oak and wicker," said Miss Reuther. Furniture includes tables, chairs, beds, old desks and cabinets. The shop will also carry books on the art of quiltmaking.

Miss Reuther is the daughter of former United Auto Workers' president Walter Reuther.

PETER G. KEZIOS, retail sales representative in the advertising department of the Independent-Journal, has won a gold certificate showing superior performance rating from the California Newspaper Publishers Association and California Polytechnic State University in San Luis Obispo.

Kezios signed up for an advertising course in retailing sponsored by CNPA and the university, then took an examination last month to win the rating.

Solomon

MICHAEL J. SOLOMON of San Anselmo has been named banking services officer in Wells Fargo Bank's Union Trust Office in San Francisco.

Solomon joined Wells Fargo in March of last year after graduating from California State University, San Francisco.

BUTLER'S PANTRY restaurant at 1 Juanita Lane, Tiburon, was sold last week to Petar and Solvieg Porobic of Tiburon.

Francis H. Ingall of Tiburon, former owner of Butler's Pantry, will continue his acting career and also help tend bar at Tiburon Tommie's. Ingall is an actor who appears in television commercials.

Under new owners, Butler's Pantry will add Scandinavian foods and sandwiches to the menu, and continue omelets as its specialty. It also serves beer and wine.

Mrs. Porobic, who will manage the restaurant, has five years of experience. Her family operated the North Cove Scandinavian delicatessen-restaurant in San Francisco for about five years until it was sold a year and a half ago.

SO BIG Sandwich Shop, serving light breakfast and lunches, opened last week at 62 Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio.

Partners in the business are Vinette Conway and Olga Young, both of Novato, who operate the shop six days a week from about 7:30 a.m. to about 3 or 4 p.m. The sandwich shop has seating for up to 50 customers.

TROPICAL AQUARIA, a shop specializing in brilliantly colored and exotic fish, will open in San Rafael around the middle of March.

The tropical fish store will open at 1205 Third Street near California Furniture in space formerly occupied by French's Hitching Post. (French's Hitching Post is now at Second and D streets.)

Owner-operators will be Robert Charles Garlock and Edward Swenton, both of San Francisco. Garlock, a printer, has been breeding fish as a hobby for two years, and Swenton for about 12 years.

They plan to have 80 to 100 tanks of tropical and salt water fish, plus supplies and equipment for aquariums. "We're going to specialize in exotic fish and will install and decorate fish tanks for customers who want them," said Garlock.

They Laughed When Reagan Sat Down. . .

They laughed when he sat down at the piano. . .

The people in New York, and Illinois, and all those other states thought it was delightfully funny when the voters of California elected a movie actor as governor.

Of course, they wouldn't do anything so foolish. In New York, they stuck to Nelson Rockefeller, a rich man who had made politics his life — a real professional, no mere playactor. In Illinois, they liked a governor named Otto Kerner, a former judge and district attorney who rose from captain to major general in World War II.

"Those Californians!" said the people of New York and Illinois and those other states, with knowing winks.

WELL, RONALD REAGAN had a lot to learn when he parked himself in the governor's chair. And he didn't like the script they handed him. But, like a real trouper, he kept up the act.

That was six years ago. Ronald Reagan has learned. And now he's rewritten the script.

This month, he began briefing legislators and newspaper people about his plan to put a lid on California governmental spending — permanently.

It isn't a plan he dreamed up between acts. It was prepared by a committee of top economists, working with a task force headed by Lewis K. Uhler and Charles Hobbs, the governor's assistants.

And there never has been anything like it proposed before.

BASICALLY, Governor Reagan proposes to tie state government spending to the total income of California's people, on a percentage basis.

His proposed budget for next fiscal year would take about 8.75 per cent of all the money Californians earn. He proposes that be reduced year by year until it reaches 7.15 per cent. Then that would remain the limit, permanently.

A two-thirds vote by the Legislature would be required to increase any state tax rate — whether sales tax, income tax, gasoline tax, or whatever. No more of this switching the tax from one pocket to another and then boasting about "reform."

Local property taxes would be held at the limits set by last year's Senate Bill 90.

The result would be that Californians would know what to expect in the way of taxation. And they'd know it couldn't get out of hand.

REAGAN'S PLAN would require a state constitutional amendment. It is not given much chance in the Legislature. The lawmakers like to be free to spend money — our money, that is. The limits Reagan proposes would be "like trying to take the credit card away from your wife," as state Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, commented.

But Reagan says that if the Legislature won't go along, he'll sponsor an initiative campaign to get the amendment on the ballot. And that should have less trouble. The people are tired of having their money spent carelessly in Sacramento. Reagan's plan is complicated. It may be flawed. But it makes sense.

MEANTIME, the best Nelson Rockefeller has been able to think up for New York taxpayers is to lobby Washington for handouts. As for Otto Kerner — well, he wound up in jail.

They laughed when he sat down at the piano,

But when he began to play. . .

Dozen Legislators Flout People's Decision On Pot

By RUS WALTON

I thought this was a government of and by and for the people. That, in the final analysis, the will of the people prevails.

I'm beginning to wonder.

Take this marijuana pot, for example.

In the general elections of 1972, the people went to the ballot box and voted "no" on Proposition 19. That was the measure that would have removed state penalties for personal use, cultivation, transportation or possession of marijuana.

By a vote of two-to-one, they turned it down, and stomped on it.

You think that was a message, loud and clear? That the issue had been decided — at least for a while?

Well, think again.

JUST THE OTHER DAY 12 legislators introduced a bill to do exactly what the people said they didn't want done when they defeated Proposition 19.

The language of the bill (AB 364) is exactly the same as the pot initiative the people killed. If it were to pass, it would no longer be a crime to plant, cultivate, harvest, dry process, transport, possess or use marijuana.

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, is the principal author. He has been joined by 11 other legislators — six state senators and five assemblymen, all democrats. Here are those who would go to pot: Senators George Moscone (San Francisco), Arlen Gregorio (San Mateo), Nicholas Petris (Alameda), Mervin Dymally (Los Angeles), and Anthony Beilenson (Beverly Hills); Assemblymen Willie Brown (San Francisco), John Miller (Berkeley), Alan Sieroty (Beverly Hills), Walter Karabian (Monterey Park), Richard Alatorre, and Bill Greene (both Los Angeles).

SENATOR MOSCONE wants to be the next governor. Forget it, George!

Assemblyman Walter Karabian wants to be the next state attorney general. Can you imagine that? A pot-smoking A.G.?

Of course, the legislators from San Francisco probably don't worry too much. That county went to pot last November. But, in the rest of the counties, the people of California were definite in their decision.

I think they should be just as definite now with those legislators who disregard their wishes.

IT'S NOT JUST the way these legislators belittle the initiative process. It's the fact that Californians were smart to vote "No" on 19. That band of legislators has no business trying to undo their wisdom.

The more medical science learns about marijuana, the more the record is clear that marijuana is not the harmless drug some claim it to be. Marijuana is dangerous and it is addictive.

If you doubt me, get the October issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. Read "Toxic Effects of Chronic Marijuana Use" by H. Kolansky and W. Moore. The latest scientific evidence is there.

There was an article in the Los Angeles Times recently by a professor at Santa Barbara City College, Henry Bagish. You should read it. Mr. Bagish's 19-year-old son, Frank, committed suicide — an intentional overdose of drugs.

The professor used to believe all that stuff about the harmlessness of pot. He thought all the anti-talk was scare propaganda. Now he knows differently.

But those 12 fuzzy-brained legislators couldn't care less. They want to legalize the stuff.

"Same as yesterday, Al: just oil and plastic pollution."

"Which religion doesn't believe in murder?"

An open letter to American and National League baseball players: Your representative is leading you down a basepath to nowhere and it may be a great big "out."

Just remember the lion's share of the viewing sport's dollar is with football. Many of us like baseball. But there are a heck of a lot who couldn't care less if the "national pastime" folded. You're "Killing the goose that laid the golden egg" and some of you boys who pull down from $50,000 to $100,000 for seven months "work" just might wind up with no runs, no hits and one mammoth error.

Hilarita Opposition Exercise In Futility

The fact that the density is twice that permitted by the Tiburon Master Plan, and that the maximum occupancy (510) would adversely affect our community by increased taxes, school and sewer loading, traffic congestion, additional police and fire protection, etc. had no effect on the pre-determined votes of three of our councilmen.

The environmental impact report is not necessary, although the entire county has recently voted approval on open space and proper planning.

The fact that the proposed project will not (as previously represented) afford housing for Tiburon senior citizens, nor our civil or local employees (based on income requirements) leads one to believe that Hilarita will be a housing project for low-income and welfare recipients now residing in outlying areas.

Mr. Weed and the Tiburon Ecumenical Association (a private organization) has intentionally misrepresented the facts to the people of Tiburon, and the city council has been derelict in their duties in approving the project without a public referendum.

Many citizens are concerned, and Mr. Wenig has a law suit in progress to stop the present plan for the construction of 112 housing units on the Hilarita site, and to reduce the number to the maximum permissible by the Tiburon Master Plan. He deserves the support of every resident in Tiburon and Belvedere.

Economic Balance Also Precarious

The ecology movement has brought about many good things. It has awakened public sentiment against abuses that have, until now, been pointed out only by a few conservationists. It has pressed for new legislation, long overdue, to correct these abuses, and to prevent new ones. And more importantly, it has brought a new consciousness to all levels of decision making, both public and private regarding the changing of our natural assets by the works of man.

However, the movement seems to have taken such a grip on the minds of certain individuals with crusading personalities that it sometimes becomes impossible to hold a rational discussion regarding the facts of economic reality without having to listen to the magic cliches and rituals that some of these individuals propound.

The use of zoning to confiscate private land, the threat and implementation of moratoriums and the "zone with water" philosophy has me concerned that city administrators and legislative bodies are instituting unattainable platitudinous goals, and contradictory regulations under the constant pressure of articulate and determined groups, of course without realizing that being articulate about a subject can be quite different than knowing about it.

Many ecologists and anti-growth types keep telling us how precarious the balance of nature is without knowing the balance of an economic system is just as precarious, and that if we stop the formation of new capital structures all other resources, both natural and manmade, will deteriorate. We would not be able to finance the needed conservation measures, nor finance the new technologies needed to replace resources already in short supply, nor finance the development of more sophisticated sources of energy. . .

'Dog And Pony Show' Corte Madera Hearing

Corte Madera's "public hearing" on the redevelopment project environmental impact report on Feb. 13 drew a rewarding turnout but, obviously, many citizens were not in attendance. For these, I might outline what they missed in what should have been billed as "An Evening with Hahn and Cooke."

For the better part of 2½ hours we listened to both lofty and lowly words, ranging from dissertations on high style, high fashion DSTM and the economic rationalization of a shopping center to discussion of the makeup of the subsurface soils in project areas A and B. These were provided in the dogmatic dialogue of Tom Cooke, by the soft lilting tones of Ernest Hahn and the varying monotones of Mr. Hahn's own "H-Troop." They were folowed by the "old question on the card trick," which effectively keeps the local citizenry from speaking and allows the main cast of characters to continue expounding their dogmatic "theology" in an unrestricted dog and pony show.

The finale oc the evening was most touching, when Bob Dunne descended from Villa Madera on high and offered a compromise to the dissenting citizenry (whose only "statements" of the evening came from some embarrassing applause at the wrong points and an equally embarrassing anti-center show of hands). He made an impassioned plea for unity in support of the regional center (the only expected topic of the evening) and for exclusion of the motel complex and the 580 condominium units (new wrinkles added in the impact report).

The planning commission will preside over the completion of "this section of track" at San Clemente School on the 27th and the city council will, on March 19, direct the final completion of the biggest railroading job in the history of Marin County.

Be sure to attend and witness one of those treasurable moments in history, the beginning of the destruction of what used to be a delightful, residential community.

Conspicuous Consumption Amid Alarms Of Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON — The following is submitted as a fairly typical string of events in the great American energy crisis of 1973. It took place in and around Washington but, with other names and places filling in the blanks, it is happening all over the country.

On Thursday, the Maryland Public Service Commission recessed hearings at which the Potomac Electric Power Co. is asking permission to build a $423 million expansion to its steam plant at Dickerson, on the Potomac River about 25 miles above the capital. The expansion is opposed by the Maryland People's Counsel and by environmentalists who maintain it would further pollute the air and the river, and destroy plans for parks in the surrounding area. The company insists the expansion is necessary to avoid future power failures as electricity consumption continues to multiply in the region.

On Friday, the new secretary of commerce, Frederick B. Dent, sent a letter to some 45,000 company presidents around the nation, warning that the fuel situation in some sections has neared "crisis proportions." He listed 19 ways in which the companies could conserve energy, including turning off lights where they are not in use, lowering thermostat settings and cutting off heat in unoccupied space.

FRIDAY AT 9 P.M., well into the long George Washington's birthday weekend, every single visible light without exception was burning brightly in one of Washington's biggest office buildings, on Pennsylvania Avenue three blocks west of the White House. By very rough estimate, I would say 250 windows were lit thus, and not one person was to be seen inside.

It is one of the recently built glass-box style structures, where it usually is impossible to open the windows and business goes on with the air conditioning turned up full blast in the summer, and the heat up to maximum setting in the winter. I had forgotten just whose building it was, so I slowed down to check, and it was. . .

It may not seem sporting to pick on poor Pepco, for its main offices use only a small fraction of the juice produced by its plant. But I think not. Burning all those lights during nonworking hours is important symbolically, as an example for other consumers here in its area, and as an example of how the utility, automobile, oil and gas industries countrywide are busily, even intentionally, creating the very crisis they are bewailing.

IT IS COMMON, of course, for electric power companies to emblazon on the skies and avenues with the most conspicuous consumption of their basic product, as a form of advertising. It also is common for them to be appearing before state regulatory agencies pleading for rate increases and exemptions from ever-tighter environmental controls on their plants and transmission lines.

But surely it is in bad taste, at least, to flaunt the wastage of electricity so flagrantly while predicting future shortages at the height of a current energy crisis. It looks particularly gauche when the Pepco vice president estimates, under questioning, that 85 per cent of the current used during the summer peaks he worries about is in buildings that have installed air conditioning during the last 30 years. Installed it, I might add, during a high-pressure sales campaign by the utilities companies to sell not only air conditioning but every other kind of electrical gadget.

Yet when the People's Counsel challenged the company vice president for basing his dire projections on those abnormal years of air-conditioning growth, the executive could only growl and back away. Of course he could not guarantee that his estimates were "absolutely accurate," he admitted.

The moral here is not that the energy crisis is a wholly trumped-up situation intended to justify price boosts, destructive expansion, strip-mining, petroleum pollution and use of dirtier grades of coal and oil. In some areas, the reality of the shortage penetrates deeper as the winter blows colder.

It is, however, to encourage consumers of energy to remember who created the shortage in the first place, and for them to follow the example of the Maryland People's Counsel in putting hard, stubborn questions to the companies before they allow them to manipulate today's situation to multiply tomorrow's profits.

Scientists' Report On SST Hazards Distorted In Media

WASHINGTON — No wonder there are able and honorable public officials who at times are moved to agony by some news stories.

The Department of Transportation is authorized by Congress to determine whether flight exhaust in the stratosphere — whether supersonic or subsonic — is likely to create conditions harmful to man and nature by weakening the protecting ozone layer.

Even if the United States never builds an SST, this research is needed for two reasons: Other nations are building them and we will have to decide how to live with the environmental effects. Second, and more immediately important, subsonic jets are now flying in the stratosphere and could prove to be a greater environmental hazard — if they be a hazard at all — than the SST.

AS PART OF THIS research, the National Academy of Sciences, at the request of the Department of Transportation, has had a panel of scientists working for 18 months studying possible chemical disturbances in the stratosphere which could adversely affect life on earth. The first report of its findings were issued last week.

And, then, wham! The accounts in those newspapers which are read by most government officials, congressmen, administrators, bureaucrats and citizens in Washington gave foremost and exclusive emphasis to the most speculative and hypothetical forecasts of dangers contained in the report.

That is understandable on the traditional premise that the worst — or a forecast of the worst — gets the fullest play.

What really creates frustration on the part of public officials who have a responsibility for giving the public the facts is not primarily what was published — whatever the emphasis —but what was withheld.

Much that is crucial to providing the basis of information for most people was omitted.

THE POTENTIAL, conceivable or theoretical effects that might come from weakening the ozone shield and thus causing too much ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth dominated the news of the panel's findings. Only a miniscule few who would have read the text of this 44-page, 16,000-word document prepared by the scientists would know otherwise.

The public generally was not told that the warnings of possible harm are based on supposition, not on an established fact.

They would not know that the panel of scientsits stated that the amount of solar ultraviolet radiation might be "significantly harmful only 'if' jet-engine exhausts from high-altitude flights should lessen the amount of ozone in the stratosphere."

They would not know that the panel reported that whether SSTs would significantly alter the ozone in the stratosphere "is still a subject of scientific debate."

They would not know that the scientists recommended new and expanded research into eight different areas of the impact of flight on the ozone shield before solid conclusions can be reached.

IT SEEMS TO ME that quite a few important facts have been omitted in major coverage of the panel's report.

It is well to have these possible environmental dangers prominently set out. There is, as the panel says, sufficient knowledge to warrant concern. It is also understandable that there should be concern when the public gets only a one-sided presentation of the facts.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 23, 1963

An 8-year-old girl, Judy Aylwin of Greenbrae, was among those completing the latest of the 50-mile hikes which had become a craze in Marin.

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 23, 1953

Wind gusts of 78 miles per hour were measured at the Point Reyes lighthouse as full storm warnings were flown all along the coast from Point Blanco, Ore., to Point Concepcion in Santa Barbara County.

Total property tax levies in Marin County for fiscal 1952-53 were 12 per cent above the preceding year, the California Taxpayers Association reported.

COUNTRY PARSON

"A model husband is one whose wife wishes he'd hurry and retire so she can have him around the house all day."

THE NEEDLE

Australia's Prime Minister Whitlam wants a new national anthem to replace "God Save the Queen." He probably has in mind something like "Heaven Help the Prime Minister."

Just in case Canada's Robert Goulet ever has to sing the new Aussie number, we hope the words will be easier to remember than those in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

I'm beginning to wonder.

Take this marijuana pot, for example.

In the general elections of 1972, the people went to the ballot box and voted "no" on Proposition 19. That was the measure that would have removed state penalties for personal use, cultivation, transportation or possession of marijuana.

By a vote of two-to-one, they turned it down, and stomped on it.

You think that was a message, loud and clear? That the issue had been decided — at least for a while?

Well, think again.

JUST THE OTHER DAY 12 legislators introduced a bill to do exactly what the people said they didn't want done when they defeated Proposition 19.

The language of the bill (AB 364) is exactly the same as the pot initiative the people killed. If it were to pass, it would no longer be a crime to plant, cultivate, harvest, dry process, transport, possess or use marijuana.

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, is the principal author. He has been joined by 11 other legislators — six state senators and five assemblymen, all democrats. Here are those who would go to pot: Senators George Moscone (San Francisco), Arlen Gregorio (San Mateo), Nicholas Petris (Alameda), Mervin Dymally (Los Angeles), and Anthony Beilenson (Beverly Hills); Assemblymen Willie Brown (San Francisco), John Miller (Berkeley), Alan Sieroty (Beverly Hills), Walter Karabian (Monterey Park), Richard Alatorre, and Bill Greene (both Los Angeles).

SENATOR MOSCONE wants to be the next governor. Forget it, George!

Assemblyman Walter Karabian wants to be the next state attorney general. Can you imagine that? A pot-smoking A.G.?

Of course, the legislators from San Francisco probably don't worry too much. That county went to pot last November. But, in the rest of the counties, the people of California were definite in their decision.

I think they should be just as definite now with those legislators who disregard their wishes.

IT'S NOT JUST the way these legislators belittle the initiative process. It's the fact that Californians were smart to vote "No" on 19. That band of legislators has no business trying to undo their wisdom.

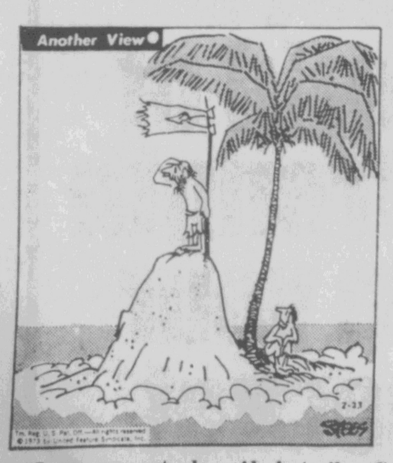
The more medical science learns about marijuana, the more the record is clear that marijuana is not the harmless drug some claim it to be. Marijuana is dangerous and it is addictive.

If you doubt me, get the October issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. Read "Toxic Effects of Chronic Marijuana Use" by H. Kolansky and W. Moore. The latest scientific evidence is there.

There was an article in the Los Angeles Times recently by a professor at Santa Barbara City College, Henry Bagish. You should read it. Mr. Bagish's 19-year-old son, Frank, committed suicide — an intentional overdose of drugs.

The professor used to believe all that stuff about the harmlessness of pot. He thought all the anti-talk was scare propaganda. Now he knows differently.

But those 12 fuzzy-brained legislators couldn't care less. They want to legalize the stuff.



"Same as yesterday, Al: just oil and plastic pollution."

Last Big Out Looms For National Pastime

An open letter to American and National League baseball players: Your representative is leading you down a basepath to nowhere and it may be a great big "out."

Just remember the lion's share of the viewing sport's dollar is with football. Many of us like baseball. But there are a heck of a lot who couldn't care less if the "national pastime" folded. You're "Killing the goose that laid the golden egg" and some of you boys who pull down from $50,000 to $100,000 for seven months "work" just might wind up with no runs, no hits and one mammoth error.

Hilarita Opposition Exercise In Futility

The recent Tiburon City Council meeting, on the subject of the Hilarita Housing, was a true example of an exercise in futility.

The presentation of the opposition was clear and analytical in their arguments against the acceptance of the plan.

The fact that the density is twice that permitted by the Tiburon Master Plan, and that the maximum occupancy (510) would adversely affect our community by increased taxes, school and sewer loading, traffic congestion, additional police and fire protection, etc. had no effect on the pre-determined votes of three of our councilmen.

The environmental impact report is not necessary, although the entire county has recently voted approval on open space and proper planning.

The fact that the proposed project will not (as previously represented) afford housing for Tiburon senior citizens, nor our civil or local employees (based on income requirements) leads one to believe that Hilarita will be a housing project for low-income and welfare recipients now residing in outlying areas.

Mr. Weed and the Tiburon Ecumenical Association (a private organization) has intentionally misrepresented the facts to the people of Tiburon, and the city council has been derelict in their duties in approving the project without a public referendum.

Many citizens are concerned, and Mr. Wenig has a law suit in progress to stop the present plan for the construction of 112 housing units on the Hilarita site, and to reduce the number to the maximum permissible by the Tiburon Master Plan. He deserves the support of every resident in Tiburon and Belvedere.

Economic Balance Also Precarious

The ecology movement has brought about many good things. It has awakened public sentiment against abuses that have, until now, been pointed out only by a few conservationists. It has pressed for new legislation, long overdue, to correct these abuses, and to prevent new ones. And more importantly, it has brought a new consciousness to all levels of decision making, both public and private regarding the changing of our natural assets by the works of man.

However, the movement seems to have taken such a grip on the minds of certain individuals with crusading personalities that it sometimes becomes impossible to hold a rational discussion regarding the facts of economic reality without having to listen to the magic cliches and rituals that some of these individuals propound.

The use of zoning to confiscate private land, the threat and implementation of moratoriums and the "zone with water" philosophy has me concerned that city administrators and legislative bodies are instituting unattainable platitudinous goals, and contradictory regulations under the constant pressure of articulate and determined groups, of course without realizing that being articulate about a subject can be quite different than knowing about it.

Many ecologists and anti-growth types keep telling us how precarious the balance of nature is without knowing the balance of an economic system is just as precarious, and that if we stop the formation of new capital structures all other resources, both natural and man-made, will deteriorate. We would not be able to finance the needed conservation measures, nor finance the new technologies needed to replace resources already in short supply, nor finance the development of more sophisticated sources of energy. . .

'Dog And Pony Show' Corte Madera Hearing

Corte Madera's "public hearing" on the redevelopment project environmental impact report on Feb. 13 drew a rewarding turnout but, obviously, many citizens were not in attendance. For these, I might outline what they missed in what should have been billed as "An Evening with Hahn and Cooke."

For the better part of 2½ hours we listened to both lofty and lowly words, ranging from dissertations on high style, high fashion DSTM and the economic rationalization of a shopping center to discussion of the makeup of the subsurface soils in project areas A and B. These were provided in the dogmatic dialogue of Tom Cooke, by the soft lilting tones of Ernest Hahn and the varying monotones of Mr. Hahn's own "H-Troop." They were folowed by the "old question on the card trick," which effectively keeps the local citizenry from speaking and allows the main cast of characters to continue expounding their dogmatic "theology" in an unrestricted dog and pony show.

The finale oc the evening was most touching, when Bob Dunne descended from Villa Madera on high and offered a compromise to the dissenting citizenry (whose only "statements" of the evening came from some embarrassing applause at the wrong points and an equally embarrassing anti-center show of hands). He made an impassioned plea for unity in support of the regional center (the only expected topic of the evening) and for exclusion of the motel complex and the 580 condominium units (new wrinkles added in the impact report).

The planning commission will preside over the completion of "this section of track" at San Clemente School on the 27th and the city council will, on March 19, direct the final completion of the biggest railroading job in the history of Marin County.

Be sure to attend and witness one of those treasurable moments in history, the beginning of the destruction of what used to be a delightful, residential community.

Conspicuous Consumption Amid Alarms Of Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON — The following is submitted as a fairly typical string of events in the great American energy crisis of 1973. It took place in and around Washington but, with other names and places filling in the blanks, it is happening all over the country.

On Thursday, the Maryland Public Service Commission recessed hearings at which the Potomac Electric Power Co. is asking permission to build a $423 million expansion to its steam plant at Dickerson, on the Potomac River about 25 miles above the capital. The expansion is opposed by the Maryland People's Counsel and by environmentalists who maintain it would further pollute the air and the river, and destroy plans for parks in the surrounding area. The company insists the expansion is necessary to avoid future power failures as electricity consumption continues to multiply in the region.

On Friday, the new secretary of commerce, Frederick B. Dent, sent a letter to some 45,000 company presidents around the nation, warning that the fuel situation in some sections has neared "crisis proportions." He listed 19 ways in which the companies could conserve energy, including turning off lights where they are not in use, lowering thermostat settings and cutting off heat in unoccupied space.

FRIDAY AT 9 P.M., well into the long George Washington's birthday weekend, every single visible light without exception was burning brightly in one of Washington's biggest office buildings, on Pennsylvania Avenue three blocks west of the White House. By very rough estimate, I would say 250 windows were lit thus, and not one person was to be seen inside.

It is one of the recently built glass-box style structures, where it usually is impossible to open the windows and business goes on with the air conditioning turned up full blast in the summer, and the heat up to maximum setting in the winter. I had forgotten just whose building it was, so I slowed down to check, and it was. . .

Precisely: Pepco, the Potomac Electric Power Co., herald of power crises to come, petitioner for the right to expand and pollute to meet energy demands of the future.

It may not seem sporting to pick on poor Pepco, for its main offices use only a small fraction of the juice produced by its plant. But I think not. Burning all those lights during nonworking hours is important symbolically, as an example for other consumers here in its area, and as an example of how the utility, automobile, oil and gas industries countrywide are busily, even intentionally, creating the very crisis they are bewailing.

IT IS COMMON, of course, for electric power companies to emblazon on the skies and avenues with the most conspicuous consumption of their basic product, as a form of advertising. It also is common for them to be appearing before state regulatory agencies pleading for rate increases and exemptions from ever-tighter environmental controls on their plants and transmission lines.

But surely it is in bad taste, at least, to flaunt the wastage of electricity so flagrantly while predicting future shortages at the height of a current energy crisis. It looks particularly gauche when the Pepco vice president estimates, under questioning, that 85 per cent of the current used during the summer peaks he worries about is in buildings that have installed air conditioning during the last 30 years. Installed it, I might add, during a high-pressure sales campaign by the utilities companies to sell not only air conditioning but every other kind of electrical gadget.

Yet when the People's Counsel challenged the company vice president for basing his dire projections on those abnormal years of air-conditioning growth, the executive could only growl and back away. Of course he could not guarantee that his estimates were "absolutely accurate," he admitted.

The moral here is not that the energy crisis is a wholly trumped-up situation intended to justify price boosts, destructive expansion, strip-mining, petroleum pollution and use of dirtier grades of coal and oil. In some areas, the reality of the shortage penetrates deeper as the winter blows colder.

It is, however, to encourage consumers of energy to remember who created the shortage in the first place, and for them to follow the example of the Maryland People's Counsel in putting hard, stubborn questions to the companies before they allow them to manipulate today's situation to multiply tomorrow's profits.

Scientists' Report On SST Hazards Distorted In Media

WASHINGTON — No wonder there are able and honorable public officials who at times are moved to agony by some news stories.

Here is a case study on a matter so important that the facts deserve to be straightened out.

The Department of Transportation is authorized by Congress to determine whether flight exhaust in the stratosphere — whether supersonic or subsonic — is likely to create conditions harmful to man and nature by weakening the protecting ozone layer.

Even if the United States never builds an SST, this research is needed for two reasons: Other nations are building them and we will have to decide how to live with the environmental effects. Second, and more immediately important, subsonic jets are now flying in the stratosphere and could prove to be a greater environmental hazard — if they be a hazard at all — than the SST.

AS PART OF THIS research, the National Academy of Sciences, at the request of the Department of Transportation, has had a panel of scientists working for 18 months studying possible chemical disturbances in the stratosphere which could adversely affect life on earth. The first report of its findings were issued last week.

And, then, wham! The accounts in those newspapers which are read by most government officials, congressmen, administrators, bureaucrats and citizens in Washington gave foremost and exclusive emphasis to the most speculative and hypothetical forecasts of dangers contained in the report.

That is understandable on the traditional premise that the worst — or a forecast of the worst — gets the fullest play.

What really creates frustration on the part of public officials who have a responsibility for giving the public the facts is not primarily what was published — whatever the emphasis —but what was withheld.

Much that is crucial to providing the basis of information for most people was omitted.

THE POTENTIAL, conceivable or theoretical effects that might come from weakening the ozone shield and thus causing too much ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth dominated the news of the panel's findings. Only a miniscule few who would have read the text of this 44-page, 16,000-word document prepared by the scientists would know otherwise.

The public generally was not told that the warnings of possible harm are based on supposition, not on an established fact.

They would not know that the panel of scientsits stated that the amount of solar ultraviolet radiation might be "significantly harmful only 'if' jet-engine exhausts from high-altitude flights should lessen the amount of ozone in the stratosphere."

They would not know that the panel reported that whether SSTs would significantly alter the ozone in the stratosphere "is still a subject of scientific debate."

They would not know that the scientists recommended new and expanded research into eight different areas of the impact of flight on the ozone shield before solid conclusions can be reached.

IT SEEMS TO ME that quite a few important facts have been omitted in major coverage of the panel's report.

It is well to have these possible environmental dangers prominently set out. There is, as the panel says, sufficient knowledge to warrant concern. It is also understandable that there should be concern when the public gets only a one-sided presentation of the facts.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 23, 1963

An 8-year-old girl, Judy Aylwin of Greenbrae, was among those completing the latest of the 50-mile hikes which had become a craze in Marin.

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 23, 1953

Wind gusts of 78 miles per hour were measured at the Point Reyes lighthouse as full storm warnings were flown all along the coast from Point Blanco, Ore., to Point Concepcion in Santa Barbara County.

Total property tax levies in Marin County for fiscal 1952-53 were 12 per cent above the preceding year, the California Taxpayers Association reported.

COUNTRY PARSON

"A model husband is one whose wife wishes he'd hurry and retire so she can have him around the house all day."

THE NEEDLE

Australia's Prime Minister Whitlam wants a new national anthem to replace "God Save the Queen." He probably has in mind something like "Heaven Help the Prime Minister."

Just in case Canada's Robert Goulet ever has to sing the new Aussie number, we hope the words will be easier to remember than those in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Committee System Works — If Board Members Participate

I could blame it on the computer except that we didn't have computers in those days. Another one of the "Remember When?" items for 20 years ago appeared last Friday — the 16th: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors, on recommendation of chairman William D. Fusselman, abolished the committee system of county government."

I couldn't figure that one out at first, because I have always believed in the committee system — had been working under it for 11 years. Finally it all came back. One member of the board completely disliked one of the others — said so openly and told me he wouldn't serve on any committee with the other one. So, I thought if the board became a committee of the whole it would solve the problem.

I served as chairman for 1953-54, then upon being made chairman again in 1961, I immediately set up committees and sought and received that newly constituted board approval. Like the ad for one of Lawrence Welk's sponsors, "I think this board should, too."

THE EDITORIAL in the Wednesday issue of the I-J had two paragraphs which bear on the fundamental situation which would be corrected by a committee system. Here are the paragraphs:

"Although the supervisors' salaries are near the level of fulltime pay, the board consistently sloughs off its chores onto commissions and committees made up of citizens who are expected to serve without pay.

"In doing so, the supervisors both complicate the already complicated structure of overlapping governmental agencies and deny citizens a direct route to those they have elected (and pay) to run their government."

Here they are with jurisdiction over only one-third of the county population, who pay only one-third of the tax money, lording it over the 11 cities who comprise two-thirds of the population and pungle up two-thirds of the tax money.

It's worse than disgusting to see them pampering their ego by lining up with Werner von Gundell's mandate that the cities shan't have the funds for open space spent in their community unless they approve his general plan.

You know, there is something here that is being lost sight of. This chap von Gundell just a short time ago was proclaiming from the hilltops that he was not the author of the general plan, that he had just helped. Where now is Sol Silver, "the architect of the plan"? And where are the others that were sent out by the van to do the scouting before he would appear? They don't seem to be around anymore — just von Gundell — the man who was quoted in the Marin Magazine as shunning governmental preoccupation with rules and procedures that dictate how people should act.

A Look At France Under 'United Left'

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — A France without a nuclear force or television advertising. A France with easy divorce and nationalized big industries. A France more favorable to the United States.

This could be the situation if the newly combined Communist and Socialist parties win parliamentary elections March 4 and 11 and form the only Communist-Socialist government in the West except for Cuba and Chile.

The experts predict the left will fall short by about 15 seats in winning a majority in the parliament, scaring the wits out of the ruling party headed by President Georges Pompidou. But the parties of the current majority (called Gaullist because they follow in the path of the late Charles de Gaulle) will retain control of parliament and thus of the government, the experts say.

There are other possibilities. If neither side has a clear majority, the Gaullists could combine with center parties and still keep control.

To win a majority of 246 seats, the Socialist-Communist parties would have to capture 158 seats more than they now have—an unlikely landslide. If they did win, Pompidou still could appoint a government of his own followers, since in France the parliament does not approve the choice of ministers.

Pompidou also could dissolve the parliament and call for new elections, or he could step down from the presidency.

If France does go Communist-Socialist, it could be like East Europe in some ways, but not in most ways, according to the parties' June 1972 common program.

Banks and nine major industries would be nationalized, one per cent of the economy. Giant companies such as Honeywell-Bull (computers), Rhone-Poulenc (chemicals) and Pechine-Ugine-Kuhlmann (steel) would be state-run. (France already has some nationalized firms including Renault, the auto maker.)

Critics of the United Left predict its program would ruin the economy. They say economic "reforms" would cost four times what the Communist-Socialists promise and that nationalized banks would mean little credit for the private sector. Diplomats predict many French would move their money to Swiss or German banks.

In foreign policy, the Communist-Socialist platform calls for peaceful relations with all countries. Diplomats predict a Communist France would be more favorable to the United States to counter fears among the French that they would be under the thumb of Russia.

France would participate in the Geneva disarmament conference and the troop cut conference in Vienna that Paris now snubs, according to the Socialist-Communist campaign promises. France would abolish its nuclear force, cease nuclear testing and refuse military aid to Spain, Greece and Portugal.

France would not put its troops back into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that De Gaulle withdrew, but would remain a NATO member.

France would stay in the Common Market, but seek more benefits for the working class, the United Left promises. France would demand entry of both Germanys into the United Nations and would recognize East Germany, North Korea and a Communist Cambodia.

The Communist-Socialist platform promises freedom of assembly, expression, strikes and religion. The present voluntary religious instruction in schools would be restricted to privately-financed schools.

The left promises cheaper subway tickets, more state kindergartens, funds for sculptors to decorate all public buildings, state support for the film industry, a 40-hour week (now 44 hours), free abortion, sex education and divorce by mutual consent.

The voting age would be reduced to 18 and students given participation in university management. A Supreme Court would be formed. The powers of the president would be curbed and his term cut from six to five years, with power given to the prime minister as in Britain, Germany and other countries, the platform says.

All political parties could continue to function. The Communist-Socialist politicians promise they would step out of power if voted out. Such a promise also was made in Czechoslovakia in 1948.

Some political columnists predict that if the Gaullists squeak by in the elections , the net result could be the emergence of a strong, anti-Communist, democratic Socialist party.

Legislator Shocked By Foul Talk

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Freshman Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales said yesterday he is "shocked" by the foul language used by fellow lawmakers in the Capitol.

"The English language suffers a great degradation in the halls of the Legislature," the Bakersfield Democrat said. "I was really shocked when I first heard all the swearing. It reminds me a lot of the Marine Corps boot camp I was in."

Gonzales, who gained notoriety several weeks ago for public criticism of lobbyists, said he thought legislators should clean up their language because "we are on public display."

"I'm not a puritan," said the former Latin American studies professor. "But there are a lot of youngsters walking down the halls in tours and I'm sure the language would shock them."

"I came into this place like a little kid, expecting the Legislature to be a very dignified, respectable group," he said. "I was amazed at the kind of language used around here."

The mustachioed lawmaker said he expects to "take some heat" from fellow legislators for his criticism of their language just as he did for unkindly remarks toward lobbyists.

When Gonzales first came to the Capitol, he was the butt of many jokes by fellow lawmakers over his complaints of the ways and influences of lobbyists.

Now that the scoffing has subsided, he said he plans to introduce legislation forcing lobbyists to disclose every favor they do for legislators.

"I'm not trying to badmouth any individual lobbyist," Gonzales said in an interview. "I think the whole system is a little bit askew because of the lobbyists' influence on the legislative process I don't deny their right to lobby, it's just how it's done."

After seeing the legislative process first-hand, he's even more disturbed and irked by happenings like these:

Frequent references by lawmakers to "bag bills." At first he was puzzled by the unfamiliar term. He became angered when he learned such bills "are introduced in exchange for financial contributions to a campaign fund by a lobbyist."

Weekly invitations to "Moose milk" luncheons sponsored by lobbyists for legislators at plush Capitol restaurants. "I haven't attended any of them and I'm sure my absence has been conspicuous. I really can't see any purpose in that kind of thing. I know where to find lobbyists if I need their advice."

Big Chunk Of Slain Wife's Estate To Bankrupt Husband

OAKLAND (UPI) — The murdered wife of bankrupt investor Hugh T. Harrison left him $800,000 in real estate and personal property and part of the income from an $8 million trust, probate court records showed today.

Mrs. Ellen Eccles Harrison, 67, and her son, Warren Eccles Merrill, 45, were found shot to death in a car parked near Richmond Golf and County Club on Feb. 1.

Harrison, 69, the inventor of No-Doz, who filed for bankruptcy in Nevada last August because of a series of disastrous mining investments, was in Alameda County Jail at the time of his wife's death following his arrest on charges of defrauding an elderly widow.

Terms of Mrs. Harrison's will were disclosed in Salt Lake City, Utah, where it was admitted to probate Wednesday with an estimate that her personal property was worth more than $1 million.

The will, made June 1, 1966, left a variety of jewelry and family heirlooms to relatives and friends. Her husband of 31 years received all real estate and personal property, including a home in Piedmont, two houses at Lake Tahoe, a condominium in Palm Springs, a Rolls Royce and a Cadillac, two speed boats at Lake Tahoe, and the furnishings of the various homes. Their value is an estimated $800,000.

He also received one-quarter interest in a family trust created by Mrs. Harrison in 1966 according to attorneys representing the Eccles family, which made its fortune in construction and investment.

The lawyers said the remaining three-fourths of the annual income from the trust, which holds securities worth nearly $8 million, would go "in substantially equal portions" to five grandchildren and Mrs. Marjorie Merrill of Zephyr Cove, Nev., Warren Merrill's divorced first wife.

Harrison filed for bankruptcy in Reno federal court last Aug. 21, listing assets of $456,000 and debts of $1.5 million.

Waters Seeks Disclosure Of Hitch's Job Contract

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A suit to compel the regents of the University of California to disclose the employment contract of U.C. president Charles J. Hitch was filed in Superior Court here today by former U.S. Atty. John P. Hyland.

Citing the fact his client, syndicated columnist Earl G. Waters, had sought the record and was refused by Hitch and the regents, Hyland said the denial was a clear violation of the Public Records Act. Watrers' column "Sacramento Scene" appears in the Independent-Journal.

Hyland pointed out the case could have far-reaching effect. "The precise question involved here has not been fully adjudicated since passage of the act in 1968," he said. "If the regents were to be sustained in this denial, it would mean that every county, city and other local entity could make secret deals in the hiring of executives.

"The very manner in which the contract was approved in executive session is reprehensible. To hold that it is not a public record merely because it was adopted in executive session is a blatant distortion of the whole intent of the Legislature. The purpose of both the Brown Act on public meetings and the Bagley-Marks Public Records Act was to open up information about government."

The mandamus action named Hitch and regents chairman Dean A. Watkins as respondents and asked the court to order them to make available to public inspection "all documents containing terms and conditions of employment executed between Hitch and the regents."

Hyland said his client became interested in viewing the contract "because of rumors that the contract exceeds the bounds of propriety for public contracts of this nature".

He added, "Apparently there is some basis for the rumors otherwise what are they trying to hide from the public?"

Man Bound Over To Higher Court

Richard Sheldon Knowles, 21, of San Anselmo was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of burglary.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered him to appear March 5 after hearing the evidence against him.

Police said they found Knowles in the San Anselmo Veterinary Hospital, 780 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, when they checked out an alarm Feb. 12.

Library Showing Civil War Items

In the collection are newspapers dated 1861 and 1864, and one newspaper printed on the back of wallpaper because of a lack of paper during a siege.

Also on exhibit are letters from a Civil War correspondent, loaned by Margery Sell. Photography by Jesse Apperson of Novato is on display on bulletin boards in the reference room.

Farm Bureau Head To Give Address

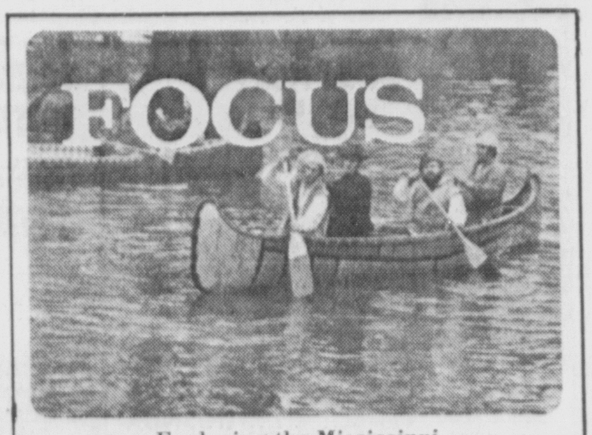
Grant will speak about air and water pollution and land use planning and the bureau will honor 50-year members.



Exploring the Mississippi

This spring several men will reenact the 1673 voyage of the explorers Father Jacques Marquette and Louis Jolliet. With five other men, Marquette and Jolliet began their nearly 3,000-mile journey at St. Ignace, in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Paddling down the western shore of Lake Michigan to Green Bay, Wisconsin, they navigated the Fox and the Wisconsin rivers to the Mississippi. They traveled down the Mississippi to the Arkansas River. Their return route took them up the Illinois River to Lake Michigan and Green Bay. The reenactment is sponsored by the Mississippi River Tricentennial Committee.

DO YOU KNOW — Where is Marquette University located?

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Committee System Works — If Board Members Participate

I could blame it on the computer except that we didn't have computers in those days. Another one of the "Remember When?" items for 20 years ago appeared last Friday — the 16th: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors, on recommendation of chairman William D. Fusselman, abolished the committee system of county government."

I couldn't figure that one out at first, because I have always believed in the committee system — had been working under it for 11 years. Finally it all came back. One member of the board completely disliked one of the others — said so openly and told me he wouldn't serve on any committee with the other one. So, I thought if the board became a committee of the whole it would solve the problem.

I served as chairman for 1953-54, then upon being made chairman again in 1961, I immediately set up committees and sought and received that newly constituted board approval. Like the ad for one of Lawrence Welk's sponsors, "I think this board should, too."

THE EDITORIAL in the Wednesday issue of the I-J had two paragraphs which bear on the fundamental situation which would be corrected by a committee system. Here are the paragraphs:

"Although the supervisors' salaries are near the level of fulltime pay, the board consistently sloughs off its chores onto commissions and committees made up of citizens who are expected to serve without pay.

"In doing so, the supervisors both complicate the already complicated structure of overlapping governmental agencies and deny citizens a direct route to those they have elected (and pay) to run their government."

Here they are with jurisdiction over only one-third of the county population, who pay only one-third of the tax money, lording it over the 11 cities who comprise two-thirds of the population and pungle up two-thirds of the tax money.

It's worse than disgusting to see them pampering their ego by lining up with Werner von Gundell's mandate that the cities shan't have the funds for open space spent in their community unless they approve his general plan.

You know, there is something here that is being lost sight of. This chap von Gundell just a short time ago was proclaiming from the hilltops that he was not the author of the general plan, that he had just helped. Where now is Sol Silver, "the architect of the plan"? And where are the others that were sent out by the van to do the scouting before he would appear? They don't seem to be around anymore — just von Gundell — the man who was quoted in the Marin Magazine as shunning governmental preoccupation with rules and procedures that dictate how people should act.

A Look At France Under 'United Left'

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — A France without a nuclear force or television advertising. A France with easy divorce and nationalized big industries. A France more favorable to the United States.

This could be the situation if the newly combined Communist and Socialist parties win parliamentary elections March 4 and 11 and form the only Communist-Socialist government in the West except for Cuba and Chile.

French political columnists and Western diplomats emphasize it is possible, but not probable, that the "United Left" will take power.

The experts predict the left will fall short by about 15 seats in winning a majority in the parliament, scaring the wits out of the ruling party headed by President Georges Pompidou. But the parties of the current majority (called Gaullist because they follow in the path of the late Charles de Gaulle) will retain control of parliament and thus of the government, the experts say.

There are other possibilities. If neither side has a clear majority, the Gaullists could combine with center parties and still keep control.

To win a majority of 246 seats, the Socialist-Communist parties would have to capture 158 seats more than they now have—an unlikely landslide. If they did win, Pompidou still could appoint a government of his own followers, since in France the parliament does not approve the choice of ministers.

Pompidou also could dissolve the parliament and call for new elections, or he could step down from the presidency.

If France does go Communist -Socialist, it could be like East Europe in some ways, but not in most ways, according to the parties' June 1972 common program.

Banks and nine major industries would be nationalized, one per cent of the economy. Giant companies such as Honeywell-Bull (computers), Rhone-Poulenc (chemicals) and Pechine-Ugine-Kuhlmann (steel) would be state-run. (France already has some nationalized firms including Renault, the auto maker.)

Critics of the United Left predict its program would ruin the economy. They say economic "reforms" would cost four times what the Communist-Socialists promise and that nationalized banks would mean little credit for the private sector. Diplomats predict many French would move their money to Swiss or German banks.

In foreign policy, the Communist-Socialist platform calls for peaceful relations with all countries. Diplomats predict a Communist France would be more favorable to the United States to counter fears among the French that they would be under the thumb of Russia.

France would participate in the Geneva disarmament conference and the troop cut conference in Vienna that Paris now snubs, according to the Socialist-Communist campaign promises. France would abolish its nuclear force, cease nuclear testing and refuse military aid to Spain, Greece and Portugal.

France would not put its troops back into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that De Gaulle withdrew, but would remain a NATO member.

France would stay in the Common Market, but seek more benefits for the working class, the United Left promises. France would demand entry of both Germanys into the United Nations and would recognize East Germany, North Korea and a Communist Cambodia.

Farms would not be collectivized but the purchase and rental of farm land would be more controlled.

Small and medium businesses —the great restaurants, perfume, wine and fashion enterprises of France — would continue as they are now.

The Communist-Socialist platform promises freedom of assembly, expression, strikes and religion. The present voluntary religious instruction in schools would be restricted to privately-financed schools.

The left promises cheaper subway tickets, more state kindergartens, funds for sculptors to decorate all public buildings, state support for the film industry, a 40-hour week (now 44 hours), free abortion, sex education and divorce by mutual consent.

Capital punishment, the secret police and TV commercials would be abolished. So would censorship of books, films, newspapers and television.

The voting age would be reduced to 18 and students given participation in university management. A Supreme Court would be formed. The powers of the president would be curbed and his term cut from six to five years, with power given to the prime minister as in Britain, Germany and other countries, the platform says.

All political parties could continue to function. The Communist-Socialist politicians promise they would step out of power if voted out. Such a promise also was made in Czechoslovakia in 1948.

Some political columnists predict that if the Gaullists squeak by in the elections , the net result could be the emergence of a strong, anti-Communist, democratic Socialist party.

Legislator Shocked By Foul Talk

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Freshman Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales said yesterday he is "shocked" by the foul language used by fellow lawmakers in the Capitol.

"The English language suffers a great degradation in the halls of the Legislature," the Bakersfield Democrat said. "I was really shocked when I first heard all the swearing. It reminds me a lot of the Marine Corps boot camp I was in."

Gonzales, who gained notoriety several weeks ago for public criticism of lobbyists, said he thought legislators should clean up their language because "we are on public display."

"I'm not a puritan," said the former Latin American studies professor. "But there are a lot of youngsters walking down the halls in tours and I'm sure the language would shock them."

"I came into this place like a little kid, expecting the Legislature to be a very dignified, respectable group," he said. "I was amazed at the kind of language used around here."

The mustachioed lawmaker said he expects to "take some heat" from fellow legislators for his criticism of their language just as he did for unkindly remarks toward lobbyists.

When Gonzales first came to the Capitol, he was the butt of many jokes by fellow lawmakers over his complaints of the ways and influences of lobbyists.

Now that the scoffing has subsided, he said he plans to introduce legislation forcing lobbyists to disclose every favor they do for legislators.

"I'm not trying to badmouth any individual lobbyist," Gonzales said in an interview. "I think the whole system is a little bit askew because of the lobbyists' influence on the legislative process I don't deny their right to lobby, it's just how it's done."

After seeing the legislative process first-hand, he's even more disturbed and irked by happenings like these:

Frequent references by lawmakers to "bag bills." At first he was puzzled by the unfamiliar term. He became angered when he learned such bills "are introduced in exchange for financial contributions to a campaign fund by a lobbyist."

Weekly invitations to "Moose milk" luncheons sponsored by lobbyists for legislators at plush Capitol restaurants. "I haven't attended any of them and I'm sure my absence has been conspicuous. I really can't see any purpose in that kind of thing. I know where to find lobbyists if I need their advice."

Big Chunk Of Slain Wife's Estate To Bankrupt Husband

OAKLAND (UPI) — The murdered wife of bankrupt investor Hugh T. Harrison left him $800,000 in real estate and personal property and part of the income from an $8 million trust, probate court records showed today.

Mrs. Ellen Eccles Harrison, 67, and her son, Warren Eccles Merrill, 45, were found shot to death in a car parked near Richmond Golf and County Club on Feb. 1.

Harrison, 69, the inventor of No-Doz, who filed for bankruptcy in Nevada last August because of a series of disastrous mining investments, was in Alameda County Jail at the time of his wife's death following his arrest on charges of defrauding an elderly widow.

Terms of Mrs. Harrison's will were disclosed in Salt Lake City, Utah, where it was admitted to probate Wednesday with an estimate that her personal property was worth more than $1 million.

The will, made June 1, 1966, left a variety of jewelry and family heirlooms to relatives and friends. Her husband of 31 years received all real estate and personal property, including a home in Piedmont, two houses at Lake Tahoe, a condominium in Palm Springs, a Rolls Royce and a Cadillac, two speed boats at Lake Tahoe, and the furnishings of the various homes. Their value is an estimated $800,000.

He also received one-quarter interest in a family trust created by Mrs. Harrison in 1966 according to attorneys representing the Eccles family, which made its fortune in construction and investment.

The lawyers said the remaining three-fourths of the annual income from the trust, which holds securities worth nearly $8 million, would go "in substantially equal portions" to five grandchildren and Mrs. Marjorie Merrill of Zephyr Cove, Nev., Warren Merrill's divorced first wife.

Harrison filed for bankruptcy in Reno federal court last Aug. 21, listing assets of $456,000 and debts of $1.5 million.

Waters Seeks Disclosure Of Hitch's Job Contract

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A suit to compel the regents of the University of California to disclose the employment contract of U.C. president Charles J. Hitch was filed in Superior Court here today by former U.S. Atty. John P. Hyland.

Citing the fact his client, syndicated columnist Earl G. Waters, had sought the record and was refused by Hitch and the regents, Hyland said the denial was a clear violation of the Public Records Act. Watrers' column "Sacramento Scene" appears in the Independent-Journal.

Hyland pointed out the case could have far-reaching effect. "The precise question involved here has not been fully adjudicated since passage of the act in 1968," he said. "If the regents were to be sustained in this denial, it would mean that every county, city and other local entity could make secret deals in the hiring of executives.

"The very manner in which the contract was approved in executive session is reprehensible. To hold that it is not a public record merely because it was adopted in executive session is a blatant distortion of the whole intent of the Legislature. The purpose of both the Brown Act on public meetings and the Bagley-Marks Public Records Act was to open up information about government."

The mandamus action named Hitch and regents chairman Dean A. Watkins as respondents and asked the court to order them to make available to public inspection "all documents containing terms and conditions of employment executed between Hitch and the regents."

Hyland said his client became interested in viewing the contract "because of rumors that the contract exceeds the bounds of propriety for public contracts of this nature".

He added, "Apparently there is some basis for the rumors otherwise what are they trying to hide from the public?"

Man Bound Over To Higher Court

Richard Sheldon Knowles, 21, of San Anselmo was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of burglary.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered him to appear March 5 after hearing the evidence against him.

Police said they found Knowles in the San Anselmo Veterinary Hospital, 780 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, when they checked out an alarm Feb. 12.

Library Showing Civil War Items

In the collection are newspapers dated 1861 and 1864, and one newspaper printed on the back of wallpaper because of a lack of paper during a siege.

Also on exhibit are letters from a Civil War correspondent, loaned by Margery Sell. Photography by Jesse Apperson of Novato is on display on bulletin boards in the reference room.

Farm Bureau Head To Give Address

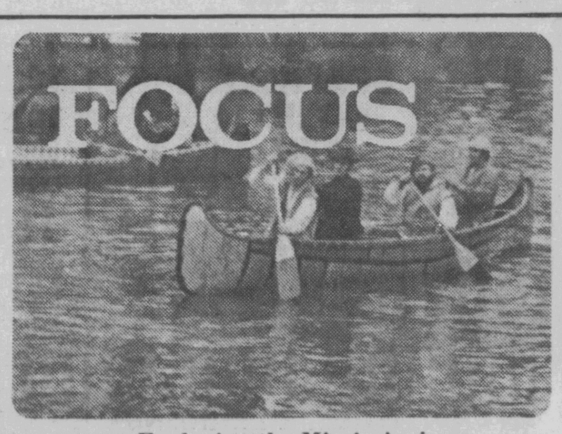
Grant will speak about air and water pollution and land use planning and the bureau will honor 50-year members.



Exploring the Mississippi

This spring several men will reenact the 1673 voyage of the explorers Father Jacques Marquette and Louis Jolliet. With five other men, Marquette and Jolliet began their nearly 3,000-mile journey at St. Ignace, in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Paddling down the western shore of Lake Michigan to Green Bay, Wisconsin, they navigated the Fox and the Wisconsin rivers to the Mississippi. They traveled down the Mississippi to the Arkansas River. Their return route took them up the Illinois River to Lake Michigan and Green Bay. The reenactment is sponsored by the Mississippi River Tricentennial Committee.

DO YOU KNOW — Where is Marquette University located?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Yes.

LOOKING TO 1976

What Party Has Connally's Ear?

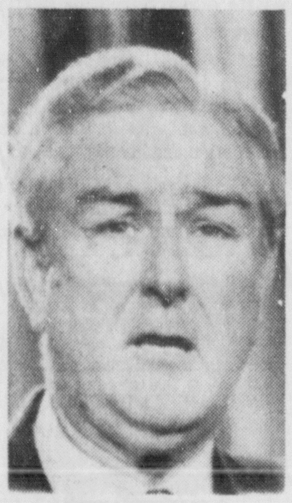
By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Democratic Party chieftain Robert Strauss was under siege from reporters, the questioners insistently prodding him to disclose what he would do about persuading John Connally not to bolt to the Republican Party.

"I don't want to be presumptuous," one reporter sitting around the big breakfast table said, "but if I were in your shoes when you meet with Mr. Connally soon, I would tell him, 'John, you are the one man that could pull this all together — for me and for the party. You are the one man who could win for the Democrats in 1976.' "

Strauss, who shows genial grace under such grilling, merely smiled and answered, "You said that — not I." But none of his questioners that morning had any doubts but what this would be the Strauss "pitch" to Connally, a man who has been Strauss' long-time intimate friend and cohort in the crucible of Texas politics.

Thus, "Can Strauss hold Connally?" becomes the first question that must be asked about Connally's future — not whether President Nixon has or has not in his secret heart chosen Connally as the fairest of the fair, the one man on whom he



JOHN CONNALLY

Some people think that Connally sounds and even looks a great deal like his old mentor, Lyndon Johnson. But the most relevant similarity to be noted about Connally today is that his political situation is a lot like that of Dwight Eisenhower's when the general first came into political view after World War II. At that time, it will be recalled, Eisenhower was being wooed for the presidential nomination by both parties, first by Democrats and then — successfully — by the Republicans. Just about everyone in those days thought that Eisenhower was a "winner," as he, indeed, turned out to be. Thus both parties wanted him. Now both parties see "magic" in Connally. And both — or, at least, many leaders in both parties — are after him today.

But there are decided differences between Connally and Eisenhower. Everybody, or almost everybody, liked Ike, at least at first. But Connally has his enemies. The liberals, the youth, the blacks, many in the intellectual community: all of these on the Democratic left have little use for the big man from Texas.

Connally also has made a lot of foes among "regular" Democrats in Texas and throughout the South.

At this same breakfast table where Strauss was under fire from questioners, Democrat Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia told this same group of reporters a few days later, "I wouldn't support Connally. He is a renegade."

Thus, Connally will probably say to Strauss when they meet: "You may be right about me winning if I get the Democratic nomination. But how do I get the nomination — particularly when so many of my enemies among the youth, the blacks, and the intellectuals will be so heavily represented at the Democratic National Convention?"

"Thanks, but no thanks," is what Connally will probably say to Strauss.

But it does not follow that Connally will find clear sailing in winning a presidential bid among the Republicans. Even the much-loved Eisenhower had his troubles, almost losing out to Robert Taft.

Everybody is writing that Vice-President Spiro Agnew is the man Connally will have to beat and that the contest will be a rugged one for both. But really no one seems to have noticed that in this looming head-on collision between Connally and Agnew lies a golden opportunity for another candidate, one of a more moderate stripe, to slide in and pick up the nomination.

In other words there would be a strong possibility that Connally and Agnew would divide up the conservative votes in the primaries, opening the door for a moderate, such as a Rockefeller or a Percy, to win enough primaries and thereby gain enough delegates to win the nomination.

And even now some 15 moderate GOP senators are talking,

GOV. JIMMY CARTER

planning, and even plotting to make the most out of an Agnew-Connally collision. They already have agreed to unite behind just one moderate candidate in 1976 to avoid splitting their own moderate support among the voters.

There's another thought about the Connally future that should be mentioned here: There are Southern leaders who know Connally very well and see him frequently who say they are convinced that Connally, in the end, won't be a candidate for either party. They believe him when he says he prefers to stay in the private sector now, confining his politics to being the President's "close adviser" from the outside of government. This seems improbable. But I mention it merely because I think that in this case the improbable may well turn out to be the fact.

Fate Of Pier Up To Voters

Councilmen James Reidy Jr., Robert Gabriel and Arthur Rinck —all of whom face reelection in the upcoming municipal balloting — announced Wednesday they no longer favor demolishing the pier.

The three, and Mayor Anthony Ditrui, voted last month to use 1973-74 budget funds to tear down the wooden structure and the adjacent Newcomb Pier on Nov. 1.

However, they said that public pressure and the approval of the coastal initiative last November convinced them that an independent study and a popular vote should be taken.

Housing Authority Plans Action Against Vandalism

The Marin County Housing Authority board has declared it will "no longer tolerate permissive attitudes" which have resulted in security problems and vandalism in Marin City's public housing project and will take steps to remedy the situation.

The board passed a resolution of support Wednesday night for the Marin City sheriff's substation and its personnel and indicated it would support the sheriff in any way possible to solve the community's law enforcement problems, according to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the agency.

Shepherd said the board also asked the sheriff's department for a report on the small shops and taverns around Hayden's Market in the commercial center, which is owned by the authority.

"The sheriff's department has told us that much illegal activity takes place around that barbershop, pool hall and bar and that they have a lot of problems there," the executive director said.

Once the report is completed, he said the authority board will decide whether to close the area, with the exception of the market, which would not be closed.

Shepherd said the community has been plagued by extensive vandalism, dumping of garbage, robberies and burglaries.

"We want to do whatever we can to stop this," he added.

Quentin Point Plans Group To Be Formed

Members of the Ecumenical Association for Housing plans to create a coalition of groups to prepare a plan for San Quentin Point in the event the prison is closed after 1975.

The association has announced it is seeking representatives of conservation, parks and recreation, open space and housing groups to join in preparing a conceptual plan within a year for the prison property.

A recent bill, initiated by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, puts control of prison property disposition with the legislature rather than the General Services Administration of state government.

LOOKING TO 1976

What Party Has Connally's Ear?

By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Democratic Party chieftain Robert Strauss was under siege from reporters, the questioners insistently prodding him to disclose what he would do about persuading John Connally not to bolt to the Republican Party.

"I don't want to be presumptuous," one reporter sitting around the big breakfast table said, "but if I were in your shoes when you meet with Mr. Connally soon, I would tell him, 'John, you are the one man that could pull this all together — for me and for the party. You are the one man who could win for the Democrats in 1976.'"

Strauss, who shows genial grace under such grilling, merely smiled and answered, "You said that — not I." But none of his questioners that morning had any doubts but what this would be the Strauss "pitch" to Connally, a man who has been Strauss' long-time intimate friend and cohort in the crucible of Texas politics.

Thus, "Can Strauss hold Connally?" becomes the first question that must be asked about Connally's future — not whether President Nixon has or has not in his secret heart chosen Connally as the fairest of the fair, the one man on whom he

Some people think that Connally sounds and even looks a great deal like his old mentor, Lyndon Johnson. But the most relevant similarity to be noted about Connally today is that his political situation is a lot like that of Dwight Eisenhower's when the general first came into political view after World War II. At that time, it will be recalled, Eisenhower was being wooed for the presidential nomination by both parties, first by Democrats and then — successfully — by the Republicans. Just about everyone in those days thought that Eisenhower was a "winner," as he, indeed, turned out to be. Thus both parties wanted him. Now both parties see "magic" in Connally. And both — or, at least, many leaders in both parties — are after him today.

But there are decided differences between Connally and Eisenhower. Everybody, or almost everybody, liked Ike, at least at first. But Connally has his enemies. The liberals, the youth, the blacks, many in the intellectual community: all of these on the Democratic left have little use for the big man from Texas.

Connally also has made a lot of foes among "regular" Democrats in Texas and throughout the South.

At this same breakfast table where Strauss was under fire from questioners, Democrat Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia told this same group of reporters a few days later, "I wouldn't support Connally. He is a renegade."

Thus, Connally will probably say to Strauss when they meet: "You may be right about me winning if I get the Democratic nomination. But how do I get the nomination — particularly when so many of my enemies among the youth, the blacks, and the intellectuals will be so heavily represented at the Democratic National Convention?"

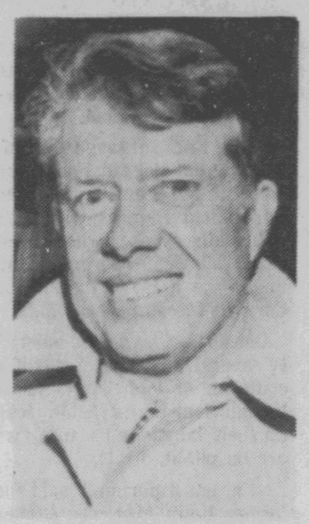
"Thanks, but no thanks," is what Connally will probably say to Strauss.

But it does not follow that Connally will find clear sailing in winning a presidential bid among the Republicans. Even the much-loved Eisenhower had his troubles, almost losing out to Robert Taft.

Everybody is writing that Vice-President Spiro Agnew is the man Connally will have to beat and that the contest will be a rugged one for both. But really no one seems to have noticed that in this looming head-on collision between Connally and Agnew lies a golden opportunity for another candidate, one of a more moderate stripe, to slide in and pick up the nomination.

In other words there would be a strong possibility that Connally and Agnew would divide up the conservative votes in the primaries, opening the door for a moderate, such as a Rockefeller or a Percy, to win enough primaries and thereby gain enough delegates to win the nomination.

And even now some 15 moderate GOP senators are talking,



GOV. JIMMY CARTER

planning, and even plotting to make the most out of an Agnew-Connally collision. They already have agreed to unite behind just one moderate candidate in 1976 to avoid splitting their own moderate support among the voters.

There's another thought about the Connally future that should be mentioned here: There are Southern leaders who know Connally very well and see him frequently who say they are convinced that Connally, in the end, won't be a candidate for either party. They believe him when he says he prefers to stay in the private sector now, confining his politics to being the President's "close adviser" from the outside of government. This seems improbable. But I mention it merely because I think that in this case the improbable may well turn out to be the fact.

Fate Of Pier Up To Voters

Councilmen James Reidy Jr., Robert Gabriel and Arthur Rinck —all of whom face reelection in the upcoming municipal balloting — announced Wednesday they no longer favor demolishing the pier.

The three, and Mayor Anthony Ditrui, voted last month to use 1973-74 budget funds to tear down the wooden structure and the adjacent Newcomb Pier on Nov. 1.

However, they said that public pressure and the approval of the coastal initiative last November convinced them that an independent study and a popular vote should be taken.

Housing Authority Plans Action Against Vandalism

The Marin County Housing Authority board has declared it will "no longer tolerate permissive attitudes" which have resulted in security problems and vandalism in Marin City's public housing project and will take steps to remedy the situation.

The board passed a resolution of support Wednesday night for the Marin City sheriff's substation and its personnel and indicated it would support the sheriff in any way possible to solve the community's law enforcement problems, according to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the agency.

Shepherd said the board also asked the sheriff's department for a report on the small shops and taverns around Hayden's Market in the commercial center, which is owned by the authority.

"The sheriff's department has told us that much illegal activity takes place around that barbershop, pool hall and bar and that they have a lot of problems there," the executive director said.

Once the report is completed, he said the authority board will decide whether to close the area, with the exception of the market, which would not be closed.

Shepherd said the community has been plagued by extensive vandalism, dumping of garbage, robberies and burglaries.

"We want to do whatever we can to stop this," he added.

Quentin Point Plans Group To Be Formed

Members of the Ecumenical Association for Housing plans to create a coalition of groups to prepare a plan for San Quentin Point in the event the prison is closed after 1975.

The association has announced it is seeking representatives of conservation, parks and recreation, open space and housing groups to join in preparing a conceptual plan within a year for the prison property.

A recent bill, initiated by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, puts control of prison property disposition with the legislature rather than the General Services Administration of state government.
